

SUMMEY HEARING SET FOR THURSDAY

Brevard News
 Much interest is being taken in the habeas corpus hearing, set for 2 o'clock Thursday afternoon, when custody of the 14-year-old daughter of Mr. Ott Summey and the former Mrs. Summey will be the issue. The couple have been separated for some time, and the former Mrs. Summey is now Mrs. J. N. Tate of Waynesville. She is suing for the custody of her daughter. Because of the prominence of the family, the case has assumed unusual proportions here. G. A. Ward, Waynesville lawyer, and Ralph R. Fisher, of the local bar, are representing Mrs. Tate in her fight for custody of the daughter, while Wm. E. Breese, of Brevard, is representing Mr. Summey in his effort to keep the child with him.

The one great thing that Tarheel farmers may learn from those in continental Europe is the practice of thrift, say those county agents who visited Northern Europe this past summer.

Within the past three years, 861 pure bred registered dairy bulls have been brought into North Carolina through the work of the county agents and dairy specialists of State College.

North Carolina farmers appear to know the need for a statewide organization but are not unanimous as to the financial support which should be given.
