

DON'T CULL 'EM IN JACKSON

Dispatch to Asheville Times) July 16.—The search by county officers at Sylva a few days ago of the automobile of Moore, cashier of the Citizen's Bank, on alleged information here, on a load of liquor—a load that resulted in nothing but a load of trouble on the part of the officers—today recalled to Sheriff Ingram another mistake by an officer in the adjoining county of Jackson. Sheriff Ingram was in Jackson on Monday when he was halted by a party who told that he had a load of liquor to submit to search. The Macon county officer has searched too many himself, he explained, to object, cheerfully concurred in the search and person were minutely searched by the Jackson officials and the search failed to disclose anything sought, Mr. Ingram restrain his mirth no longer. "Is that your name?" the deputy asked irately. "That is my name," came the reply. "They call me 'sheriff' over in Macon county. In this case, I'm a little too dumb even for apologetics," Ingram said.

SUNDAY SCHOOL INSTITUTE HELD AT ADDIE

BY MRS. R. J. Bryson The Scott's Creek Township Sunday School Institute which was held at Addie, Sunday, June 26th was attended by a large and enthusiastic crowd of Sunday School workers, which shows that we are accomplishing at least one thing, and that is interest in the betterment of our Sunday Schools. And when such interest is manifested something good is bound to follow. It was a well worked out program with some good speakers and each speaker showed that he had given thought to his subject, and the audience reaped the benefit. The program was as follows: Worship and service, conducted by G. C. Crawford. Practical Suggestions for increasing the Sunday School attendance—R. F. Jarrett. Practical plans for preparing and teaching the Sunday School lesson—T. C. Bryson. Two Essentials of Successful work with children—Prof. R. M. Rhodes. How to organize and how to conduct the Adult Bible Class—Frank Watson. One good thing we are doing in our Sunday School—D. G. Bryson. Rev. T. F. Deitz. We were served with a most sumptuous dinner which shows that at least Addie has not forgotten the old hospitality. Everybody went away feeling that they would like to go back to Addie again.
