THE MESSAGE OF THE AMERICAN LEGION AUXILIARY POPPY

BUY ME—I stand for service. I enabled one cent to be earned by a disheartened service man in the hospital who needed it, and all pay for me goes for service for those for whom the war is not yet over. BUY ME!

WEAR ME—I represent the sacrificed blood of the men who fell in Flanders Fields. I am a memorial to all who died in service. In reverence and understanding, WEAR ME!

Sylva needs a tourist camp. Chamber of Commerce, consider it.

Well paved throughout, a splendid water system, now modern fire fighting equipment. Sylva is progressing.

Lindbergh made it from New York to Paris in less time than it used to take to negotiate the journey from Sylva to Asheville. All the world is a small neighborhood.

Columbus discovered America four hundred and thirty five years ago. Lindbergh discovered Europe last week.

Everybody from Knoxville to Augusta is anxious for the completion of Highway 106. It has been promised to the people. Yet the six miles from Cashier's Valley to the South Carolina line has not been placed on the map and taken over for maintenance.

Cutting a big slice off the insurance tax of Sylva property owners will be a large saving to the people of the town. A rating will be asked, and confidently expected, when the new fire fighting equipment is ready for use, and a voluntary fire department organized properly.

The opinion is officially expressed in Washington, that a special session of Congress is unnecessary for the relief of the flood sufferers in the Mississippi Valley. It seems that no matter how hard he may be hit or what hit him, the farmer needs no relief.

WILL FEATURE SYLVA PICTURES

The Portland Cement Association has requested photographs and an article on Sylva's beautiful concrete streets to be used in a booklet being produced for distribution throughout the United States.

Of course the primary object of the association is to advertise the advantages of concrete paving and the use of Portland cement in paving streets and roads. At the same time a great deal of extensive and valuable advertising will fall the lot of the town of Sylva as a result of the paving program just completed, and the circulation of the Cement Association's literature. At the same time, the advertising will not cost the town or any organization of it one cent, as the Portland Cement Association pays for the pictures and publishes and circulates the booklet.

Again it is proved that when people begin to progress and bring their communities up to modern standards, the world sets up and takes notice, the world sits up and takes notice.

SMOKY MOUNTAIN SPECIAL

For the first time in history, the Southern Railway Company is inaugurating a real passenger train service on the Murphy Division, effective May 29th.

The Southern officials are authority for the statement that there will be new coaches, new engines, and a faster schedule on the new trains from Asheville to Murphy, and the morning trains, both East and West, will be through trains, stopping at only the more important towns along the route, including Sylva. These trains will be named "The Smoky Mountain Special," and will make connection in Asheville with all trains South and East, eliminating the present long waits in Asheville. The afternoon trains will stop at all stations, and will also make better connections in Asheville, avoiding the all night stopover in Asheville, as at present is necessitated.

The people of the territory served by this line are delighted at the great ly improved passenger service. It is something for which they have wished for the past quarter century. They feel that, coupled with the splendid state highways in this region, the Southern's move will greatly benefit the fast growing towns along the Murphy route.

Agriculture is developing, industries are growing, the Great Smoky Mountains National Park is expected to increase manifold the important tourist trade, and to greatly lengthen the tourist season; and the improved passenger service will strengthen the whole commercial and social fabric that the people are so assiduously building in the mountain country.

CHANGING A NUMBER

Originally State Highway No. 286 extended from Bryson City, through Franklin to the Georgia line. Then State Highway 285 was paved from Dillsboro to Franklin and 286 from Franklin to the state line. Number 286 turning off at Franklin and going to Bryson City was confusing to tourists coming through from the South instead of extending on through across the Cowee gap and connecting No. 10 at Dillsboro.

The Franklin Press is authority for the statement that the state highway commission has changed the numbers; Highway 285 now extending from Dillsboro to the Georgia line, and 286 being the highway from Franklin to Bryson City.

This move on the part of the highway commission will remove the confusion that is caused, tourists, and, at the same time, it is unnumbering the highways as they logically and geographically should be numbered. 285 is now a concrete road all the way from its junction with No. 10, at Dillsboro, to the Georgia line. The renumbering of these roads, gives Jackson county another through highway that starts somewhere and goes somewhere, affording a great highway to Atlanta and the South coming into this county.

Highway 106 must be extended to the South Carolina line and improved all the way from Sylva to the state line. Here is the third of the great trunk-line highways leading directly into Sylva.

DO NOT FORGET (By O. C. Hulett)

"In Flanders fields the poppies blow,
And you, who go
About your play, so careless of the day,
Can hardly know,
The blaze of glory that they shed,
On our brave dead,
Who silent lie, beneath a foreign sky—
"But we, who heard the maddening guns,
Deep, roaring guns,
Death's symphony, performed for such as we—
The Hardy Ones,
Whose Buddies' fleeting breath sped 'Mid poppies red.
Can we forget? Tho' years more years beget?
No, not yet!
"Today, in reverence you wear A poppy fair.
In Flanders Land, where countless crosses stand—
So silent stand;
They will not sleep, nor we forgive
If those who live,
Neglect to wear a crimson poppy fair,
And breathe a prayer."

The warm weather has started the tourists on their annual pilgrimage through our mountains. The vanguard is beginning to trickle through on our highways and byways. Soon the roads will be jammed with the summer crowds on pleasure bent. As they journey through our county and our towns they judge us by the appearance of our homes, and farms and streets. The first impression is the lasting one. The tourists are worth nothing to us unless they stop and see us. A pleasing appearance will stop them. Let's put the best foot first. Rakeup, pick-up, burn up, paint up, fix up, primp up, clean up, build and make repairs. Elbow "grease" is your biggest investment.

Outside, inside, floor, ceiling, roof or wall, we have the paint, oil or Alabastine that fits the purpose. Figure your paint by the surface it covers, and it costs less in
