Suppose all of us who have felt contempt to the senate should be sent stream!

Imagine anybody trying to live anywhere that is not within easy striking distance of a good trout stream.

Farm Relief Amendments Swamp Senate. The farmers were already swamped, and this makes it unanimous.

Suppose, in view of Nicaragua, and other recent occurrences, the President Monroe would recognize his own doctrine!

So far the farmer hasn't even been relieved of his anxiety over what the relief session of congress is going to do to him.

A scientist has invented a device that will open the garage door by three toots of the horn. Drug store cowboys have long used this method for opening front doors.

BUNCOED AS USUAL

Buncoed as usual, is the way the Asheville Citizen sums up the 85-000 word tariff bill that the committee of the "farm relief" congress has presented the farmers.

The Citizen goes on to say:

"This was to be, we were sweetly assured, a tariff for agriculture. Well, the extent of farm relief granted the North Carolina farmers, according to John A. Livingston, of the Raleigh News and Observer, is that North Carolina rutabagas have been raised to the dignity of turnips and the duty on both turnips and rutabagas has been fixed at 25 cents a hundred pounds, or a little better than double the present duty of 12 cents on turnips.

"With the sugar tariff increased from 2.2 cents a pound to 3 cents on top grades, the sugar planters of Louisiana and the sugar beet growers of the North west will profit; but as Congressman Daughton points out, "for every dollar they receive the consuming public of America will pay many dollars in the way of increased prices for sugar, most of which is imported!"

"Raw cotton was left on the free list Duties on certain classes of cotton goods were increased, but mainly on the finer grades and with frank explanation that the purpose is to improve conditions in New England Textile industry as far as may be possible by means of the tariff

"The cotton people lost their fight over a tariff on jute, but the manufacturers succeeded in having shingles, brick, cement, and other building materials removed from the free list

In the bill there is no hope for the average man who lives on the land

Congressman Rainey of Illinois says that that the new tarriff is simply a monster gold brick What else was to have been expected?

HARRY SINCLAIR IN HOOSGOW

Upon Harry F. Sinclair, serving a 90 day sentence in the District of Columbia jail, for contempt of the senate, has been conferred the honorary degree of Ph. D. for 90 days, as the official druggist of the prison

The mountain of the law was in labor and brought forth a mouse.

Innumerable criminal acts were brought to light and dark and devious ways disclosed during the investigation of the larceny of the oil lands.

Many men of station and of wealth were indicted. Some principals and some witnesses fled the country. Others escaped punishment by one means or another. Nobody was really sent to prison for larceny.

The only case of any of the crew becoming an inmate of a prison is that of Dr. Sinclair, who is a druggist for 90 days, not for raiding public oil lands, nor for interfering with the course of justice in the courts, but for contempt of the senate in refusing to answer questions prop-ounded to him during the investigations.

One thing is proved, however. It is possible to send a million dollars to jail in America.

ALICE IN SOCIALLAND.

The senate may resolve, the diplomats may agree; but the social war regarding the dinner status of Mrs.
Gann, sister of our vice president, goes on apace. For what do decrees, resolutions, or decisions of mere man amount to, when the women are still to have their say? Alice Roosevelt Longworth, brilliant daughter of Theodore the Greater, and long a thorn in the flesh of dwellers in Washington who do not do as she would have them, has refused an invitation to a party where Mrs. Gann was to be seated where the biscuit, or whatever it is they eat for bread up there, are served the hottest. And the war over Mrs. Gann has broken out afresh.

We moved that the whole matter of Mrs. Gann's proper place at the dinner table be referred to a board of arbitration composed of Senator Tom Healin, Dr. Nicholas Murray
Butler, Emily Post, Sister Mable Walker Willebrant, and H. L. Men-ken. This would give congress an opportunity to look after less important matters.

WHEAT INSTEAD OF TARES

About forty years ago, in Jackson Co., tobacco, the weed, was raised from the seed, transplanted in the row, as 'twas meant to grow, the best of our land was used for this plan. Then father and son, each and all, everyone went to work with good cheer "Thirteen Months" of the year, hoping that when to market they went, they would receive one hundred per cent.

Tall barns were erected, they "cured" night and day - every fellow, that a rich brown they might obtain, or a golden yellow.

Then with wagons piled high with good weight and measure, to market they hied with their golden treasure

When at the warehouse they arrive, here it must be classified. Then grading was done by the "Other Fellow", who spoke in feigned voice low and mellow - "You have very good stuff of the common kind; but very little of first class grade I find.

So he had to sell at half price e-none, in preference to taking his load back home.

So poor farmer returned with head bent low, "A lesson I've learned wherever I go."

I'll raise for my family something to eat to nourish their bodies and keep them sweet, that they cry not, as they have, for bread and meat, while I sowed tares when I should have sown wheat.

So this is the reason for many years, for lack of food we've seen no tears but now we're advised by the "Upper Ten" to raise the vile stuff again to begin

With it our children must in constant contact be brought, and form the life long habit by their parents taught Although by school books it is declared that by its use both mind and body are impaired.

So farmers of Jackson, whatever the need, raise food for your children and not the vile weed to poison their bodies, their minds to impair—

Before moving 74 head of cattle from Caldwell county to Watauga for summer grazing, the owner had the herd vaccinated for black leg.

Rowan farmers are planning to cash in on the growing of sweet clover in that county by transferring their bees to modern hives.

SYLVA PHARMACY

Since we came into this territory, various and sundry kinds of propoganda in various and sundry amounts and degrees of viciousness and malice has been perpetrated about us.

All we have to say regarding this is that, on the very face of the whole truth it emanates from a sad lack of knowledge of all the existing facts and the trend of future conditions.

Further, we hold no malice against any individual or firm. But we will continue to do all we legitimately can to further our own business, as we have every right to do.

Finally, the day has long passed when any one can beat prices down. If and when this is tried there are a half dozen others ready to jump in.
