JACKSON LIVESTOCK AND POULTRY SHOW

Thursday, Nov. 5;
Friday, Nov. 6

JACKSON COUNTY LIVESTOCK AND POULTRY SHOW, INCLUDING CERTAIN FARM PRODUCE SYLVA, N. C., NOVEMBER 5TH AND 6TH, 1931

HIGH SPOTS OF SHOW

(By E. V. Vestal, County Agent)

Thursday and Friday of this week we will have our Annual Livestock and Poultry Show. This year we are including Corn displays (10 ears), peck entries of Green Mountain and Irish Cobbler potatoes, and canned goods. As last year, we will have the 4-H Club farm displays.

The Livestock will be shown in Mrs. Love's warehouse, next to J. B. Ensley Feed Co., the poultry in the Dills building next to Western Union, and the corn, potatoes and canned goods in the Chamber of Commerce hall. The 4-H Club farm displays will be in the Love warehouse again this year.

Besides the regular prizes on Livestock poultry and 4-H Club farm displays, and the rice ribbons on corn, potatoes and canned goods, C. C. Cagle and Son ask us to announce that they will give special prizes of $40 and $25 to the family winning the most points (Blue Ribbons counting 2 and reds counting 1). These special prizes will be credited on any new Ford, outright purchase. This makes the combined effort of the family worth quite a bit, especially if they expect to purchase a new Ford during the next twelve months.

Friday at 11 a. m. in the Chamber of Commerce, Prof. E. H. Stillwell of Cullowhee will make a talk on Thrift and the live-at-home idea. I have heard Prof. Stillwell make such a talk, and it is of real value to any person in this section. Also, at this same hour, Ned Tucker of the Cullowhee 4-H Club will give a six minutes talk on 4-H Club work. The State club leader is having Ned broadcast this talk over the radio from Asheville next Saturday at 12.30.

Mrs. Harry Evans, assisted by Mrs. John R. Jones and others, will give a canning demonstration with meats, sweet potatoes, etc., Thursday and Friday.

Mr. Smith, vocational agricultural teacher, of Waynesville, will judge the poultry, Thursday, p. m., Miss Person, home economics teacher at Bryson City, will judge the canned goods, Thursday, p. m., and Mr. J. L. Robinson, Haywood county agent, will judge the livestock and crops on Friday morning.

Please make a special effort to attend the show. It costs nothing and the exhibits and addresses will sure be worth while.

The Sylva merchants are cooperating with special sales, as well as helping finance the show.

ROTARY CLUB MEETS

The Sylva Rotary Club met Tuesday at Jarrett-Springs hotel, with one visitor present, Fred Sloan of Franklin.

Dr. Charlie Candler, in the absence of vice president Tom Fernald, gave the Club some helpful information on International service. With Rotary Clubs in different countries of the world, and with the International meeting, Rotary is playing its part in developing better understanding throughout the world. Dr. Candler gave some idea why each Rotarian and each citizen should think of world peace, and explained that it is the duty of every citizen to consider international good will when we vote, as well as when we think of other nations. As we no longer live to ourselves and we are dependent on products and markets in other countries, we are now closer together as nations than ever before, according to Dr. Candler's discussion.

The Livestock and Poultry Show to be held here on Thursday and Friday was again brought to the attention of the members of the club.

President Kermit Chapman mentioned that District Governor Burt Shaffer had a good word for the club as a result of his visit here a short time ago.

SYLVA GIRL HEADS BAPTIST YOUNG COLLEGE PEOPLE

Miss Kate Allison, Meredith College, was elected president of the North Carolina Baptist student conference, at the meeting in Durham, November 1, at the close of a three day meeting.

Miss Allison is a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Roy C. Allison of Sylva.

RED CROSS ROLL CALL STARTS NOVEMBER 11

The annual Red Cross Roll Call for members starts on Armistice Day, next Wednesday, and continues until Thanksgiving day.

Dr. Grover Wilkes is county chairman, this year; and Dr. W. P. McGuire is again treasurer.

The drive for members will again be conducted by the members of the Junior Club of Sylva, and Miss Docia Garrett is community chairman for Sylva.

GRILL HAS NEW MANAGEMENT

Mrs. J. W. Keener and Mrs. Ernest Keener have assumed the management of the Poinsett Grill, taking charge of the establishment on yesterday, when the former proprietor, Mr. C. T. Roane, moved to Asheville to take charge of the Western hotel.

FORTY YEARS AGO

Tuckaseige Democrat, Nov. 4, 1891

The report that the Winston and Salem postoffices were to be consolidated has caused considerable indignation among the citizenry of Salem and they have passed resolutions against it, which with similar resolutions by the Winston-Salem chamber of commerce were sent on to Washington.

Elizabethton, Tenn.: Ex-Governor Robert L. Taylor has signed a contract to deliver a lecture this season in the leading cities of the South. The subject of the lecture will be "The Fiddle and the Bow".

Mr. W. M. Burns was in town Monday.

Mr. and Mrs. D. Z. Dillard went to Asheville, Monday.

Master Louis Davis, of Greer, S. C., is visiting his brother, R. M. Davis.

Profs. Madison and House favored the Democrat office with a call last, Thursday, while on their way to the Teachers' Association at Bryson City.

That Jackson County china can be turned into the finest china is proved by the specimens sent to the Exposition at Raleigh by Dr. J. H. Wolff. He sent the clay to Trenton, N. J., and had it made into three different kinds of ware. There is a cracker jar of the common queens ware, a china pitcher, beautifully decorated, and a tea cup and saucer, which is elegant and dainty enough to set before a queen. Each piece has on it in gold letters "D. J. H. Wolff, B. (for Bumgarner mines) Jackson Co. Clay, N. C." The kaolin will be displayed at the Exposition in every stage from the crude, unwashed clay, to the finest of china.

Mr. Peter Wilkes, whose farm lies on both sides of the railroad a short distance below here, has this year made a record, which, we venture to assert, can not be beaten in the State. He has just gathered from four acres of land and measured into his crib 400 bushels of splendid corn. Mr. Wilkes' other crops were also good, and until some one can establish a better record, we claim for him the proud distinction of being the best farmer in the State, and for Jackson county lands the preeminence over those of any county in their capacity to yield the largest crops under intelligent cultivation.

At the regular meeting of the County Commissioners last Monday an order was made appropriating $300 towards the building of a bridge across the Tuckaseige river near the mouth of Savannah creek, the balance to be raised by private subscription, and, when completed, the bridge to be made a county bridge.

The petition to lay off a new road from the Forks of the River to Big Ridge school house was granted, subscription.

another dozen, of those nice, fresh eggs.

Having been reared on a big farm, I am always interested in farming. Just what would other people do if it wasn't for the farmer, who is the backbone of our country?

Activities Of White House In Spotlight

Washington, Nov. 4— (Autocaster)

More activity has been displayed by the White House in the past few weeks than in many months. Congress will meet a month from now and the spotlight will shift to Capitol Hill, especially over the choice of a successor to Speaker Nicholas Longworth of the House of Representatives.

Meanwhile the President has been grappling with the immediate problems that are facing the country. Premier Laval's visit here is generally conceded to have been of first importance, not because of anything that was actually accomplished, but regarding their individual aims and because it resulted in a thorough understanding between the two countries purposes.

Before even the leaders of the governments of France and the United States clasped hands a definite statement was issued that nothing that might be done or said was to be taken as having a binding effect on either country. That statement disposed of any possible criticism that Mr. Hoover was about to engage in any of the "entangling foreign alliances" that political spellbinders use so effectively in campaigns.

The greatest good accomplished, diplomats here believe, was the clear enunciation on the part of the United States that it would not follow England's example and forsake the gold standard. That was France's greatest anxiety and to prevent such action was understood to be Premier Laval's main object in coming here. It was agreed at the conference that the aim of both countries are identical in desiring to keep international finance on an even keel and that they would work in harmony to prevent any major disturbances.

While statements were issued that politics was not discussed at the conference, nobody believes that either Mr. Hoover or Mr. Laval could keep off the subject entirely. They are both of them too deeply interested in the subject to avoid some remarks, but, whatever they said, it was not disclosed.

Senator Borah did not overlook the chance to grab the political limelight, however, and his interview granted to French newspapermen, startled the world until later assurances from the White House made it clear that Borah was speaking only for himself and not with real authority. Borah is chairman of the Foreign Relations Committee of the Senate, and Europeans consider that post equivalent to the post of foreign minister in their countries.

Nobody in the United States has any false notion about Borah's importance and his demands for a reshaping of the boundaries of Hungary and revision of the lines of the Polish Corridor were not taken by any of the French delegation as being of any importance.

In recent weeks, feelers have been put out for the purpose of sounding public sentiment regarding the imposition of additional sales taxes. So far the only thing learned is that all are agreed this country must raise more revenue in addition to the present means of raising money by income taxes, the customs, inheritance and other forms. Coupled with this is the fact that sales taxes bear lightest upon the voter, if properly laid.
