WALKER JAMISON DRAWS 30 MONTHS

'Tis strange indeed how the lives of all of us are so closely interwoven and how the acts of somebody else, High School, will be heard at Sylva, back in the years that are gone af fect our lives.

Some 16 years ago a man and a woman, living in Swain county, were granted a divorce, by the North Carolina courts. Soon after there was born to them a baby girl. Both father and mother remarried, and the baby girl, now a handsome lassie of 15, has no home that she can call her own. She has been on the not so tender mercies of a world. Has worked in Bryson City, Gastonia, as a member of the Publicity Comand other places, and last week was mittee. Miss Clutie Bloodworth, brought before the juvenile court, on a delinquency charge, by the welfare officer of Jackson county, and placed by him, in the custody of the sheriff awaiting admission into the State Home for Delinquent Girls, at Sam-

While before the juvenile court she told a story of her sins, and several boys were charged with prostitution, upon which charge they plead guilty and were taxed with the costs by Moore Building is being equipped Judge Hooker, and a suspended and work is going on there in the judgement is hanging over them. She also told of how one Walker Jamison, a young married man, recently come to Jackson county, from Georgia, had been her keeper and partner, of how he had taken her in To see a row of automobiles parked his automobile to places where he just outside the entrance to the ped at Mr. P. While she was in the custody of the sheriff, it being a violation of the law to lock up a young girl in jail, and she being given the freedom of the jail and county premises, Walker Jamison and Lewis Jamison go: her in an automobile and took her to Cramerton, near Gastonia. This officers: was the story told by Lela Howell, morning; and Lewis Jamison, who was used as a state's witness swore to the escape of the girl from the custody of the sheriff. The sheriff's department got wise of where she was and brought her back to Sylva as a witness.

It proved to be one of the most disgusting cases of prostitution ever heard in North Carolina. Jamison was convicted on four counts. Prostitution, escape, obtaining money under false pretenses, and having liquor in his possession. On these charges he was sentenced to a total of 30 months at hard labor on the roads in Henderson county.

His wife stood loyally by his side and went upon the witness stand in TO OPEN NO. 10 TO MURhis defense.

The girl, Lela Howell, who stated that her home is at Wayside, in Swain county, is being held until admittance can be secured for her at Samarcand.

Thus to date is the story beginning when two people were divorced 16 years ago, and of how the meshes of it have caught the lives of a number of people, and affected them

CULLOWHEE NORMAL NEWS

The Cullowhee Normal and Industrial School was represented at the Asheville Meeting of the North Carolina Educational Association, September 21-22, by several members of our faculty. Some of these were on the program for discussions. The president, Mr. H. T. Hunter, addressed the assembly on the subject of the Tower-Sterling bill; Miss Annie Ray spoke on "Things Needed in Language Work". Mr. Cecil Allen's topic was "Public Health and Democracy. Miss Ray was elected secretary of the Primary Section. Miss Nettie Brogden, Jack son County Supervisor, was named PrimaryDemonstration Teacher, was in the party that motored over to be present at the meeting.

Repairs and improvements continue, and many others are planned. The Madison Building has a music room fitted up on the first floor; new seats have been placed in the audi torium of the Graded School Build ing; tennis courts are under way; the sewing-room in the Walter E. classes. A mimeograph machine has been purchased and is being used in the work of the office.

The place has become so alive that every one notices it as he comes by.

PHY NEXT YEAR

Tri-County News, Sept. 21.-The grading work on the highway between Almond and Nantahala is progressing rapidly, according to D. S. Russell, who recently made a business trip to Almond, Wesser, Hewitts, and Nantahala, and had an opportunity to see just what is being done. The grade is connected between Nantahala and Topton, Mr. Russell reports and a force is at work subgrading, making the road ready for the top surface.

The contractor on that portion of the road, from Nantahala to Wesser, informed Mr. Russell that he expected to connect up with Nantahala by the first of 1924, and that the sub-grading would be done during the early part of next year, opening up this wonderful highway to the public during the summer of 1924.

JUDGE HOOKER GOES AFTER LIQUOR RING

Some startling statements were made in the recorder's court, Monday, when Earl Angel was convicted on charges of having liquor in his possession for the purpose of sale and of transporting. After his conviction Judge Hooker, telling Angel that he knew he was a truthful man, and informing him that he didn't have to answer the questions of the court, unless he wanted to, asked him if it wasn't true that the only liquor he had ever handled, prior to the part he got from the raid Chief-of-police Rogers made, when the haul was divided, and for which Rogers was convicted and sentenced to the Henderson county roads, wasn't one load that he got near the Georgia Line Angel stated that he had never handled any liquor except the part he got of the famous haul, and twenty gallons he got in Macon county, near the Georgia line, a few weeks ago. He said that he brought that 20 gallons to Sylva, and become afraid to handle it; that he hid it, and that it was stolen from

In the mean time he is expected to go before the Macon court in November and give evidence against the Georgia liquor ring. Angel stated to the court that between three and five hundred gallons of liquor goes through this county every week, from Georgia, to Waynesville and Asheville. He said that his liquor was delivered to him on the North Carolina side of the line, and that while he doesn't know! the name of the man he got it from, that he does know him when he sees him, and that he can find out his name and give it to the solicitor of the district. Judge Hooker stated that he wanted Angel as a witness before the Macon county court, if the North Carolina authorities can get the cooperation of the Georgia Governor and officers in getting the liquor men from the other side of the line, into Macon county for trial; that he especially wants Angel as a witness, because he knows that a jury in Maeon county, where Angel was raised, will believe what he has to say about it knowing him to be an honest and truthful man. "If we can break up the Georgia end of the ring, and the Asheville end, we can handle the local situ ation," said Judge Hooker, from the bench, "although liquor is sold in four out of five houses in Sylva up both roads from the bridge, through Tannery Flats, and up the Cullowhee road, as far as Mr. Henson's home. If it isn't sold in four out of five houses, at least that many shield and defend the ones where it is sold, and it is being sold on Main Street, and Earl Angel isn't the Judge Hooker.

MAN IS KILLED NEAR FRANKLIN

Franklin Press, Sept. 21.—Last Sunday afternoon, Chas. Rogers, a resident of the Burningtown section, was shot and instantly [killed by Robt. Duvall, on the road about ten miles below Franklin.

From what we have been able to learn of the affair, it seems that Duvall and Everett Hampton were riding along the road in an automobile, when they met Rogers, who was on horseback.

It is said that bad feeling had existed for some time between Rogers and Duvall, and that they had both quarrell resulted, and it is claimed that Rogers started at Duvall with a knife, whereupon Duvall drew his pistol and emptied it at Rogers, all
