THE CALL OF THE SOUTH.

It has been nearly half a century since Horace Greeley gave utterance to what has now become a famous adage, "Go west young man and grow up with the country." At that time Mr. Greeley was undoubtedly correct in his advice. But since that time conditions have changed.

From time immemorial the relentless processions of the generations of mankind seeking for a new home, have always moved in the direction of the setting sun. From the time when humanity was started on its first pilgrimage, from eastward in the Garden of Eden it has continued to move westward. But the dream of the Utopia of the west has changed. No longer does the great west hold out to the adventurers with the pioneer spirit the same alluring prospects of free homestead lands and golden opportunity in a country of a brilliant future. No longer does nature offer to give her best for the asking in a section of original forest and virgin soil, unmarred by the hand of man. Those who heeded the words of wisdom from Mr. Greeley did well in applying his advice. But, "The golden opportunity is never offered twice;

Seize then the hour when fortune smiles and duty points the way."

The day of opportunity in the west is forever gone. The ear of wiser ones of the race have heard the call of South and already are turning toward her broad acres and sunny skies, with longing eyes. The tide of mankind is turning and the conquest of the South has begun. She offers unlimited opportunities in every line of human endeavor. Nature in her bounty has peculiarly blessed this section and the South needs men who will obey the divine command to get dominion over nature.

I stood upon the topmost pinnacle of a lofty mountain massively sublime and caught a vision of the South and the glory that will one day be hers. I gazed upon a panorama of grand mountain peaks and lofty ridges, of beautiful vales and fertile valleys, where streams of purest crystal were winding their way toward the sea. I saw the timbers removed, filling the coffers of a happy people with jingling coin, and in their place were fields of grasses feeding millions of fattening cattle. I saw the bowels of the earth penetrated and made to belch forth a wealth of almost every mineral and precious metal. I saw the pleasure seeker and the tired and weary from every quarter of the globe hurrying here to enjoy our matchless climate, our world famous hospitality and to motor over our smooth and well kept roads. I saw the dancing streams harnessed and turning millions of ceaseless spindles. And out of the wilderness were reared great cities of busy industry. And I was in the midst of the greatest agricultural and industrial section of the world; the paradise of the horticulturist and agriculturist, the home of the artisan and Mecca of the tourist, where when the gorgeous sun-set had faded into the soft and becoming twilight and the full moon had begun to cast her rays among the vine-clad rocks and flowery arbors, the tired workman came forth to enjoy the beauties of a Southern twilight.

Can't you catch the vision? Don't you hear the call of the South? The South needs her boys and they need her.

Stay South, young man and grow up with the country.

Born to Mr. and Mrs. H. C. McKee, Tuesday, a son.

HEALTH AND HYGIENE

A far-reaching State Conference is being organized. It aims to improve conditions that affect human life in all its phases. All the various workers for reform and betterment expect to get together as an organized force, and by a united effort secure some of the most needed reforms. Much more should be done in this way than by fighting single handed.

The conference will hold its first meeting in Raleigh, February 11, 12. The scope of the conference is indicated by the following list of speakers and heads of committees: Governor Craig will deliver the opening address, followed by Dr. William Louis Poteat, president of Wake Forest College, on the "Correlation of Social Forces." Following this will be an address by Senator R. L. Owen, of Oklahoma. Senator Owen is the author of the famous bill for a National Department of Public Health. He is a fine speaker and a man of big ideas. His speech should ring clear on the big lines of social work, and form the keynote of the conference.

Several months ago the following representative citizens were named, as chairmen of the various committees on different lines of social service:

Bishop Robert Strange, Church and Social Service; Hon. J. Y. Joyner, Literary; Mr. James P. Cook, Reformatory; Rev. M. L. Kesler, Orphanages; Hon. T. W. Bickett, Criminal Procedure; Dr. L. B. McBrayer, Feeblemindedness; Mr. Clarence Poe, Improvement of Country Life; Mr. W. H. Swift, Child Labor; Miss Daisy Denson, Prisons; Mr. Archibald Johnson, Liquor Problem; Mr. Gilbert Stephenson, Race Question; Dr. W. S. Rankin, Public Health; Hon. R. F. Beasley, Taxation; Mrs. R. R. Cotten, Women and Social Service.

The Central Committee on Organization, composed of Hon. J. Y. Joyner, Hon. T. W. Bickett, Miss Daisy Denson, Dr. W. S. Rankin and Mr. Clarence Poe, have received hundreds of inquiries and applications for membership. It promises to be one of the biggest movements ever started in the state, and every public spirited citizen should have his name enrolled with the movement. A letter or postal directed to Dr. W. S. Rankin, Raleigh, N. C., Secretary of the Central Committee, will bring full information about the aims of the organization and the program mapped out.

Health And Corset.

In these days we have begun to make health our first consideration. The days of folly and superstition along the line of health and comfort are over and a new day has dawned. For a number of years the medical fraternity has condemned the corset as one of the greatest menaces to the health and vitality of womanhood. But at last a solution has been found. SPIRELLA CORSET, is one that is not only not placed with others as being detrimental to health, but leading physicians commend and approve it. The Spirella Corset, LOOKS WELL FITS RIGHT, and is a HEALTH BUILDER.
