BREAKS INTO STORE.

A young negro, Lee Worley, is being held charged with breaking into the store of Rhinehardt-Powell Company in Sylva Tuesday morning. Mr. L. P. Allen, who resides near the store, was aroused early Tuesday morning by noises at the store and upon investigation found someone on the inside. He gave the alarm and the negro ran. A posse was soon in pursuit and tracked him to a house on Cope creek, about four miles from town, finding him sitting in the door, cooling himself after his Marathon race.

There was nothing missing from the store but he had collected a good outfit of clothing and becoming frightened had dropped them and escaped. Two young men from Highlands, E. G. and W. E. Miller, saw him run and testified that to the best of their knowledge and belief this is the same man they saw running from the store.

The marriage of Miss Eunice Alexander and Mr. Edgar Arrange Sunday afternoon at the home of Rev. W. A. Newell at Asheville will come as a surprise to the many friends of the bride in and around Sylva. The happy young couple left Asheville Monday morning for their home in Haystack where the groom is prominent in educational work.

W. J. BRYAN AT HENDERSONVILLE.

The people of Hendersonville are apparently not satisfied with securing Secretary of State W. J. Bryan as one of the speakers at the Chataqua to be held there in July, but desire to have other notables. This morning Judge J. C. Pritchard received a telephone message from Hendersonville asking for his cooperation in securing Col. Theodore Roosevelt, to be placed on the program of speakers just before or just after Mr. Bryan.

Judge Pritchard does not think, however, that there is any chance of securing Col. Roosevelt as the latter was extended an invitation some time ago by the management of the Western North Carolina Fair Association to be present here this fall on Military day and this invitation could not be accepted by the colonel. At the same time this invitation was extended was extended Judge Pritchard wrote Col. Roosevelt a personal letter urging him to accept, and in his reply to this letter the colonel wrote, in part, as follows: "I wish I could accept that invitation from the managers of the Western North Carolina Fair to be present on Military Day, but I have had to send a reply expressing my regret at being unable to come. At the present time I cannot accept any further invitation of any kind or sort. For the next four or five months I have just about as much on hand as I can well manage and even after that time it will be physically impossible for me to accept more than the very smallest fraction of the invitations which come to me. I am really sorry."—Gazette.

YOUNG MAN!

Young man, why don't you be decent? Why don't you grow into manhood with honor and credit instead of a stain upon your character? It is just as easy. It is always easier to be a man than a rowdy. Cigarettes and gambling and whiskey have had many a wrestle with boys before you came on the scene, and they have never yet been thrown. Don't get the idea into your head that you can turn the trick. If you don't want to be decent for yourself be decent for others. There is one heart whose sorrows should appeal to you. There is one who has faced everything for your sake; one who has to bear the cross for your foolishness. You don't want your trail through this world to be stained with a mother's tears. The one who turns a brazen face to mother's grief never gets very far on the road to happiness. When he gets a little older you find his name on the police docket of various cities, a little later the dark shadows of stone walls loom up across his pathway. Without honor, home or friends. 'Tis a sad picture but it is painted every day in various towns of this broad land. The pathway of the transgressor is full of rocks and thorns. Be decent. It always pays dividends.—LX.

For soreness of the muscles, whether induced by violent exercise or injury, there is nothing better than Chamberlain's Liniment. This liniment also relieves rheumatic pains. For sale by all dealers.

WESTERN NORTH CAROLINA DAY.

"Western North Carolina Day," the last of the four days' exhibition of the Western North Carolina Fair, which will be held in Asheville on October 7-10, inclusive, gives promise of being fully as replete with interest as the three preceding days, attractive features for each of which are being prepared.

The management of the Fair association is planning a number of interesting contests which it is believed will create unusual interest throughout Western North Carolina for the reason that the exercise will be thoroughly representative of this entire section.

One of the leading features of this day will be the contest of rural choirs in Western North Carolina in competition for cash prizes of $25, $15, and $10, which will be awarded to the three choirs, the personnel of which must be composed of voices from the rural districts, rendering the best selections of vocal music. Owing to the large number of rural singing conventions in this part of the State it is believed that there will be an unusual number of choirs competing. A unique feature of the day will be a contest of the old time fiddlers. Modern violinists will take no part in this exhibition, which will be participated in only by the favorite fiddlers of by-gone days who played old-time music in a way that causes the blood to flow more rapidly through the body and compels the feet to move unconsciously.

In connection with interesting athletic contests for this day, prizes will be awarded the championship baseball teams of the towns of Western North Carolina. It is planned to have several games for the occasion.

Arrangements are being made to have a contest between the musical bands of several towns in Western North Carolina. Prizes will be awarded to the most efficient bands. The Asheville Motor Club is co-operating with the fair officials with the view of interesting a large number of automobilists in this section in the automobile parade and decoration contest, the decorations to consist of grains, fruits, vegetables and other products representative of the Fair.

Governor Locke Craig has been invited to deliver the principal address on Western North Carolina Day, when some of the thousands of people in attendance at the Fair will doubtless enjoy hearing the eloquent governor of the Old North State for their first time.

POWER DAM BREAKS.

The dam of the Dillsboro and Sylva Electric Company gave way the first of the week and it will be several days before it can be repaired sufficiently to resume operations. As a result both the towns that receive their power and light from that source have been without light. The Journal presses are run by electric power and therefore we have been put to considerable inconvenience. We will ask the indulgence of the patrons of the Journal Job department. If you did not receive your orders in our usual prompt manner it was because of the lack of power. However we have rigged up a gasoline engine and are turning out work just as fast as ever. It looked very much as if there would be no Journal this week, but instead of that we come to you a day earlier than usual on account of our regular publication day being the fourth of July.

FOR CUTS, BURNS AND BRUISES

In every home there should be a box of Bucklen's Arnica Salve, ready to apply in every case of burns, cuts, wounds or scalds. J. H. Polanco, Dellvale, Tex., Route No. 2, writes: "Bucklen's Arnica Salve saved my little girl's cut foot. No one believed it could be cured." The world's best salve. Only 25c. Recommended by all druggists.

WESTERN CAROLINA BIBLE CONFERENCE.

The Western Carolina Bible Conference which is to be held at Sylva beginning August the First and lasting through ten days is an occasion which promises to be one of great blessing to this section. Conceived in the mind of Rev. Thad F. Deitz while attending a Bible Conference at Atlanta and backed up by Dr. Caleb A. Ridley, Geo. N. Cowan and a number of others who are prominent in church and religious work in various denominations throughout the South, the idea is being thoroughly worked out by a committee of prominent laymen and preachers in Jackson and the adjoining counties and is expected to become a permanent institution and each year those of our people whose field of labor is cast in the lowlands of the south may come home and gather together at Sylva with us for the Western Carolina Bible Conference to receive inspiration for another year's work.

Everybody who possibly can is invited and urged to come, especially the people from the country districts. Corn will be laid by and the harvest will be over. Come and bring your families and lets have the greatest religious gathering that has ever been held in Jackson county.

The committee on program is hard at work and will have their report ready for publication next week. Be sure and watch for it in the next issue of the JOURNAL; you will see the names of speakers whom you will wish to hear.

FEARS THAT SON HAS BEEN DROWNED

A few weeks ago it was reported that some clothes had been found on the banks of the Asheville school lake, and at the time it was not known whose they were. J. E. McCarson who lives near Sulphur Springs, fears that the clothes must have belonged to his 16 year old son and that his son was drowned in the lake. He has not seen the clothes, however, and does not know where they are or who found them; but he is investigating.

According to Mr. McCarson his son disappeared from home about a month ago. He did not feel much uneasiness at first, thinking the boy had gone to visit his grandmother, but later he began to make inquiries and found that the boy had not been at his grandmother's. Then he thought probably the boy had run away with other boys. A few days ago Mr. McCarson heard of the report that clothes had been found on the bank of the Asheville school lake and begin to make inquiries as to where they might be.

Mr. McCarson says his son left home one morning presumably to go to work at a local tannery, where he had a job. That was the last time he saw him.

If he can find the clothes and they prove to be his son's he says he will undertake to have the lake dragged.—Gazette.
