LETTER FROM OHIO.

Fredericktown, Ohio,
May 14 1913.

The Jackson County Journal,
Gentlemen—As I am an old Jackson County boy strayed away to Ohio, perhaps those who remember me would be interested to know that I have resigned the first Baptist Church of Fredericktown, Ohio, and has he accepted the first Baptist Church of Bethesda, Ohio, to begin the first Sunday in June.

I am planning to visit the dear old home land the latter part of next summer.

I have several of the best papers and magazines, which come to my desk every week, but none interest me as much as the Journal, I enjoy it as a letter from home, and rejoice in the progress of the county, especially in good roads, schools and churches.

With best wishes to the Journal and its friends, I remain,
Yours sincerely,

D. M. Pressley,

COM. SELECTS SITES FOR NEW CO. BUILD'GS

The court house building committee which met at Sylva Saturday was unanimous in its selection of the point of the ridge at the west end of Main street and overlooking the city as the site for the new court house. This location is one that is capable of great development, easy of access, and has one of the finest views in western North Carolina. The jail will be located on a lot that is contiguous to the one selected for the court house and the two contain three acres, thus giving plenty of room for developing and beautifying the grounds.

All the members of the committee named in the Act of the General Assembly were present with the exception of H. R. Queen. The organization was perfected with Mr. E. L. McKee as chairman and Mr. Geo. W. Sutton as secretary. The committee selected a sub-committee composed of Messrs. E. L. McKee, Geo. W. Sutton and Lee Hooper to visit the Madison county court house at Marshall and report to the committee as to the advisability of following the plans of that building in the erection of our new court house.

The committee will finish the technicalities as soon as possible and begin the excavating and construction work. They expect to have the new buildings completed not later than in time to hold the February term of the Superior court in the new temple of justice.

NEW BUILDING AT C. N. & I. S.

At the meeting of the trustees of the Cullowhee Normal and Industrial School, held at Cullowhee Friday, the contract was let for the brick work of the new administration building to Wilson and Womack of Sylva. The work has already been commenced on the foundation of this handsome new building and will be pushed forward as rapidly as possible, so as to have it ready for use by the time the school opens for its fall session, in August. The General Assembly made an appropriation of $15000 for this building and that sum will be made to go as far as possible in its erection; however, this will not be sufficient for its completion, but will put it in a condition so that it may be used and will be completed later on. The plan was drawn by Rev. W. O. Davis, of Sylva.

In addition to the erection of the administration building the other work that will be done at Cullowhee this summer is the completion of the girl's dormitory, so that it can accommodate 35 more girls, and the work of putting the grounds in a better condition. They are naturally capable of much improvement and when the work is done during this vacation, Cullowhee will have one of the most beautiful campuses in the state.

CLIPPING FROM NEWS AND OBSERVER.

The Raleigh News and Observer says of THE JOURNAL:

"The Jackson County Journal, published at Sylva, the new county seat, is a most excellent weekly, filled with news and issued in an attractive form. Mr. Dan Tompkins is the editor and Mr. E. E. Brown the manager. It is a paper which promises to be of great value to Jackson and it is worthy of a large support. It announces that it is 'Jackson County's paper for Jackson Count-folks,' and is a paper worth while, and all 'home print.'"

FOR ALL WESTERN NORTH CAROLINA.

There are plenty of indications that the Western North Carolina Fair is to be conducted on very much broader lines this year than heretofore; and that the fair will be more representative of the whole of Western North Carolina. The management is going about the work of laying the ground work for the Fair with a great deal of attention to detail, but this detail work has not blinded the management to the greater issues. After all, however, it is the successful working out of the details that rounds out the whole, and no matter how comprehensive the plans for the Fair may be, it is really the details which make the Fair. The men who have oversight of the plans and those who are working out the details have begun working early and with an energy and judgment that promises to make the fair creditable to the rich section of which it is an exponent.

Here is the "Confession of Faith" of D. Harris, secretary and treasurer of the association:

Western North Carolina for some time past has received more appreciation consideration, year by year, by the residents of less favored sections. Those seeking restoration of health have found here that greatest blessing of life; the seekers of pleasure and recreation have found the most satisfying entertainment, diversion and recuperation; the student of nature has found scenic grandeur unsurpassed and the investor has recognized the enormous wealth vested in the forests, minerals and other natural resources. The bounteous endowment by nature, however, it is not confined to the wondrous climatic and scenic conditions and natural resources, but include in a marked degree the adaptability of soil for the production of various products of unexcelled quality.

Until recent years, the exploitation of this phase of development has been retarded by reason of conditions which resulted in quite primitive methods being employed. Of recent years, however, much improved methods have been gradually adopted and it was this tendency and the desire to promote more rapid advancement and prosperity which inspired the organization of the Western North Carolina Fair association.

While a majority of the stockholders of the association are residents of Asheville, they are primarily citizens of Western North Carolina, identified with and interested in the development of the entire section. Their subscriptions to stock in the association were not considered as investments on which direct revenue would be produced but as a medium for the promotion of the development and prosperity of this section which would accrue to the betterment of our citizenship collectively as well as individually.

We desire this year to secure to a much greater extent than has been possible heretofore the support and co-operation of the citizens throughout Western North Carolina in making it what the name implies, a western North Carolina fair. In attempting to do this, we shall not in any way conflict with or detract from any county fair, but instead shall seek to earnestly co-operate with the several county fair associations with the hope of rendering service which will increase this success. With the co-operation that the movement should receive each county which undertakes to hold a fair would meet with unprecedented success; the Western North Carolina Fair to be held in Asheville would be of proportions and splendor which would appeal to the pride of every Western North Carolina and the exhibits could be sent to the state fair at Raleigh which would receive recognition of incalculable benefit. Western North Carolina has numerous products which cannot be excelled, and by placing them in competition with the world we may feel assured of favorable comparison, and the publicity attached to such exhibition when done in an intelligent manner would attract many desirable investors and stimulate a greater degree of advancement and prosperity.

With the object we have in view, we feel entitled to, and confidently rely on receiving, the earnest co-operation of the public spirited citizens of every community in western North Carolina.

Mr. Harris is enabled to voice these sentiments in full faith. The history of that magnificent development, the Greater Western North Carolina association, shows the possibilities of securing unity of action in this section, and the results which follows such action. As a greater western North Carolina is being surely credited by united, organized action in telling the world of our advantages and beauties, so its development will be enhanced by competitive exhibits of the products of all the fields and orchards, gardens, mines, forests, shops, artisans and schools.—Gazette News.

Clyde Meadows came home from Sylva Saturday night and spent Sunday with home folks. Clyde is now chief clerk in the Sylva railway of the Southern and says he likes his new position fine. He is a mighty nice young man and thoroughly deserving of the position of trust he now occupies. He has a splendid knowledge of railroad affairs, and it would not surprise his many friends down this way to soon hear of his further promotion to the Asheville office.—Bryson City Times.

There never was a time when people appreciated the real merits of Chamberlain's Cough Remedy more than now. This is shown by the increase in sales and voluntary testimonials from persons who have been cured by it. If you or your children are troubled with a cough or cold give it a trial and become acquainted with its good qualities.
