Tests by Buick at General Motors Proving Ground and by Buick owners in every section of the world—under every climatic condition—have proved that you need never change your oil if you own a Buick. Replenishments and inspection of the Buick oil-filter only are required. This is still another Buick contribution to the economy and efficiency of motor car operation... another indication of Buick's greater value.

THE ADVENTURE OF HOME OWNERSHIP

It is a wonderful thing—a sort of permanent adventure—to have achieved a house, garden and fields of one's own, to have and to hold, to cultivate and to improve. It's fine to pay rent but it does not give great joy; to pay taxes however much one is loath to part with the money, but that is an adventure that makes a couple hold up their heads and feel themselves part owners of every schoolhouse, road and other public utility. It's a successful tilt with Dame Fortune. No malcontent gets any sympathy from them—they own land, small or large though it be, and they are for building up the community. Tenancy is the mother of "Oh what's the use?" and ownership begets "Let's do it." The home of one's own may mean long plodding, self control in resisting temptation to turn into many a pleasant bye path but, oh, how well worth while in one's own house at the end of the road.—Mrs. W. L. Hunt in the Progressive Farmer.

ELECTRIC COMPANY MOVES FRANKLIN PLANT

Franklin Press Sept. 22.
 The local plant of the Western Electric company, established here 12 years ago, is about to be moved from Franklin it has been learned here. The plant until recently, was employing about 35 persons.

Changes in requirements are assigned as the reason for moving the plant. Equipment, etc., is to be shipped to the company's plant at Hawthorne, Ill.

Mica, an important insulating item in electric equipment, has constantly played an important part in the manufacture and development of electrical machinery and equipment and the local plant has done its share in the development of much of the important new equipment built by the Western Electric it is understood here.

The company is making arrangements to transfer its employees at the local plant to other points, if they desire to continue with the concern, according to J. W. Roper, manager of the local plant. Mr. Roper himself will be here until about January 1, when the removal of the plant equipment stock, etc., is expected to have been completed. He does not know yet to just what point he will go from Franklin.

The mica plant here was established during the war, when it became very difficult to secure mica from India and other large mica producing companies.

Mrs. Roper and little daughter will leave in a few days for Bradentown, Fla., where they will spend the winter with Mrs. Roper's father J. B. Rochester.

DIRECT PRIMARY UNDER FIRE

Again the direct primary law is under fire, this time in Massachusetts and in Maine, where attempts are being made to have this gear in the election machinery changed. Objections have cropped up here and there ever since the enactment in Wisconsin in 1903 as a protest against the old convention system, of the first state wide direct primary law. Utah, New Mexico, Rhode Island and Connecticut have never accepted the plan and in twenty seven of the forty four states that have done so there have been attacks from time to time upon it. There have been changes in the law as first adopted in many states, but New York and Idaho have returned to the convention system.

In announcing the public hearing on the question in Massachusetts the joint legislative committee reviewed the history of the direct primary and claimed that the weaknesses in the system had resulted in a change in the public attitude toward it.

One of the objections pointed out is that the majority of voters are not interested and will not go to the polls, a state of affairs which leaves the nomination to small minorities. At the first hearing in Boston there was such a crowd present that a larger room had to be obtained, a fact which was pointed to as an indication that there were many interested in a change in the law if not the elections themselves. Another striking commentary on the statement that the voters do not go to the polls is contributed by a recent statement by Simon Michelet, a political statistician, who says that in forty states the primary total vote seems to have grown from 8,456,000 in 1920 to 13,829,215 in 1926. In Maine where an active campaign has been waged this summer, the question will be decided by a special referendum.

Of course the "scandals" that some lay to the primary system may be simply another example of the abuse rather than the use of any law. Another charge against the primary law is that under it the voters do not have in their possession as much knowledge as they should have. Whatever the result in either Massachusetts or Maine, the voters generally will surely have much more information on the general subject than they have ever had before.—Christian Science Monitor.

PICNIC FOR 'BRYSON HOME' GUESTS

On Wednesday evening the Bryson Home of Sylva entertained their guests at a picnic near Cullasaja Falls. Since many of the guests were from other states, the long mountainous drive, the pure air, together with the beautiful moonlight scenery made of them a bunch of merry-makers and by the time they reached the picnic grounds they were ready to enjoy the marshmallows and weenie roast in store for them.

They were met there by Mr. Taylor, Supt. of road construction on Highlands-Franklin highway, who made ready a big camp fire and furnished music for their dancing while Mr. McCoy, local merchant, gave the soft drinks. Even though the smoke from the campfire may have changed the rosy cheeks of the lassies to a darker hue, the young men found that it only added more pep and joy to the bunch.

Those present were Mesdames Sam Bryson, W. L. Taylor and little daughter Beverly, Ola Duggan, Misses Mary Sue Hemphill, Barbara Haire; Eva Johnson; Lucy Bumgarner; Stella Fisher, Elizabeth Davis; Messrs F. Messer, Chester Scott; Kenneth Taylor; David Levy; Wash Fisher, F. Dill and Wayne Battle.

Know that the foods you serve are safe

Frigidaire prevents the unseen mold that imperils health

NOT for a minute would you think of risking the health of yourself and family by serving food on which mold appears. But do you realize that mold is often present from ten to twelve hours before it is visible to the naked eye? The microscope reveals that this is true.

The only protection against this unseen danger is to keep perishable foods in a dry atmosphere and in a refrigerating temperature of less than 50°. Frigidaire electric refrigeration meets both these requirements.

With all its advantages, Frigidaire is low in price. It can now be bought for as small a sum as $180 f. o. b. Dayton. And terms are so convenient that it is easily within your family budget. See a demonstration now.
