

Will Fence In Athletic Field At Cullowhee

According to an announcement made by C. C. Poindexter, Director of Athletics at Western Carolina Teachers College, work will begin within the next few days on a fence around the school's new athletic field. The fence is to be a board structure nine feet high supported by locust posts ten feet apart. Plans are to have the fence ready for the opening of the football season. Contract has already been let for the posts and the lumber will be contracted for within the next day or two.

The school is asking for donations from the business concerns in Sylva, Cullowhee and elsewhere that are interested in advertising their products and helping the school. In return for a twenty-five dollar donation the school is offering the following:

1. One panel ad space on fence as long as it lasts.
2. Season pass to all home games for two.
3. Ad on 250 desk blotters that will go in the room of every student and be distributed in Sylva.
4. Ad in 1000 football schedule folders that will be given spectators at each game.
5. Framed poster list of contributors hung in hall of administration building.
6. Announcement in special issue of Jackson County Journal that will go into the hands of every student that registers at Western Carolina this fall, as well as to regular subscribers.

The fence will be constructed of dressed lumber suitable for painting signs on. Contributors may place ad on inside, outside or both.

The school authorities have already approached several of the business concerns in Sylva and Cullowhee and practically all of them have agreed to take ad space and thereby help build the fence. Other concerns will be visited within the next few days and everyone given an opportunity to contribute.

For those who are not interested in advertising, but want to help the school, two season passes to all home football and baseball games are being given for a five-dollar donation.

Any firm or individual that will consider making a donation to the fund is asked to get in touch with Coach Poindexter at his office in the Buchanan Building immediately, as he wants to get the work started without delay.

SYLVA DEFEATS HAZELWOOD; MEET AGAIN WEDNESDAY

Sylva, leaders of the Smoky Mountains League, handed Hazelwood, leaders of the Industrial League, a 9-8 trouncing at Lake Junaluska, Monday afternoon. The Sylva team held the lead from the early innings throughout the game.

Fincaannon, hurling for Sylva, demonstrated that he could fling a baseball as well as he could handle a basketball, by keeping his opponents' hits well scattered. Time and again, with a man on third and no one out, he retired the side.

Queen featured at bat for Sylva, with four hits out of six times at bat. He has gone to bat eleven times in the last two games and hit for eight safeties. He has developed a hitting punch this season that has been of great help to the club.

Hazelwood used three pitchers but neither was sufficiently effective to stop the local batsmen.

The two teams will meet again next Wednesday afternoon, on Allison Field, in what is expected to be one of the best games of the season, as they are traditionally, old rivals, and the Hazelwood club is out for revenge. The game will be called at five o'clock.

Bible . . . and its versions

The discovery in a school on Staten Island of a copy of the rare "Breeches Bible," printed at Geneva in the year 1560, has revived interest in the various versions of the English Bible. This particular version gets its name because it says that Adam and Eve made themselves "breeches" of fig leaves, instead of "aprons," as the King James Version translates it. No perfect copy of the Bible has ever been printed, according to one of the officials of the American Bible Society. Misspelled words and other errors appear in every direction.

The Authorized Version of the Bible as it was first published in 1611 would be hard reading today. Modern Bibles follow modern spelling, but in the time of King James the Bible appeared with such spellings as "Forgive vs our dettes as we forgieve oure detters."

The simplification and modernizing of the Bible goes on steadily and at least two complete new translations have recently come out, but the stately phrases of the Authorized Version have become so much a part of the common speech of English-speaking people that it is unlikely the new phraseology will ever be so widely accepted.

Colleges . . . and women

The demand for college-trained women in business is one of the interesting developments of modern times. Talking recently with the head of one of the largest department stores in America, he said that the only way he had found to obtain sales people and clerks of the high degree of intelligence and character his store required was to employ only college women, when they could be got.

Colleges for women are new things; the oldest is less than seventy-five years old. They had to fight their way in the face of a general prejudice against educating girls. They have always been "hard up," having to make a dollar do the work of three, while men's colleges have obtained large endowments. Now the seven leading women's colleges have united in an appeal for financial aid in carrying on the work of giving girls an equal chance with boys.

It takes courage and faith to try to raise a fund of thirty million dollars in times like these. If it were men who were trying, I would say they hadn't a chance. But when women start after a thing they usually get it, so I have hopes that Barnard, Bryn Mawr, Mount Holyoke, Radcliffe, Smith, Vassar and Wellesley will find their money somewhere.

Taxes . . . the Georgia way

What usually happens when the politicians in control of the reins of government find that there is a surplus of tax income over necessary expenses, is that they create a lot of new jobs and so find ways to spend more than the revenues.

The city of Fairburn, Georgia, seems to be in the hands of a different sort of officials. Finding itself with a surplus of $5,000 in the municipal treasury, enough to run the city for a year, it has declared all taxes off for a year.

Did anybody ever hear of anything like that before? I never did.

Banks . . . and social service

I was sitting in the president's office of the little country bank where I do business when the cashier came in. A village man who had had a lot of sickness in his family, and was being pressed for doctor's and other bills, wanted to borrow fifty dollars.

"He's honest?" asked the president. "Absolutely," the cashier replied. "Got a job?" "Works for the town." "Find out how much he owes in all, and let him have what he needs to clean up, up to a hundred dollars," said the president. Take his note and tell him to pay what he can when it's due and we'll renew the rest. And, John," the president added, as the cashier turned to go, "you can handle any other cases of the same sort the same way.

That's real banking, because it's human banking. Big banks that have to delegate all their functions to clerks, and lay down rules which must not be departed from can't lend

McKee Again Is Chosen As Party Leader

Mr. E. L. McKee was unanimously elected to succeed himself as Chairman of the Democratic Executive Committee for Jackson County, at a recent meeting of the committee.

Mr. McKee was first elected chairman in 1928, and in that election, while the Republicans carried the county, large gains were made over the vote of the preceding election.

He was reelected in 1930, and led the campaign which resulted in re-deeming the county for the Democrats, and the election of the entire Democratic ticket by majorities ranging from 470 to 661.

Miss Jane Coward was reelected as secretary to the committee, a post which she has held for four years.

At the recent county convention a rising vote of thanks was extended to both Mr. McKee and Miss Coward for the efficient work that they have done, and their untiring loyalty to the party.

JACKSON COUNTY FARMERS MAKE SHIPMENT OF LAMBS

Forty-seven lambs were shipped from seven Jackson County farms last Wednesday by truck to Atlanta. E. V. Vestal, county agent, accompanied the shipment. Thursday morning the lambs were sold to the White Provision Company for the following:

16 good lambs, 1335lb @ 6c	$99.10
2 good bucks, 160 lb @ 5c	8.00
20 medium lambs, 1570 lbs @ 5c	102.50
1 medium buck, 65 lbs @ 4c	2.60
5 common lambs, 335 lbs @ 4c	13.40
2 cull lambs, 130 lbs @ 3 1/2c	4.55
1 yearling wether, 100 lbs @ 4 1/2c	4.50
TOTAL	$191.65
Cost: 3695 lbs @ 68c cwt. frgt.	25.12
Net to farmers	$166.53

These 47 lambs averaged $4.07 each on the market with a shipping expense of 70c, including drift. The drift on the 47 lambs averaged approximately 6 1/2 lbs each against 10 to 13 1/2 lbs. drift formerly received in Richmond and Cincinnati shipments last year. Even though the market at Atlanta is not quite as high on good lambs as at other central markets, the difference in shipping expense more than makes up for it.

In order to top the market at any place a 75 to 80 lb. lamb carrying plenty of flesh is required to grade Good. The County Agent urges all lamb growers to keep their lambs free of worms and on good grass in order to ship only top lambs, shipping as they reach the proper weight and flesh. More shipments are planned in the near future. Anyone the County Agent has not already seen is urged to see him in the near future and let him plan future shipments. By shipping cooperatively as these seven men did, you get all the lambs bring, less transportation.

Congressmen Criticized For Using Funds

Washington, D. C., July 20. (Special)

Political propagandists of both parties have been busy digging into the records of "honest graft" on the part of members of the House and Senate, and have uncovered sources of income, above their salaries, of which a majority of members of both parties, seem to have availed themselves.

Not that there is anything technically dishonest about putting members of one's family on the government payroll, or collecting travel and expense money which has not been actually expended. Congress makes the laws governing these things, and Congress has ever been seen to it that there are many ways in which its members can add something to their $10,000 salaries.

Every member, for example, is entitled to charge 40 cents a mile for travel between his home district and Washington, at the beginning and end of each session of Congress. That runs up into material money in the case of a member from the West Coast, who can put in a bill for $1,200 at least twice a year for "travel expense," whether he goes home between sessions or not.

Some Fast Travelers

Instances have been uncovered where members collected round-trip travel expenses between the end of a regular session and the beginning of a special session which began only a few days later, when it would have been impossible for them to go back and back in the time allowed. They got their travel pay, nevertheless. Legal, of course—but is it legitimate and honest?

In the matter of members of the families on Government payroll, enough has already been uncovered.

men and not a few Senators anxious that nobody goes into their home districts with the facts. Each member is allowed $2,000 a year for a secretary. In addition, every committee of each house has an appropriation for a committee clerk, and that appointment is at the disposal of the chairman of the committee. Besides those functionaries, there are literally hundreds of other employees in and around the Capitol and the Senate and House office buildings—something more than 3,000 in all.

Many members appoint their wives or their sons as secretaries, put nephews and other relations in as pages, clerks and the like. The record is not yet complete, but enough has been discovered to indicate that there are comparatively few members of either house who have not been able to add a few thousand a year to the family income by these methods.

Many Wrinkled Brows

As stated before there is nothing partisan about this inquiry. Just about as many members of one party as of the other are concerned.

Besides the money perquisites, members have luxurious offices furnished at Government expense, elaborate Turkish baths and barber shops, the best restaurant in Washington for their exclusive use, and many other luxuries which make the life of a Senator or Representative far from unpleasant. What is worrying some of them now, however, is the fear that the facts about these things will get back home where their constituents are groaning under the burden of taxes imposed by these same lawmakers. The facts might result in some embarrassing questions between now and election.
