If we don't get the parkway, we will have a way to park.

We have at least recovered the Heavy Weight Championship belt.

Old Cam Morrison gets most of the credit for the Morehead City port project success.

The ease in Japanese probably refers to the ease with which she violates her treaty obligations.

We'll be glad when the Rhododendron Festival is over, so we can get some news in our morning daily.

Governor Ehringhaus is to be the principal speaker at the farmers' day, in Waynesville, Friday.

It was a Tag of war; but the professor was well able to take care of himself.

These foreign nations, our former allies, are now talking about debt agreements. We thought they had agreed not to pay.

What, with new millions coming from federal funds, for road building there is no longer any reason whatever why we should not meet at the State line on 106.

The best way to get out of this thing is to work out; and that is a long, hard, and tedious process, and to too many of us it is a most distasteful method.

Congress is about to adjourn, this week; and taking its record by and large, it has done a good job, enacting legislation that is designed to speed up the tortuous process of recovery of our lost affluence.

There hasn't been a great deal of sympathy for Hitler in this country; but the announcement that a "mountain of debt", is worrying him, can certainly excite the sympathies of most Americans, who know, by experience, just how that is.

Silver is to be bought up, and paper money issued against it. Old man Bryan and '96 are recalled; and the probability is that if Bryan had won his fight then, we wouldn't be in the mess from which we are trying to extricate ourselves, now.

Know anybody who wants a job of taking a gun and going over and collecting those war debts? We don't either. We can't collect that way, and we can't do like the mortgage companies do, and foreclose. Hence, persuasion is the only method.

The reciprocal tariff bill has been signed and is now the law, opening up the way for President Roosevelt to negotiate an end to the tariff war and restore our foreign markets to our farmers, manufacturers, miners, and what not. Now that's sense that has at last been written into the tariff laws.

North Carolina is to have a real port. President Roosevelt has notified Governor Ehringhaus that federal funds for the development of a port at Morehead City have been allotted. This means that North Carolina, when the rate-basing port is a going concern, can get her old-time discriminatory freight rates adjusted, and can go forward.

The health department has started out to insure our health and that of those who visit us, by taking all proper sanitary precautions, and by inoculation. Citizens can get themselves immunized to typhoid, and their children from diphtheria, at the clinics to be held in various parts of the county. It will cost them nothing, and there should be a large response.

The second primary in Transylvania reminds us, that it is about time to swap off the agreement about the rotation of the senator. We'll never get anywhere in the affairs of the State that way. The better way is to elect us a good senator, no matter which county he comes from, and then keep him in office until he gets strength enough in Raleigh to be of some usefulness to us.

A boy, over in Transylvania, took a shot at a bird, sitting on his dad's barn. After the slaughter, he found that a leg band identified it as one of the United States Army's carrier pigeons. In the face of the many State and Federal laws, and treaties with Latin America, and with the birds as the farmers' best friends, it is a peculiar twist in the human make up that dictates that one should take a shot at every feathered visitor that comes about.

The ministers are planning for a county-wide evangelistic campaign next month. Success to their efforts. We know of nothing that would be of more value to this county, or any other county than a big dose of genuine Christianity. It would solve most all of our problems, and make life infinitely more worth living for every body. Bootlegging, drunkenness, suspicion, strife, envy, rascality, would give place to soberness, thrift, faith, frugality, industry neighborliness and good-will. We would all feel the joy of life; and the next sheriff would have nothing to do except to sit in his office and collect taxes, and even taxes wouldn't be as high.

Recently, the man who draws "Little Orphan Annie", a supposedly comic strip, whose name was taken bodily from James Whitecomb Riley, has had a series depicting the procedure of a court, that is little short of criminal. It is no wonder that the young lose their respect for constituted authority, when their young minds are fed on such pictures of courts, by comic strips, that they all read. The man who draws the cartoons, and the papers that published it, are equally culpable, and have a heavy responsibility to answer for, if the coming generation has no respect whatever for the courts of the land. It is no wonder that the youth of the country is growing up with the wrong slant on things, when the courts are thus depicted, the moving pictures making light of the sacredness of the marriage vows, picturing drinking and debauchery as the cardinal virtues, and the reformers trying to make it appear as if the world owes everybody a living, even if he doesn't find himself willing to labor for it.

 the body eliminates them throughout the remainder of his life, and thereby be a menace to the public. Although rigid regulations are enforced toward proper disposal of body discharges, the protection of public water and milk supplies, the supervision of public eating places, and the examination of food handlers, yet there is always the danger from a carrier. We still further safeguard against infection by means of vaccination. It has been proven that the administration of three doses of typhoid vaccine at weekly intervals every two or three years will protect the recipient against an ordinary infection of typhoid germs.

It is recommended that every individual receives this protection by applying to the family physician or at-

SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

By Rev. Charles E. Dunn

The Risen Lord and the Great Commission.

Lesson for June 17th. Matthew 28. Golden Text: Matt. 28:19,20.

The Golden Text proclaims the Great Commission for the promotion of the missionary enterprise. It constitutes the marching orders of the Christian Society.

I wonder if we realize to what an astonishing extent the missionary spirit and method are glorified by the pages of our New Testament. Every book in the New Testament was written by a foreign missionary. Every New Testament letter written to a church was directed to a foreign missionary church. Every New Testament letter written to an individual was directed to a convert of a foreign missionary. Of the twelve apostles every one, save Judas, became a missionary.

The language of the New Testament, moreover, is of a missionary character.

Now striking changes have taken place in recent years in the areas where missionaries labor, and in the conduct of their work. Consider how marvelously the world has shrunk! The automobile, the airplane, the radio, and the telephone have made the whole world a neighborhood. Geographic frontiers have thus been eliminated, and the traditional distinction between home and foreign missions abolished.

Think, too, of the way in which the ideal of a self-governing, self-sustaining, native church is being approached. The days of western supremacy are passing. To an increasing extent missionary work is being taken over by the nationals of the various countries.

Another notable change is the intense emphasis upon the social gospel.

Still another change is the advance in missionary cooperation. There are about forty foreign mission boards in the United States and Canada, all working together in harmony. Denominationalism is thus breaking down on foreign soil. Truly we are living in stirring days!

THE V-type engine hurled an Italian plane through the air at seven miles a minute. It swept a racing car down a Florida beach to the world's land speed record . . . 270 miles per hour.

Only Ford has been able to put the V-type 8-cylinder engine in an inexpensive car. The next lowest priced V-8 cylinder car sells for $2545.

At 55 this Ford V-8 is just loafing along—effortlessly. Yet despite performance that lifts it out of the low price class, the new Ford V-8 is the most economical Ford ever built.

The Ford V-8 is the only car that offers you the riding ease of free action for all four wheels—plus the priceless safety of strong axle construction.

Before you buy any car at any price, drive the Ford V-8.
