Head Lines that Point To "Better Times"

Head lines that span the front pages of the newspapers are crying out the return of prosperity and normal conditions. If you have read the newspapers during the past week you will recall reading the following headlines: Prices rise as U. S. goes off Gold Standard. Stock and Cotton continues to Rise. U. S. Goes Off Gold Basis for Purpose of Boosting Prices. Wall Street Hails Action of President. New Plan Provides for Expansion of Currency. Cotton up $2.75 per bale. Does this mean anything? It means the depression is over and we have reached the bottom. Now things start upward.
