Most present day music is comedy

Its time to stop our own little crime wave.

Less than thirty days until the trout season opens.

The Literary Digest's straw may not break the camel's back.

Everything's 'Jake' has a new and sinister meaning some places.

The place for the Naval Conference to put the dead-lock is on the navies.

Anyway 1930 is a little longer, by the grace of the State Highway Commission.

For the 10th consecutive year, this
State lead the nation in percentage of births.

It would suit us just as well for that prosperity to come in ahead of time.

Mr. Wickersham's law commission needs light of the beer and wine program.

Personally, we don't care where
Al Capone is, just so he stays away from our mountain country.

When Americans get down to business of growing goldenrod for rubber, we wouldn't advise hay fever sufferers to go into the enterprise.

Literary Digest referendum or no, the 18th Amendment, like some others we could mention, is in the Constitution to stay.

WEBSTER HIGH TO PRESENT MARRYING MARION, THE 26TH

The senior class of Webster High school will present "Marrying Marion", on Wednesday evening, March 26, at 8 o'clock.

This is a sparkling up-to-the-minute comedy, with an all star cast, and a company of pretty chorus girls, which adds color as well as charm to this lively production.

The cast of characters is:
Simpson, a supposed butler, Nelson Tatham.

Miss Prudence McWhittle, an elderly teacher, Pearl Cowan.

Marion Stanton, a popular student, Maud Cooper.

Ruth Ripley, Marion's roommate, Leona Rogers.

Dr. Henry Bohunkus, head of Hilldale Seminary, Alvin Fullbright.

Mrs. Henry Bohunkus, by far the better half, Violet Dillard.

Charles S. Smith, a professor by proxy, Paul Sutton.

Cicero Soerates Smith, a janitor by necessity, Frank Cowan.

And a chorus of pretty girls.

MRS. REED CONVALESCING

Friends of Mrs. W. E. Reed will be gratified to learn that she is making satisfactory recovery, following an operation she underwent at the Candler-Nichols hospital, last week, and it is expected that she will return to her home within the next few days.

SCOUTS TO GET CERTIFICATES

Friday evening at the regular weekly meeting of the local Scout troop the scouts will be presented with their certificates for the coming year by the Scoutmaster. Each scout is urged to be present. The Scoutmaster will, also, make an address to the troop.

BETA GIRL GETS APPOINTMENT IN TENNESSEE

Miss Iler C. Davis of Beta has been appointed by the Davidson county board of health as assistant supervisor of nurses and assigned the duty of correlating the tuberculosis nursing activities of this department. She will aid the director of nurses in the voluntary agencies fighting tuberculosis in the county, and the health officer is planning further extension of tuberculosis control measures.

Miss Daw is a daughter of Mr. W. V. Davis, of Beta. She has had institutional training at the Davidson county tuberculosis hospital, and has been doing field work there for 15 months, making her familiar with local needs and conditions in Davidson.

PISTOLS

The Massachusetts legislature is considering a bill to prohibit the manufacture of pistols within the state.

Nowhere else in the world are pistols sold so freely as in this country. And nowhere else in the world are there so many murders. Rifles and shotguns are used for sport. Pistols are made for shooting only one kind of game. Think that over. The only purpose for which a pistol is made or used is to kill human beings!

The knowledge that one carries a pistol invites attack. Most shootings arise from the fear that the other fellow will shoot first. The unarmed man is less likely to be shot than is the gun-toter.

IRISH

Wherever you go you can find folk of Irish descent. And wherever you find them you will find them with a finger in the political pie. Politics and fighting seem to be gifts with which every Irishman is born. One of the greatest leaders of the American Revolution was General Sullivan. A McMahon was a Marshal of France and afterwards President of the French Republic. Admiral O'Higgins is one of Chile's national heroes. O'Reilly street in Havana is named for a Cuban patriot of Irish descent. One of the members of the French cabinet which took office in February is named Hennessey. Tradition has it that the Obregonos of Mexico were really O'Briens. Three Presidents of the United States have been of Irish stock. Men of practically unmixed Irish descent control the governments of New York City and Boston and of many other American cities.

The secret seems to be in the Irishman's innate ability to adapt himself to his surroundings, a quality which many other races seem to lack.

CHINA

The North China Republic seems to be on the way to firm establishment on the basis of democracy as we understand it. That part of China has been free from war since 1927. The name of the old city of Peking has been changed to Peiping, which means "City of Peace." The leader of the Nationalist party have inaugurated an educational program looking toward the establishment of a constitutional, representative government.

It may take China a hundred years, and probably will, to lift its people to the levels of civilization as we understand it, but the present movement is the most hopeful of any which have been undertaken.

SALVATION

Fifty years ago, on March 10, 1880, six young women dressed in strange-looking blue bonnets with red ribbons across them and wearing blue caps lined with scarlet, landed at Castle Garden. They were the advance guard of the Salvation Army, sent across the Atlantic by General William Booth, that inspired son of a Jewish pawnbroker, to carry his militant Christianity, with the aid of the bass drum and the cornet, into the slums of America.

They and their successors have reached down to levels which the churches had never plumbed and lifted thousands of hopeless, weak and miserable human beings into a new life of faith, hope and courage.

No other organization or sect so endeared itself to our soldiers in France as did the Salvationists, with their human, simple, selfless helpfulness. No other religious organization today holds the respect of all intelligent church people as the Salvation Army does. It has proved itself the friend of the poor and the unfortunate. Its leaders and members have justified their faith by their works.

CORPORATIONS

The business corporation, the shareholders in which have no liability for the company's debts beyond the amount of their investment, is only 100 years old. In 1830 the Commonwealth of Massachusetts enacted the first law permitting manufacturers to incorporate. Today more than nine-tenths of the nation's business, aside from farming, is done by or through corporations.

Corporate farming is the next step. Farmers are learning about corporations and corporate management through their selling cooperatives. In several sections corporations are operating farms successfully.

The most important thing we have learned about business corporations in 100 years is that their success depends almost entirely on their management. They do not run themselves. And the success of corporate farming will depend entirely upon the management of the farming corporations.

BALSAM

Mr. Henderson Jones has returned to his home from a visit to his brother John, owner and proprietor of the famous resort, Jones Farm, near Lake Junaluska.

Mrs. Walter Wiley of Qualla spent last week end with Mrs. Fred Coffee. Master James Rickards of Canton was guest of his aunt, Mrs. E. W. Kent last week.

Mrs. Aaron Bryson, Miss Pauline Bryson, and Mrs. Fred Coffee were guests of the Ramseys in Asheville, several days, last week.

"Therewith To Be Content"

RAN across this paragraph in the note-books of Samuel Butler:

"I imagine that life can give nothing much better or much worse than what I have myself experienced. I should say I have proved pretty well the extremes of mental pleasure and pain; and so I believe, each in his own way, does almost every man."

Charles M. Schwab, at last reports, had more money than I—but just what can he buy with it?

Three meals a day. They will cost more to serve than my three, but if Charlie enjoys them any more he is going some.

A roof over his head. It will be a wider and steeper roof than mine, and more rain will run off it; but the rain that runs off mine will be just as wet, and underneath I shall be just as dry.

A good night's sleep—if he's lucky.

He can own more of the world's surface than I. But try as he may, he can not breathe up any more of its air; he cannot absorb any more of its sunshine; he can not bribe the ocean to give him any more invigorating bath; nor the evening stars to shine any brighter over his estate.

The world is full of pleasant sights and sounds and smells, and his ears and nose and eyes do not bring him any sensation a particle more sweet than mine bring to me.

Compared with the blessings we have in common, the few blessings which he has and I have not are insignificant.

The habit of contentment is formed, not from without, but from within.

"There is no duty we so much underestimate," says Stevenson, "as the duty of being happy. By being happy, we sow anonymous benefits upon the world which remain unknown even to ourselves; or, when they are disclosed, surprise nobody so much as the benefactor. A happy man or woman is a better thing to find than a five-pound note. He or she is a radiating focus of good will, and their entrance into a room is as though another candle had been lighted."

It is strange that contentment should not be more widespread, considering how very common and close at hand are the elements that go into it.

Work is one big ingredient. Simple tastes—the power of finding great satisfaction in little things—is another.

The power to take things as they come, and enjoy them to the limit, is another. St. Paul, for instance, did a good-sized job, and left a shining record.

He was forever "pressing forward to his goal." Yet it was he also who wrote:

"For I have learned, in whatsoever state I am, therewith to be content."

Major and Mrs. Wilson of Daytona Beach, Fla., arrived Monday to spend a while in their summer home here. They have been touring in the Northern cities and are on their way to their Florida home.
