THE CHRISTIAN VIEWPOINT

The first sign of a little mind is a tendency to criticise. The next sign is the desire to tell everybody else how to run his life. When such a person becomes any kind of an official with a little power, he develops into a bureaucrat. He revels in permits, passes, licenses, forms, questionnaires, reports, restrictions, regulations, and restrictive plans. He does nothing himself, so he is fully prepared to tell others how to do.

To let people have a maximum of freedom to live their own lives seems to such a person a dangerous idea. The assumption is that the bureau knows best and anyone who fails to get directions in quintuplicate copies from the bureau will be sure to make a big mistake in running his own affairs.

Karl Marx wanted everybody to let him tell them how to run the world, so he wrote, "The democratic concept of man is false because it is Christian. Democracy holds that each man is a sovereign being. This is the illusion and dream of Christianity."

Paul the apostle wrote, "For whether we live, we live unto the Lord; or whether we die, we die unto the Lord; whether we live therefore, or die, we are the Lord's." "So then each one of us shall give account of himself to God."

THE COMMUNIST GOAL

Austin S. Igleheart, president of General Foods, recently made some statements, in a speech to the Advertising Club of Boston, that deserve national attention in this crucial election year.

"Whether we will keep our form of representative government, or see it change into something along socialist lines, depends on how far the voter sees ahead," he said. "If we vote for handouts, feather-bedding, paternalism along with more inflation, we shall have abandoned the American spirit . . . We would be powerless to keep the Communists from making slaves of us, as they intend to do in the long run. We could not possibly be of help in getting Europe and Asia to their own feet because we ourselves would be beyond help."

The Communist leaders have long been convinced that internal decay in the United States itself, coupled with economic depression, will be one of the most powerful weapons in their plan to destroy the free world. In other words, they look to us to perform eventually something resembling national suicide.

And that Communist-desired goal will certainly be reached in time if we forget those qualities, such as independence, individual responsibility, and thrift, which made us great and strong, and follow those who offer a phony form of "security" which would turn us into wards of an all-powerful state.

It's a form of insanity to adopt more and more socialist-communist ideas here at home—while we spend endless billions fighting aggression abroad. Every voter should keep that in mind when he goes to the polls next November.

Hints To HOMEMAKERS

Laundering Foundation Garments

Since soil and perspiration tend to rot fibers, frequent laundering of foundation garments will help save them. Elastic garments usually regain snugness after laundering. Have at least two garments alternating and washing them often. Don't rub—use a brush on soiled spots.

Never wring a girdle. Roll it in a Turkish towel and knead to remove excess moisture. Unwrap immediately and smooth out wrinkles.

To dry, hang by the garters—away from heat. Press the fabric panels, but never iron elasticized sections.

Laundering Lingerie

Wash quickly in bowl full of rich, mild suds. Squeeze suds through garments, never twist or rub with cake soap. Roll in a Turkish towel to help dry them quickly. Dry away from direct heat. Press on wrong side while still damp, using a moderately warm iron.

Bras:

Wash brassieres in lukewarm water and mild soap suds, using a brush on straps if necessary. Hang brassieres over the line to dry to avoid distorting shape. Don't hang by straps. Cups should be eased into shape with fingers. When pressing, do not touch the rubber sections. Nylon bras don't really need pressing, but if you do press, be sure to use a moderately warm iron.

Stockings:

Whether they are sheer or service weight, stockings will wear longer if you handle them gently. Wash nose by hand and do so as soon after wearing as possible. Turn them inside out and wash in lukewarm sudsy water. Gently squeeze suds through and be easy on soiled spots, too.

Rinse thoroughly in lukewarm water, roll in a Turkish towel to absorb excess moisture, knead and wring immediately. Hang over a towel covered rod, allowing a third of the stocking top to hang over.

FARM QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

(Since National Farm Safety Week is scheduled for July 20-26, this week's column deals with safety on the farm.)

QUESTION: How many rural accidents occur each year?

ANSWER: About 15,000 farm residents die and about 1,300,000 are injured in rural accidents each year.

QUESTION: How many farmers are killed in work accidents each year?

ANSWER: About 4,000.

QUESTION: What's the toll in farm motor vehicle accidents?

ANSWER: At present rates, about 6,000 farm residents die and 220,000 suffer injuries in operating motor vehicles each year.

QUESTION: Is there safety in the farm home?

ANSWER: The annual toll from accidents in the farm home is about 4,000 persons. Falls, burning, and poisoning are the chief home accident causes.

QUESTION: What's the farm accident rate by the colch?

ANSWER: There are 41 farm accident: chituary notices every day. Every 24 seconds during the year a disabling injury will strike some unlucky farm person.

QUESTION: What's the cost in money?

ANSWER: Industry has safety systems and safety inspectors which farms don't have. There's only one answer: Every farm family must become conscious of the need for safety and do everything possible to promote it.
