WAKE FOREST GETS GIFT

Principal Of Patriotic Fund Established By Bostwick

NEW YORK, May 20.—Harry N. French, as referee, reported to the supreme court today that Wake Forest college, of Wake Forest, N. C., is entitled to receive the principal of a patriotic trust fund amounting to $1,375,000, which James A. Bostwick, director and one of the largest stockholders of the standard Oil company, created in 1892. Included in the trust are 1,000 shares of Standard Oil stock.

Mr. Bostwick provided that upon the death of his daughter, this fund was to be divided among her children, if they should "then be Americans." In case his daughter left no children of American citizenship and residence, and her husband fulfilled this condition, the trust further provided, then the fund was to be turned over to the Wake Forest college and the husband was to receive the income from the fund for life.

The daughter of Mr. Bostwick was Mrs. Fannie E. Voronoff, wife of Dr. Serge Voronoff, the scientist, who is said to have originated the monkey gland operation. She had been married twice before, and left one child by her first marriage and two children by her second marriage. Neither of these children, who are subjects and residents of England, nor Dr. Voronoff, qualified under the conditions fixed by Mr. Bostwick for the income of the trust fund, the principal of which, therefore goes to Wake Forest College.

The matter was submitted to Mr. French, as referee, upon the application of the Farmers Loan and Trust company, as executors of the Bostwick estate, for instructions from the court about the disposition of the trust fund and judicial settlement of their accounts.

The loss of the $1,375,000 will not affect the children of Mrs. Voronoff much, as Mr. Bostwick left an estate of nearly $300,000 to his widow, who in turn bequeathed the greater part to her daughter and her children. Mrs. Voronoff died about the same time as her mother, so that her share will be divided among her children.

New Equipment for Southern
WASHINGTON, May 22.—That it may continue adequately to "serve the South," Southern Railway System has recently placed orders for new equipment consisting of 20 locomotives, 5,390 freight cars of steel construction, 500 automobile cars of steel construction, 100 steel passenger cars, and 250 caboose cars of steel underframe construction.

The magnitude of the order can better be appreciated when it is realized that if it were possible to place the freight car equipment in one train it would be 47 miles from the engine to the caboose. If broken up into trains of an average length, it would comprise 250 freight trains, or one train ever 2 1/2 miles from Washington to Atlanta.

The new passenger cars, if coupled into one train, would be a mile and a half in length from the engine to the rear coach, and represent 20 trains of the average length. The coaches are of the latest design and are of all steel construction.
