It is perfectly apparent that what Germany wants is a little Polish.

Hittler evidently thinks that Germany could raise her European prestige if she had a few prize Poles.

Representative Bryson is to be congratulated upon the fact that the only appropriation made for new building construction was that of $15,000 for Western Carolina Teachers College, in his county.

While it is a million dollars a month that the State of North Carolina has appropriated for road construction, there is one justifiable reason why 1936 should not be completed in the immediate future.

Uncle Sam is getting ready to spend a lot of money on work relief. Among the projects he will approve is new school building construction. There is great hope that the Webster high school can be included in the program. Advice in Raleigh is to the effect that it probably can be done, if the folks interested do not weary in well doing.

The folks down Murphy way are going to have a big celebration about a road or something. Governor Talmadge of Georgia is to be there. That's one reason we do not plan to be present. If Hooper Long were coming, that would be an added attraction for staying away.

We are keeping an eye peeled toward that Georgia prohibition referendum in an effort to see which way the wind is blowing, for it is apparent that the only way to keep legal sale of liquor from coming to North Carolina, sooner or later, is for sentiment for prohibition to develop in other parts of the country, and Georgia is one of our next door neighbors.

With the huge work relief bill enacted into law, Sylva might do well to now look toward the construction of a municipal swimming pool. It would probably be self-liquidating. It would be a lure for tourists passing through to stop and stay a while, spending a little money. It would also, and this is a big consideration, give our own folks a place to swim, keeping them out of polluted streams. It is certainly a worthwhile project, and the town should go after it.

A man, out in Los Angeles, was sentenced to hang. He was granted a stay of execution. A minor clerk in a court official's office filed the stay away and forgot about it, or failed to read it. The man was hanged three days before the papers that would have stopped his execution came to light. Of course the clerk didn't mean to do it, but that is the excuse that we hear everyday, ome day people will learn that an injury done unintentionally or through carelessness does as much harm as if it were done on purpose; that a person killed accidentally or by mistake is just as dead as if his death were cold-blooded murder, and that "I didn't mean to do it," is really no excuse at all.

WHY THE CHANGE WAS

The change from prohibition to legal sale of liquor, which took the country by storm, and which threatens to envelop North Carolina, before many years roll around, despite that 183,000 anti-repeal majority, is due to the open defiance propaganda that the liquor interests put out; to the failure of enforcement, for which the people have only themselves and their officers to blame; and to the growing up of a generation that knows nothing of the evils of saloons and dispensaries. More and more of this class of voters reaches majority every year, bringing up the number of citizens who want to see something else tried. Another factor is the failure of the temperance people to continue their education program along the lines of the evil effects of liquor. They quit this program when the 18th amendment was adopted, and relied solely on the law to bring about the desired results. They now have revived it, and surely nobody who is really interested in the welfare of the people, and in temperance, sobriety, law and order, will refuse to follow the dry forces in such a campaign, to give them aid and comfort, and to wish them God-speed in their work.

ON VACCINATING DOGS

We are just sitting a waiting to see the fun start, if and when the officers begin trying to enforce the law, recently enacted by our all-wise Gen-that legislation of this kind is silly on the face of it.

But, the enforcement of the law and it is now law, is squarely up to the sheriffs of the counties, their deputies, and other police officers. Sheriff have to run for reelection, about every two years, and it will really be funny to see them chasing about over their respective counties, trying to catch the children's pets, milady's poodles, the huntsman's prize setters and pointers, the fox-hunters' and bear-hunters' hounds, the squirrel dogs, the ground hog dogs, the sheep and cattle dogs, the plain mutts, the mongrels and the fiends, and trying to have a dog doctor vaccinate them. The law is that Fido, Bruno, Shep, Fifi, Ching, Lead, Trail and all, requiring all dogs to be inoculated for rabies. The truth is that no serum for this purpose has yet been perfected, and that nobody can be sure whether the injection will do good or harm. Rabies is so rare in North Carolina, and everywhere else, Old King, and Nero all must be given a shot, at so much per shot, as to their owners, each and every, or he must be beheaded, chloroformed, shot at sunrise, electrocuted, gassed, or otherwise executed under the laws of North Carolina.

After all, we shall probably see no such fun, for it will be considered just another law, and allowed to go as that. Sheriff's who enforce it, and legislators who voted for it would have a sweet time trying to be re-elected, if a serious effort of enforcement should be made.

You can make a man's children be vaccinated, tell him that he must send them to school, tell him when how long, or if his wife and children can work, regulate his crops, his income, his spending and his male, his cattle, his sheep, his hogs, and even his cats, but if you value your political head, you had better let his dog alone. Dynasties, governments, and great politicians have fallen by reason of lesser infringement upon the liberties of man.

APOLOGY SHOULD BE ACCEPTED

The letter of Rev. Robert M. Hardee, asking for forgiveness for having said that teachers in this county have been told to vote with the party or lose their jobs, in which he states that he has found the statement made by him was untrue and came from misinformation, should be accepted by all parties in the spirit in which it was written. An apology and a plea for forgiveness, coupled with a statement that the information upon which one acted was later found to be correct, should always be accepted. But it reminds us that one should be sure of his ground, sure of the truth of his statements before he makes them, and especially before he rushes into public print with them. If we all believed everything that we hear about people, and repeated or printed those hearsays, we would keep any community or county in an uproar all the time. It is really a serious matter to say or publish things of a derogatory nature about people, officials, or organizations; and we should all know whereof we speak before we unloose either our tongues or our pens.

THE SALES TAX FIGHT

They are licking the same calf all over again, down in Raleigh.

It is interesting to see the changes that have been made in the opinions of members of the last and the present General Assembly, after two years of operation of the tax in the State.

Many of the men, who hail from farming counties, and who two years ago were opposed to the tax, now favor it, and are strong exponents of its reenactment. The fact that agricultural counties have greater representation in the House is the explanation of the easier sailing the bill had there than it is finding in the Senate.

From the counties that are largely industrial, such as Guilford and Halifax, comes the strongest opposition. Dr. Burress from High Point, and young Julian Allsbrook from Roanoke Rapids, both in the Senate, both ran on primary platforms calling for its repeal.

It can't be repealed without again placing a tax on farms and homes for school support. This would meet with violent resentment from the people in most of the counties. It would disrupt the entire State school system, and undo most of the progress that has been made in recent years in North Carolina, both in taxation reform and in equality of school taxation and school support burden.

The sales tax can not and should not be repealed at this time; and there is little fear that it will be. The General Assembly might have done what it has to do, thirty days ago and adjourned then. There is really little being done except fighting the same old battle of two years ago all over again, with the addition that the liquor control people are sitting in the background hoping that a tie-up on revenue might force their desires upon the legislature, and really doing some hissing on of the combatants, to that end.

TIMELY FARM QUESTIONS ARE ANSWERED AT STATE COLLEGE

Q: How much grain is required for a full ration for my dairy cow?

A: Each animal offers a different problem and the amount of grain needed can be determined only by the milk records. In addition to all the roughage, including hay and silage, that the animal will eat she is given sufficient grain for maximum production. To determine the proper amount, the grain ration should be gradually increased and the daily milk sheet carefully checked. When the milk production is not increased then the grain should be decreased. A check of both increase and decrease of grain will soon show the proper amount for profitable production.

Q: Should scratch feed be given to adult birds once or twice a day?

A: This depends upon the breed, weight of fowls, and the rate of production. Birds in good weight require grain only once a day and this should be given in the afternoon. Birds that are underweight should have a grain feed both morning and afternoon. Heavy producers may also require additional feeding of grain but this should not be given unless the birds show a falling off in body weight or a marked decrease in production.

In Rutherford County, 267 farmers have sold 14,786 pounds of poultry for $1,798.97 during the last few weeks.

The "liquid test"

... it ENDS bowel worries for many people

This is a test that tells you whether the system needs a cathartic change. If you have constant sluggish bowels or bilious attacks, and laxatives seem to make things worse, it would be wise to try this:

Stop all use of any laxative that does not encourage variation from a "fixed dose" (which may be entirely too large a dose for your individual need). Use instead, a liquid laxative that you can measure and regulate as to dose. As necessary to repeat, take smaller doses, less and less often, until the bowels are moving without any help at all.

Doctors use liquid laxatives, and a properly prepared liquid laxative, containing natural laxative agents like senna and cascara is a joy and a comfort; a real help in establishing regularity. Ask your doctor about this! (Doctors use liquid laxatives.) You can get Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin, which is a most dependable liquid laxative, at any drug store.
