Who, now, are the doughboys?
Seems like the folks figure that most all taxes are no-sir taxes.

That chewing gum tax will give the people something to ruminate upon.
Keep the dough from the dough-boys, says our President.

If we ever come to the dolo system in this country, remember that it was the big boys who made the first raid.

Asheville has been having a refrigeration show. Seems to us as if a thaw-out show for frozen assets would be more apropos.

Millions for the big interests and international bankers; but of one cent for soldiers, is the reconstruction policy of President Hoover.

That Chicago gangster who was declared dead more than a year ago, and has come back for trial, now that the witness against him is really dead, was only possuming.

We can't think of a better way congress could have found to impress upon the people that it is their money that the federal government is so handy in spending than by making them pay an additional one cent to mail a letter and a tax of four cents per thousand on matches and five per cent on chewing gum.

Julian Price, of the Jefferson Standard Life Insurance Company is advocating saner methods of investing. We hardly think this will require a great deal of publicity and agitation. Give the folks something to invest, once more, and they have learned, in the school of bitter experience, not to throw it to the wildcats.

HOOVER AND THE VETERANS

The editor of this paper, although he has an adjusted service compensation certificate for the maximum amount to be paid under the law, and despite the fact that he has a budget of his own, with which he has extreme difficulty in striking a balance, even as you, was inclined to agree with President Hoover, when he first voiced opposition to the immediate payment of the certificates in cash. Mr. Hoover's point was well-taken, when he called attention to the fact that the federal treasury has a deficit of staggering proportions, and it behooved all good citizens to keep hands off Uncle Sam's bank account until such time as he could obtain more money with which to meet his more pressing obligations.

However, when the President induced congress to vote billions of dollars, opening the door of the treasury and inviting raids by the big interests, that put a different face on the matter. If the government has its billions to loan to railroads and international bankers, it should surely be able to find the cash with which to redeem the certificates that the veterans hold.

While the soldiers were in the trenches, fighting back the foe of their country, the capitalists were making money by the ear load. A new millionaire was made almost every time a soldier was killed. And the old millionaires were piling up more millions.

Now, Mr. Hoover has come to the rescue of distressed capital, and has announced that he will veto an bill looking to the relief of the service men.

It is plain to all that Mr. Hoover is the friend of capital; but can not see that the common folk should be paid their due from the same source from which capital has been authorized to borrow unstintingly.

We take it that Jackson is an average county. The soldiers in Jackson would receive $214,437.56 in cash, should the certificates be paid, which would be worth more to the people in this county than all the loans that the government could possibly make to the big interests. North Carolina men would receive $38,801,178.22. It would be scattered on every street, in every hamlet, up every branch, and into every cove. It would go to pay the butcher, the baker, the candlestick-maker, and maybe the boot legger. The tax collector would get his part, which in turn would go to help pay the school teachers their belated pay. Everybody would benefit; and the government will have to pay, sooner or later, anyway. The obligation is outstanding and is as binding as a government bond.

There wouldn't be much, if any efficient anyway, if Mr. Hoover and Mr.
Mellon hadn't persuaded their congress, a few years ago, to vote back a flock of millions of dollars to the big taxpayers, that had already been collected, and which the recipients didn't really need, anyway.
That was a foolish thing to do; but the ox knoweth his owner, and the ass his master's crib.

GLENVILLE HAS P. T. A.

Dr. W. P. McGuire, county chairman of the Red Cross, Mrs. J. D.
Cowan, district vice president Parent-teacher association and Mr. Ellis Vestal, county farm agent, went to Glenville, Sunday afternoon and assisted in the organization of a parent teacher association. The officers are, president, Mrs. J. M. Cunningham; vice-president, Mrs. Sallie Moss; secretary-treasurer Mr. Carl Jamison.
The association has joined the state and national organizations and sent the state treasurer dues for ten members. It was decided to do welfare or relief work for the community through the parent-teacher association, instead of having a separate organization, and Mr. W. A. Henson was elected chairman of the welfare committee.

Sov. Johnnie R. Beasley, and,
