4-H Development Fund Is Designed To Train Youths

"STRENGTHEN AMERICA Character Counts"

The Boy Scouts of America are to be commended for their 51st anniversary slogan. The impact and meaning of these four words are typical of Scouting and should inspire the rest of us.

We as a nation are strong. We are free. We have the dynamism of a still-growing democracy. That growth will continue only through constantly increasing strength. And nothing will strengthen us so much as high character levels of our citizenry.

For fifty-one years the Boy Scouts of America has been dedicated to the building of character and training in citizenship of American boyhood. The millions of present and former Scouts attest to the strength of the program that has helped produce so many outstanding American leaders and citizens.

Each boy, as a Boy Scout, pledges himself to be "physically strong, mentally awake, and morally straight." In our future, more than ever, we are going to need a strong citizenry to meet the increasing challenges, problems, and opportunities.

We are proud of the 4,498 Cub Scouts, Boy Scouts, and Explorers of our Cape Fear Area Council, Boy Scouts of America, and the 1,578 fine leaders who work with them. Here character is being built.

We can help. Let us strengthen our local Boy Scout program.

State, county, and local business leaders, educators, agricultural officials, and others have hailed the work of the North Carolina 4-H Development Fund, Inc., as a means of extending the benefits of 4-H Club training to an increased number of North Carolina's young people.

In a progress report released today, Horace Carter, chairman of the Columbus County 4-H Development Fund, said 80 of North Carolina's 100 counties already have organized campaign committees aimed at supporting the State-wide movement and in reaching full county financial goals.

He stated that an initial State goal of $1,000,000 has been set, and Columbus County's portion of that goal is $7,325.

Funds totaling over $56,000 have already been received at the headquarters of the 4-H Development Fund, Inc., at N. C. State College in Raleigh. Reports of the receipt of additional funds are being made almost daily.

The 4-H Clubs—which today number over 1,961 local organizations and have more than 106,999 members in North Carolina—are operated under the supervision and direction of the Agricultural Extension Service at North Carolina State College.

The 4-H Development Fund, which maintains its headquarters at State College, has a board of directors composed of 4-H alumni and other agricultural, business, civic, and religious leaders throughout the state. Robert N. Wood of Raleigh is president.

Principal objectives of the Fund will be to expand 4-H camping facilities to the end that such facilities will be available to all 4-H boys and girls in North Carolina, increase a scholarship program, support a state-wide system of recognition and awards for club members, support the international farm youth exchange program, and meet other needs of the 4-H Club program in the state. Establishment of the 4-H Development Fund, President Wood said, is "one of the most significant developments in the history of the state."

Officers of the Development Program, in addition to President Wood, are Mrs. Charles Graham of Route 1, Linwood, vice-president; L. L. Ray of State College, secretary; and J. G. Van, also of State College, treasurer. Mr. C. Lucy Tate of Whiteville and W. Horace Carter of Tabor City are members of the Board of Directors.

In commenting on the Development Fund, L. R. Harrill, State 4-H Club Leader of the State College Agricultural Extension Service, said: "Investments in the 4-H Development Fund will help to broaden the size, scope, and influence of 4-H in providing and new and greater opportunities and experiences to sharpen the vision and challenge the imagination of an ever-increasing number of boys and girls as they grow into individuals better trained economically, physically, mentally, and spiritually to serve as good citizens in the home, the state, and the world community."

Recruit Margie J. Hinson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Alvie D. Hinson, Route 1, Chadbourne, completed eight weeks of basic military training Jan. 25 at the Women's Army Corps Center, Fort McClellan, Ala.

Recruit Hinson received drill and physical fitness training and instruction in Army history and traditions. She also received counseling and testing in various career fields to provide a basis for future training and advancement in the Army.

She was graduated from Williams Township High School, Whiteville, in 1960.

The annual Layman's Rally of the Wilmington District of the Methodist Church will hold meetings in Wilmington and Lumberton on February 21 and 22, respectively, with a noted speaker from Tennessee featured on both occasions, A. E. Goldfinch, district lay leader of Tabor City, announced today.

The February 21 meeting in Wilmington will be held at 6:15 P. M. at the 5th Avenue Methodist Church. The February 22 meeting in Lumberton will be held at 6:15 P. M. at the Chestnut Street Methodist Church.

Bishop Paul N. Garber will appear on the program both nights.

Principal speaker at these rallies will be R. H. (Red) Bond, of Dyersburg, Tenn., conference lay leader of the Methodist Church. Mr. Bond has a wide reputation as a dynamic religious speaker. He is a member of the General Board of Lay Activities of the Methodist Church.

The speaker is employed by Southern Bell Telephone Company, is a veteran of the Marine Corps, the father of two children and was raised on a farm.

Milkman Put On Probation By Judge

Clarence W. Langston, 31, a Coble Milk company salesman of Myrtle Beach, was sentenced from three to five years last week at a Superior Court session on false pretenses covering out of approximately $7,500 shortage in milk bills from the Piggly Wiggly super market in Tabor City.

In lieu of the prison sentence he was placed on a five-year probation term with conditions that he pay to the Piggly Wiggly $50 a month until the $7,500 is cleared up and also pay Bryant Baker $60.70 before March 15.

Investigation in the case was handled by Horace Shaw, head of the county bureau of investigation, and his findings indicate Langston raised tickets when delivering milk to the Tabor City firm.

Suspicion was aroused while Langston was on vacation and the milk bill ran only $56 a week when it had ordinarily been $107. The ticket raising took place during the period Jan. 1, 1958 until Oct. 22, 1960.

Shaw said that the tickets indicated he had taken on the average $50 a week ranging over the 146 week period.

Langston entered a plea of guilty to the false pretenses charges. He explained that he would either raise the tickets after an employee had signed it or would make another ticket for a higher price than the actual cost of the milk and then sign the ticket to indicate a greater amount of milk had been delivered than actually was received.

Their opponents for the match are "Georgia Strong Boy" and "Violet Ray" world's women's champion, who has defeated all leading lady grapplers in America today.

"Georgia Strong Boy" succeeded in defeating world's strongest man Paul Anderson, in a great match. Previously Anderson had been defeated by such great grapplers as western champion "Dick the Bruiser" and eastern champion, "Killer Kowalski" also defeated the 701 pound "Haystack Calhoun."

There will be two single matches before the championship tag team match, which is for two out of three falls.

Guidance Programs Introduced At WMS

Rev. Ed Armstrong, minister of the Methodist churches in the Waccamaw Charge, introduced a series of four guidance programs by meeting with the seniors of Williams Township School Thursday afternoon in the Home Economics Department with Mrs. Rotha Thompson and Mr. Charles Bullock acting as co-ordinators.

In speaking with the seniors, Rev. Armstrong brought out the concepts of man — materialistic, rationalistic, biological, and psychological, and concluded that man was all of these concepts, but the only true concept of man is that he is a child of God.

On Thursday the seniors will be addressed by C. W. Todd of the Mollie Community.

Goat Bought By Ruritans

Any Ruritans absent — and there weren't many — from the February dinner meeting of the Williams Township group, held last Thursday evening at the Starlight Drive — in Whiteville, will be pleased to learn that the nineteen members present unanimously approved an inspired plan to purchase a goat.

After each meeting, names of any members absent without an acceptable excuse will be placed in a hat. Then one name will be drawn from the hat, the lucky fellow whose name is drawn will awaken next morning to find said goat tied to, at, or near, his doorstep, the delighted recipient will have the joyful privilege of keeping the animal until the morning following the next monthly meeting when, after having himself attended the meeting the preceding evening, he will reluctantly transport the goat to the home of another fortunate absentee and leave it tied to, at, or near, his doorstep.

The very prospect is thrilling, isn't it?

It is hoped that this incentive to stay at home when the club meets will not prove to be overpowering.

President C. W. Todd secured the approval of the members to hold each regular meeting during the current year at a different restaurant in the area.

Merchants Urged To Make Report Of Collections

Mrs. Hilda Phipps, secretary of the Credit Bureau of Tabor City, Inc., today urged all merchants using the collection department of the bureau to inform her immediately when delinquent accounts are paid to the merchant.

A number of old accounts have been collected by the merchants after having been turned over to the credit bureau. Some of these were not reported by the merchant and the bureau continued its efforts to collect the bills even after they had been paid.

"This is an embarrassing position for us and we want to urge every merchant who collects one of these accounts in his store to call us immediately," Mrs. Phipps said.

He also said that migratory game bird seasons and those of deer, bear, and wild boar closed in January.

Remaining for hunters after February are such nongame species as crows and groundhogs, with fox hunting permitted in some counties having local fox laws.

According to the American Banker, daily banking newspaper, the Waccamaw Bank advanced 52 places in its relative rank among the leading banks in the United States during 1960. C. L. Tate, President of the local bank, received a telegram yesterday from the paper congratulating the Waccamaw Bank on its impressive growth last year.

During 1960, total resources of the Waccamaw Bank, which operates fifteen banking offices in eleven Southeastern North Carolina communities, increased more than 10% to nearly thirty-six million dollars as of December 31st. On commenting on this increase, Mr. Tate stated that the Waccamaw Bank has not merged with any bank since 1937, and that its growth is an indication of progress in the areas the bank serves as well as a tribute to the service rendered by the staff of the bank.

Sweet Potato Market Doomed Unless Drastic Reforms Made In Growing

Doomed is the Columbus County sweet potato marketing future if radical changes in growing and packaging are not practiced. This was the opinion of 39 growers, shippers and agriculture leaders who visited the New York market last week and also surveyed the Virginia potato prospects.

Under the direction of Henry M. Covington, extension horticultural specialist, the group, comprised of members of the "300 Bushel Sweet Potato Club," included Jimmy Garrell, Tabor City; Bill Bailey and Herman Blake, Chadbourne;

Lennon Gore, Tabor City R3; and Wray Thompson, Tabor City.

The caravan left Clinton on Jan. 28 and returned Jan. 31. The tour included a tour of New York City's Washington Street Produce Market, Wholesale Fruit Auction, a Virginia experiment station and packers throughout Virginia.

A highlight of the trip was a banquet held in Accomac, Va., where the North Carolinians were hosted by eastern shore sweet potato growers, county agents and marketing specialists.

During the meeting the visitors were informed that the Virginia growers are able to yield up to 700 bushels of potatoes per acre and yet use very little fertilizer.

The touring group was also informed of Virginia's program on promoting the sweet potato market by means of advertising and packaging changes.

Virginia growers made known their intentions of growing the new Nureget variety which North Carolinians have thought would enable them to yield more bushels-per-acre. With Virginia's already higher yield per acre, the Carolina group made known their fears that they would be "left behind" in the marketing competition.

The average North Carolina sweet potato farm produces less than 300 bushels per acre, however, the "300 Bushel Sweet Potato Club" was organized several years ago to encourage better cultivation practices to get higher yields, and to encourage the use of better seed stocks.

The Nureget variety, which was produced experimentally last season, promises to yield at a high rate with high resistance to diseases.

Said Covington of the Carolina potato future, "Unless farmers stop trying to raise potatoes in the old fashioned, antiquated, method, they will not be able to compete with Virginia and Louisiana on the markets." He added, "By producing higher yields-per-acre, they will be able to cut their costs per bushel and get higher profits."

Tabor City Covington reported "In the 13 years that I've watched that area's market, it has been obvious that it has become a second-rate market."

"Tabor City's market is in a dying need of leadership," Covington says he believes. "And your farmers are growing potatoes the same way they did 20 years ago."

North Carolina's average has been decreasing in recent years, whereas Virginia's acreage has been rising. Louisiana now grows more acres than either of these states.

Price-wise, North Carolina potatoes are bringing an average of 75 cents per bushel higher than Virginia's and Louisiana potatoes yield 75 cents to a dollar higher than Carolina's.

The tour, which was made on a chartered bus, was sponsored by the North Carolina Yam Association of which Howard Corbett, Corbett Brothers, Wilmington, is president.

Special guests on the trip was the 1960 winner of the "300 Bushel" competition, an annual contest promoted to help the grower's through the winter months.

This year's winner, E. K. Sanderson of Four Oaks, produced 434 bushels per acre, according to the state horticulturist. Mr. Sanderson conducted the project in cooperation with a son, Joe Sanderson.

Of the Columbus County delegates on the tour, Garrell is an officer of Tabor City Foods, Inc.; Bailey and Blake are on the staff of W. E. Bailey & Son, Chadbourne shippers; Gore was the county "300 Bushel" winner this year; and Thompson, Tabor City Tribune managing editor, was official newsmen for the group.
