We don't mean that we don't like to see the girls at W. C. T. C., when we rejoice in the increased male enrollment. Fact is, we always did prefer to look at a student body of girls.

Hot Dog! They are going to pave 186 from Sylva to Dick's Gap. When it is paved plumb through, we are going to pitch our first real celebratory since the Armistice was signed.

Supreme court has been busy handing down a decision involving one girl's dog chasing another girl. Fine of $5.00 and costs, as imposed in a local recorder's court was held valid and ordered collected.

Bruce Barton takes up a lot of space, at so much a word, in the current issue of the Woman's Home Companion telling "Why I Am Going To Vote for Hoover"; but we could have explained it in one sentence: Because he is an East Tennessee Republican.

Literary Digest poll shows John R. Brinkley running some 5 to 1 ahead for governor, out by being Kauffmann. He is an independent, or campaigning as such. Folks from Jackson can testify that truly "a prophet is not without honor, save in his own country"; if, indeed, Dr. John has developed in to more or less of a major or minor prophet since leaving his native health.

Wisconsin switched from the La Follette crowd to the regular Republicans, for the first time in forty years. It may mean that the Wisconsin folks, along with the rest of the country, want a change; and it may mean that Democrats, up there, who have despaired of success in their own party, have been voting in the Republican primary on the side of the progressives, and, seeing prospects brighten for Democratic success, have come back home.

Business of congratulating Coach Poindexter and Western Carolina Teachers College upon the greatly increased enrollment of young men, getting the male youth of this region again interested in the school at Cullowhee is a most worthy enterprise. We have a notion that it might be well to expand the aims of the College to train the youth, male and female, along lines other than training for teachers; which, of course should always be included in the course of study. Thus might be developed an institution of greater magnitude than is possible in a college that is almost exclusively concerned with increasing the number of applicants for teaching positions, and in raising the standard of public school teachers.

THE MASS MEETINGS

The mass meeting at Glenville, Saturday afternoon, was a gathering of men and women, with a unity of mind and purpose. The people there had the welfare and development of their beloved county, along sane and practical lines, uppermost in their thought and action. They could vision a great trucking region, centering around Glenville; a greater institution at Cullowhee; a greater county seat town at Sylva; and a highway that will tend to those ends, serve the home people of the county, and, at the same time, become a great trunk line of travel to and from the South to the Great Smoky Mountains National Park and from the Midwest to the South. Such meetings are always productive of cumulative good; and the one at Glenville, coupled with the one in Asheville on Monday, is already bearing fruit.

There was no disposition, at either meeting, on the part of the Jackson folks, to criticize the State Highway Commission, to be captious, or to interfere with plans for the construction of other roads in other counties. Their attitude was to present, in a direct way, the claims that 106 has to priority of consideration, in the light of its importance to the county, to the State, and to the south-east; and to support those claims with facts from the long historical record in the case; and from the geographical significance of its location.

MEN STUDENTS OCCUPYING REUBEN ROBERTSON HALL

The opening of the 1932-33 session finds the men students housed in the spacious Reuben Robertson Dormitory. This move was made necessary by the increased enrollment of male students, which is more than twice that of last year, Davies Hall, formerly occupied by the boys will accommodate only about 45 students, while Reuben Robertson will house around 120. The idea in moving the boys was not to give them a better place to stay, as Davies Hall was adequately equipped, but to take care of the enlarged enrollment of men students.

Reuben Robertson Dormitory is the newest on the campus and is modern in every respect. This fact should encourage the men students to take good care of it and do better work in their studies, and should also boost the enrollment of boys during the year. It will, also, make possible to properly care for visiting athletic teams and boys at the annual basketball tournament.

SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

by Charles E. Dunn

Lesson for September 25
Review: Moses Honored in his Death Deuteronomy 32:48-52; 34:5-8 Golden Text: Psalm 116:15

The lessons for the last quarter have dealt with the career of Moses. The narrative for this Sunday describes his death at Mount Nebo, and his burial in an unknown tomb. It affords a fit opportunity to pause and meditate upon the significance of this massive soul, the founder of the Hebrew religion. He it was who definitely made Jehovah the national God of the Israelites, and established the initial stages of their religious and political organization. Truly he was God's man of destiny.

Rev. Chas. E. Dunn

Let us glance at his spectacular biography. We note that he was fortunate, as a child, to fall under the protection of Pharaoh's daughter, who nurtured him as her own son. Thus he was a highly favored lad, reared in an environment of luxury and learning. But happily these privileges did not blind him to the sad plight of his brethren. The curtain rises again and we find our hero brooding in the desert of Midian. Here an imperative divine call to leadership is sounded from a burning bush. Moses hesitates and objects. But he finally obeys, and the rest of his life is a revelation of the magnificence of his response.

Some one has said that nothing is wasted in human life when once a great idea takes hold of it. The idea of liberty, with justice, under God, took possession of the conscience and will of Moses with compelling power, so that all he had done in his long days of preparation came to his aid, and he became one of the greatest organizing geniuses in history, exhibiting a practical and powerful executive ability.

We see him steadfast and intrepid through the stormy vicissitudes of plague, passover, crossing of the sea, and wilderness wandering. He emerges as a world figure whose Ten Commandments are the Magna Charta of humanity.

The great man, Carlyle reminds us, is "the living light-fountain." Such was Moses. But let us remember that the secret of his greatness lies in the directing providence of God Who always remains with the man He chooses to save.

"I NO LONGER HAVE TO TAKE LAXATIVES OF ANY KIND.... SARGON SOFT MASS PILLS HAVE ENTIRELY FREED ME OF CONSTIPATION"

The commonest curse of mankind is constipation. It poisons us, breaks down youthful strength and vigor, ages us prematurely, and leaves us an easy victim of countless diseases. Millions are slaves to the laxative habit. The effect of ordinary cathartics is only temporary; they weaken bowel action and lose their effect. The more we take the more we have to take.
