THE CREED OF THE COUNTRY

Rural life is coming into its own and country life is beginning to be appreciated again after several decades of disfavor and neglect. The following creed, which is being adopted as the slogan of various boys and girls' club throughout the rural sections of the United States, shows that the thought life of the country is being directed into its natural channels:

I believe that country which God made is more beautiful than the city which man made; that life out of doors and in touch with the earth as the natural life of man. I believe that work is work wherever I find it, but that work with nature is more inspiring than work with the most intricate machinery. I believe that the dignity of labor depends not only upon what you do, but on how you do it; that opportunity comes to a boy on a farm as often as to a boy in the city, and that life is larger and freer and happier on the farm than in the town.

BARKERS CREEK

The death of little Ora Wikle occurred Oct. 17. The death angel visited the home of Mr. Will Wikle and took from his home their little 12 years old daughter. She was loved by all who knew her. She leaves her father and mother and a host of relatives and friends. The funeral services were conducted by Rev. R. W. Green after which her remains were laid to rest in Barker's Creek cemetery.

On Dec. 9 the death angel came into the home of Charlie Brooks and took away his 3 year 11 months 9 days old girl. Her death came after a short illness. She was taken sick on Sunday and died Wednesday at 6 p. m. She has gone to the home where there will be no more sad parting. May we be ready when our summons comes to meet her on that shore. The services were conducted by Rev. R. W. Green and the interment was in Barker's Creek cemetery. We extend our sympathy to the bereaved family and friends.

We are glad to see W. W. Dills in our little town after having been confined to his room with La Grippe for a week.

TILLET VS. GUTHRE ET AL.

The other day, down at Charlotte brother Chas. W. Tillett spoke right out in meeting when in one of his "Sermons of a Sinner" appearing in the Charlotte Observer he "propounded the question as to whether or not the methodist Church in accepting large and munificent gifts from the manufacturers of coco-cola and cigarettes did not estop itself, or at least seriously embarrass itself in the discharge of its high function as a church to warn, especially young people, against everything which tended to injure them in soul, mind or body". This seemed innocent enough. But Rev. J. G. Guthrie, of Raleigh, answered Mr Tillett through the columns of the Observer. And then the fun started. Mr. Tillett wrote a reply to Mr. Guthrie tendered it to Mr. Harris, editor of the Observer, for publication. Mr. Harris refused to publish the article. Mr. Tillett then asked the business manager of the Observer to publish his article as paid advertising. This request was refused. Mr. Tillett succeeded in getting his article published in the Charlotte News by paying the News $49 for printing it as advertising. This has opened a controversy that is attracting a great deal of interest in the state. Mr. Tillett is using the columns of the Raleigh News and Observer as a medium through which to inform the public in regard to his side of the question.

Mr. Tillett alleges that the reason the Charlotte Observer refused to publish his article in reply to Mr. Guthrie is, that, his previous article contained strictures upon coco-cola and as result the Coco-Cola Company canceled any further advertising with the Observer, and that when the Observer Company carried the matter before Mr. Candler himself, the papers were returned with the notation "If Mr. Sinner would, in the columns of the Observer, retract and withdraw his adverse criticisms of coco-cola, the advertisement would be continued at the proper time, but otherwise the Observer would get no more advertising from him". This, Mr. Tillett claims is an attempt on the part of the moneypower to muzzle the press.

Thus we have two questions of great public interest; That of the Freedom of the press, or are the large advertisers attempting, and are partially successful in the attempt, to control the policy of the newspapers whom they favor with their advertising; and the question of tainted money and the church which Mr. Tillett first raised.

Owing to lack of space and the size of our paper we cannot, of course give our readers the benefit of the article pro and con in their entirety, but we will attempt to give the gist of matter.

CONGRESSMAN GUDGER IN SERIOUS ACCIDENT.

Congressman Gudger narrowly escaped serious injury last night when his automobile in which he was riding alone, was struck and almost completely demolished by a street car. As he was leaving the capitol about 10 o'clock he skirted the rear of two cars going west and was hit by another going in an opposite direction which had been hidden from his view. He partly jumped and was thrown over on the sidewalk without injury, but badly shocked. He was all right today save for some nervousness. —Asheville Citizen.

DELIGHTFUL RECITAL AT CULLOWHEE NORMAL

Cullowhee, N. C.,

December 13, 1914.

Editor Journal—Again let me call attention to the work of the Cullowhee Normal and Industrial School, the foremost school of this section. The occasion of this communication is the occurrence of a delightful musical recital on Friday evening of this week, followed by an equally delightful reception at the Girls' Home.

The musical recital was given by the pupils of that genial and accomplished teacher of music, Mrs. Mary Carter Brinson, who is at the head of this special department of the school. In this recital the earnest and successful work of both teacher and pupils was noticeably evident. The programme, given below, speaks for itself. It was rendered in a manner at once creditable and entertaining. It is a matter of congratulation that the school, the community and the section of the state is permitted to enjoy the pleasing personality and excellent service of our charming teacher of music.

Mr. and Mrs. Reynolds were hosts at the reception. The beautiful Dormitory was thrown open to the entire school and its parlors were crowded with happy-hearted young men and women. After the flow of soul in joyous conversation and the interchange of laughter, wit and wisdom had progressed somewhat at length, fair young ladies darted in and out among the crowd serving ambrosia and cake, greatly to the delight of the guests.

The hosts were gracious in their reception and treatment of the assembled friends, making all feel that they were receiving a cordial welcome. Without in any sense depreciating the excellent labors of those who have gone before, I do not hesitate to say that the Cullowhee Normal and Industrial has never been served more loyally and untiringly than it is now being served by Professor Reynolds and his excellent wife.

During the reception, Mrs. Brinson sang, Miss Grady rendered a selection on the violin, and Professor Dean read a story from Hopkinson Smith.

The programme of the recital follows:

Miss Lena Harwood	Angels' Serenade. (Braga)
