Tuesday will possibly be remembered as the greatest day in the history of the school. The community almost solidly came out and listened with a great deal of profit to themselves at a stirring address on education by Honorable Judge Kerr. During the day a friend of the school became very much interested in the boys and girls and offered a Gold Medal to the best all round pupil for the year. This Medal is to be continued for five years. A music class will be organized in the school and will be conducted by Mrs. John H. Taylor of Littleton.

SOME FISH

This is a fish story, yet absolutely true. Paul Robinson made a big haul when he found a huge sturgeon on his slide in the Roanoke river yesterday. His automobile was the mecca of everyone on the streets when the news spread. The sturgeon was about five and one half feet long and weighed exactly 110 pounds. It was sold to Francis and Pollard who in turn cut it up into small quantities and distributed it among the many eager ones who wanted to see just how a big fish tasted. Some fish.

LOCAL MILLS AT CAROLINA EXPOSITION

Both Rosemary Manufacturing Company and Roanoke Mills Company are planning Exhibitions for "Made in Carolina" Building.

MR. F. F. PATTERSON IN CHARGE

F. F. Patterson, assistant manager of the Rosemary Mills, of Roanoke Rapids, N. C., and representing the Roanoke Mills, of the same place, arrived in Charlotte today to begin the preliminary work of installing the largest exhibit of textile work ever made in North Carolina, which is to be seen in the Made in Carolina's Exposition here the two weeks of September 24—October 6. The two mills will install four looms, two Jacquards, in the Made in Carolina's Exposition Building, two from the Rosemary and two from the Roanoke Mills, on which table damasks, napkins and cloths will be manufactured. The Rosemary and Roanoke Mills are the largest and finest manufacturers of damask cloths in the world.

Besides the exhibits of the manufactured and process of manufacturing goods in the mills' show, there will be side exhibits that will attract much attention. There will be a completely furnished dining room, with table spread over with a fine damask cloth, and with napkins to match, and silver service and dishes; and a sitting room with a display of patterns of table cloths and napkins.

Little-Long Company will have on display during the two weeks of the Exposition, in their show windows, the patterns of cloths and napkins manufactured by the Rosemary and Roanoke Mills. These goods will be on sale at the Little-Long store, a representative of the Textile Distributing Company, of Petersburg, Va., being here for that purpose. Out of town orders for these goods will be handled through parcel post.

All looms of the Rosemary and Roanoke Mills exhibit here will be motor driven, and there will be 2,100 watts of lights installed at the exhibit to give plenty of the right kind of light for viewing the cloth patterns. Besides Mr. Patterson, the assistant manager of the Rosemary Mill, there will be four others here to assist in the exhibit. Mr. Patterson's father, S. F. Patterson, is general manager and president of the mills, both of which are separate organizations but under the same management.

The cost of the exhibit to be placed here at the Exposition will be more than $5,000. F. F. Patterson estimated today.

The color scheme of Royal blue and white, with the use of chrysanthemums, will be carried into effect in the exhibits. The latest improvements in motor driven loom machinery in the way of stop motions that control the pattern cards, on which the designs are woven into the cloths and for filling in the warp, will be used.

Mr. Patterson has engaged a number of carpenters and electricians to install the Rosemary and Roanoke exhibit in the Made in Carolina's Exposition building, and it will take fully two weeks to place the exhibit on the floor. The floor space covered will be 800 square feet.

In addition to the manufactured products exhibited at the Exposition by the Rosemary and Roanoke Mills, the various work being done in the community in the nature of welfare work, boy and girl scout movements, and in school affairs, will be shown on transparencies. Rosemary has 1,276 looms with 47,000 spindles, the Roanoke Mill using 53,000 spindles with 1500 looms. The Rosemary unit is three complete mills in one group, the Roanoke unit being two mills in a group.

Seventy two percent of the total cotton damask manufactured in the world is made in the Rosemary and Roanoke Mills. The total valuation of the mill plants and property is from fifteen to eighteen millions of dollars.

Rosemary's output is from 460,000 to 480,000 pounds of cotton cloth a day, while Roanoke Mills output is 10,000 yards of flannel goods per day. Both mills employ 2,100 persons.

Mrs. Katherine Webster, Parish Warden
Roanoke Avenue

The following letter has been received by the rector of All Saints' church.

My dear Mr. Taylor:—
I am in receipt of the following telegram from Bishop Gailor and Mr. John W. Wood:

"Bishop McKim cables: 'Our missionaries safe. All Tokyo churches, schools, residences and St. Luke's Hospital destroyed. Missionaries lost all household and personal effects. Need emergency relief for missionaries and Japanese clergy and church people. All gone but faith in God.'"

We earnestly ask that you request all congregations in your diocese to make offering for immediate need of our fellow churchmen and women in Japan. As American citizens our people will do their part in giving to American Red Cross for Japanese. But we beg on behalf of Bishop McKim that they also give generously now through National Council for special Japanese Church Relief Fund. Later when details are known work of permanent reconstruction will be taken up. Estimate based on Bishop's cable indicates $500,000 needed immediately. If any part of this amount is not required it will be added to permanent reconstruction fund.

This letter is to advise you that our diocesan obligation in this emergency will be considered at a meeting of the Executive Committee on the 20th of this month, after which date you will receive definite suggestions regarding our plans for relief of the stricken Church in Japan.

Faithfully yours,

American Legion 16 Band 4

Edward Vincent proved to be harder to solve than some of the most difficult sharp and flats to the baseball players of the Rosemary Band Saturday afternoon at Rosemary Park and the American Legion had circled the bases sixteen times in nine innings while the musicians were making a quartette of runs. Youngs, of the former soldiers succeeded in putting the ball over the left field fence for the only home run of the game.

Sanders started doing mound duty for the music men and was relieved by Pruden, who in turn was relieved by Storty Gray.

The game was much enjoyed by the fans. The proceeds will go the Armistice Day Celebration Fund.

CITY SCHOOL ADOPT HEALTH PROGRAM

Health Program Organized in Each Room Inspection By Graduate Nurses

TO ORGANIZED EXERCISE

The Roanoke Rapids city schools are putting into operation this year one of the most efficient health and physical education programs ever attempted in a North Carolina school. At the beginning of each semester local physicians and graduate nurses and a part-time dentist will examine each pupil for diseases of the throat, eyes, teeth, and contagious diseases. Where diseases are found steps to correct them will be taken.

In order to create interest among the students in keeping themselves in the best physical condition Health Clubs will be organized. This club will be supervised by the teacher and a graduate nurse. The immediate purpose is to pay particular attention to five conditions: General cleanliness and neatness of the individual pupil, head teeth, hands, and nails. Each pupil will be inspected every morning and his record will determine whether he makes the health honor roll or not. Competition for the highest score among the classes will be developed.

The outside activities of the child will also be supervised. The recesses will be organized. During the short recesses the children will engage in organized play. Various games will be played and equipment for these will be furnished. Participation in strenuous exercise at the noon hour will be discouraged as this period is supposed to be for food and rest. In the afternoons the teachers of the school will be assigned to duty to supervise the playing of those students who desire to play for an hour after school has been dismissed for the day.

"Cuddle Up" Proves to be Daring Musical Comedy

"Cuddle Up" played to a crowd of six-hundred sightseers in the Peoples Theatre last night. The well advertised musical comedy was above the average and furnished quite a pleasant surprise to those who just went to see an ordinary show. The dancing, both clog and athletic, was the best to appear on the local stage in several seasons. Rooney and Sweeney playing the roles of Casey and No-body proved to be entertaining comedians as well as excellent clog dancers. The dancing honors however go to the Noel Sisters, whose delightful athletic dancing was the real feature of the show. They were only mediocre, their forms "Cuddle Up" chorus was a shapely lot. Although their voices and costumes were superb. They were not very well trained but knew how to dance and as usual was about eighty-five percent of the show. The Lingerie chorus was a bold showing of the latest Parisian styles. Elden Baker, as Tom Randall, wasn't exactly a "Rodolpho Vaselino", but he played the part of a heart breaking man pretty well. Kathleen Brennon, as Caroline, and Doris Clare, as Molly, playing the leading female roles without creating a sensation. They probably are stars, but their light was just a little dim last night.

There was practically no connection between the different parts or scenes of the comedy. The story was conspicuous by its apparent absence. The "Cuddle Up" crew was nevertheless a good opener for the Peoples Theatre considering the fact that Roanoke Rapids is the smallest town on the schedule of musical comedies the size of "Cuddle Up".

CARD OF THANKS

I wish to thank the friends and neighbors for their sympathy and helpfulness during the illness and at the death of my husband. Words are inadequate to express the comfort their ministrations were to me during his trying period.

GOVERNORS ENDORSE COTTON CO-OPS

Heads of Six Southern States Call For Co-operation of Growers in The Marketing of South's Big Crops

MEANS MORE MONEY FOR COTTON

Governor William W. Brandon of Alabama; Clifford M. Walker, Governor of Georgia; Thomas G. McLeod, Governor of South Carolina; Austin Peay, Governor of Tennessee; T. C. McRae, Governor of Arkansas and A. M. Hyde, Governor of Missouri have joined in a joint proclamation calling on the farmers of the Southern States to stand loyally by the principles of cooperative marketing. These men agree that the old system of dumping the cotton crop on the market within 90 days after the crop is harvested means a tremendous loss to the farmer.

The Proclamation follows: Whereas the south for more than three generations has produced the majority of the cotton used in clothing the world, and whereas the production of this great world necessity has enriched cotton merchants, exporters, importers, brokers and manufacturers, while it has left the south struggling against poverty and a low standard of living, returning to the growers of the cotton such a small portion of the tremendous wealth which they have created, that the average cotton growers family has been compelled to live on less than $400 per year.

Whereas it is now realized that this condition has brought about by the practice of dumping the whole crop on the market during the months of harvesting thus breaking the market.

Whereas it has been demonstrated that by marketing cotton in an orderly manner, throughout the year as needed, a just price can be maintained and a fairer share of the consumers dollar will be realized by the producer, thus enabling the producer to improve his standard of living.

Whereas it is now generally recognized by the leading economists, bankers and business men of the United States, that something must be done to bring the agricultural producers into a state of greater prosperity in order to maintain an equilibrium of population between town and country, as well as a more stable economic and social condition in the interest of the future welfare of all people, and whereas the President of the United States, the Congress of the United States, and the legislatures of the cotton producing states, have approved the plan of cooperative marketing through their voluntary statements in the belief that this much needed improvement in the financial condition of the cotton grower can best be realized through their cooperation in marketing their products.

Whereas the Cotton Marketing Associations in each of the 12 principal cotton producing states in this country are now conducting a nation-wide campaign for increasing their membership and extending the benefits of cooperative marketing to a largely increased number of cotton growers, therefore we, the governors of the states of Alabama, Arkansas, Georgia, Missouri, South Carolina and Tennessee believing in the soundness of this type of organization and in the justice of the farmers combining to promote their economic interests, do hereby call upon all classes of our membership to inform themselves of this great economic movement and to assist in every practical way in the successful culmination of the respective state membership campaigns, with the hope and to the end that our people may benefit by their intelligent cooperation the same as has been the case with the farmers in California and other sections of the United States, whose success has been rewarded by a standard of living and Civilization worthy of the history and the traditions of our people.

CARD OF THANKS

This to the people, who have been kind and true,
A card of thanks we extend to you,
And our father in heaven,
A blessing will send
To all the people who in our sorrow was a friend.
Mrs. Corbit and family

The many friends of Messrs. W. T. and G. S. Council are deeply grieved to learn of the death of their brother Allen B. The two young men were on the motorcycle, which Council was driving, had just passed a car coming in the direction of Hickory, when they ran head-on into an auto occupied by B. B. Osborne, of Raleigh, and driven by Miss Inez Yoder, of Newton. All accounts of the accident state that Osborne drove his car off the side of the road in an effort to avoid a collision.
