OFFERS PRIZE FOR UNUSUAL CORN EAR

Raleigh, N. C., Nov. 29—It is as hard to find an ear of corn with the rows of grains in odd numbers as it is to find a human being born with an unusual number of fingers.

"In fact so unusual is it to find such corn that I will give a prize of $50 to the first farmer in North Carolina who sends me in a normal ear with the grains in an odd number of rows," says Dr. B. W. Wells, head of the department of botany at State College. "Any normal ear of corn of any variety always has its grains in an even number of rows. If one does not believe this, let him get some ears and count the rows. After he has checked up a few thousands, he will become convinced."

The reason for this, states Dr. Wells goes back to the young ear. When it is not as big as one's finger and is only a mass of growing tissue, carefully tucked away in the green sheaths, one may see a number of small ridges forming. Each of these ridges splits into two parts to form two rows of corn. This is an inherited habit. The primary prominences develop two spikelets with the two resultant grains all along the ear. This is the secret of the whole matter, declares the botanist.

The habit of developing these even rows of grain is as fixed as that habit in the human species to bud five fingers on the primary arm extension and it is as easy to find corn with an odd number of grains as it is to find a human being with 9 or eleven fingers.

Dr. Wells believes that farmers will find many other interesting facts about the crops which they grow or the plants and trees on the farm if they will observe some of the habits of these plants. Some of the information will of course have no practical value in solving farm problems but the study is interesting and entertaining and adds greatly to one's store of knowledge which may eventually be of service in the farming enterprise.

SPEEDWELL

Most everybody is through with their fall work, taking care of their corn and have finished sowing wheat and rye. We have been blessed with a beautiful fall to finish up our work. Everything is getting along nicely at this place, having a good Sunday School and prayer meeting. Most of the young people are interested in both Sunday School and prayer service.

A lot of our people attended a baptizing at Tuckasee, Sunday afternoon. Sixteen people were baptised, most of them grown people and some old, gray haired men. Hope and pray that this will be a great advancement of the cause of God's kingdom in that part of His vineyard. Seems that people are taking time to think of what they are going to meet in the future. Great responsibility is resting on us older ones. Let's do our whole duty before the young and rising generation; then they will make good men and women and good men and women will make a successful county, state and nation.

Just a few lines on forest fires: Take thought and see how fast the timber is being taken out of our county and the damage that is done every year by forest fires. Thousands of dollars are being burned up every year by a little neglect of our good people. Let's be careful with fire and protect the young timber. It will soon be valuable. Let's all be careful with matches and not get a fire started in the forest. As I go through the mountains and look at the beautiful, young timber, how tall and straight it has grown, and how soon it will be marketable, if taken care of, then it is up to us to protect it from being destroyed by fire. Camel

The cigarette that knows how to "be itself"

There is no "pose" about Camel. It's just a good honest cigarette—the best ever—and it doesn't try to be anything else.

If all cigarettes were as good as Camel you wouldn't hear anything about special treatments to make cigarettes good for the throat. Nothing takes the place of choice tobacco.
