"Farmer Bob" Doughton Works Hard In Congress On F. D. R.'s Tax Measures

Washington, July 30—The Washington picture is still one of a group of Congress toiling away at a task which they would prefer to postpone until winter, but which they are tackling because the majority of them have become convinced that their own political fortunes and those of their party are in large measure dependent upon their doing what the smiling gentleman in the White House has told them must be done.

Like good soldiers, the members of Congress are making a desperate effort to put through the President's "must" program, even though this involves starting with a blank sheet of paper, the most important and familiar being the tax bill since the Hawley-Smoot tariff Act of 1929, and to do that in the shortest time possible.

The Ways and Means Committee of the House of Representatives, with whom all tax legislation must originate, is bending to its task with all the good will it can muster, under the chairmanship of that hard-working member, Representative R. L. Doughton of North Carolina. Collaborating as far as possible with the House committee is Senator Pat Harrison of Mississippi, Chairman of the Senate Finance Committee, through whose hands the bill must also pass. These two gentlemen are among the most experienced and best balanced political figures in the two Houses of Congress. Some few are of the opinion that had they been left to their own initiative neither one would have dreamed of trying to draw up a measure of such vital importance in such a short time.

The bill that finally results from these committee deliberations will probably not conform, in many respects, to Mr. Roosevelt's skeleton outline. Both Senator Harrison and Chairman Doughton are shrewd enough politicians to know just how far it is safe to go, and that, in their judgment, is not as far as the President would like to go.

A regular school of instruction in the fundamental principles of taxation has been set up in the office of the Ways and Means Committee. The instructors are Lovell H. Parker, Chief of Staff of the Congressional Joint Committee on Internal Revenue Taxation, and Herman Oliphant, General Counsel to the Secretary of the Treasury. Neither of those gentlemen is a politician. Both of them are masters of fact and figures, and Mr. Parker in particular is a thorough student of the whole subject of taxation. If their advice is followed, the chances are that the tax bill, when it comes out, will be both workable and practical.

State taxes taken out of a dead man's property, before it is distributed among his heirs, will undoubtedly be increased. There is doubt, however, about the practicability of Mr. Roosevelt's proposal for inheritance taxes, to be paid by the heirs, after already taxed estates have been distributed. The technical advisers of Congress are of the opinion that any such plans would be extremely difficult to work out and to administer equitably.

It can be set down as certain that individual income taxes will be increased under the new bill on all incomes down to $100,000 a year, and probably on these very much lower. The more the committee studies the proposal for increasing corporation taxes in proportion to capitalization,

TODAY and TOMORROW

OPPORTUNITY today
Whenever I hear young people complain that there are no opportunities for them I begin to wonder just what they mean. Often I discover that they think of "opportunity" as a chance to jump right out of school into a well-paid, easy job, with short hours, long week-ends and generous vacations.

It is true that that sort of opportunity no longer exists. What is more, it never did exist!

There is always a place, though, for the intelligent, industrious and ambitious boy or girl who really wants to work, is not afraid of long hours and low wages to start with, and has good health and good habits.

In these times it often takes more time to find such an opportunity than it did a few years ago, but the seeker who gives up after one or two discouragements demonstrates that he is not the sort of a person employers are looking for.

LUCK also goods
I have a friend who started his business career at the same time that I did, in the same town and at the same wages—twelve dollars a week. Now he is head of one of the largest business corporations in the world. I asked him once how he had climbed so far.

"Luck," he replied. "That's how most folks get wherever they are. But don't misunderstand me. When I say 'luck' I don't mean blind chance. Luck has to be stimulated."

He stimulated his own luck not only by mastering his own job but by preparing himself all the time to step into the next higher job. He made it a point to keep in perfect physical condition and to indulge no bad habits. He studied ways to make a good impression on his superiors and associates.

"Window-dressing is as important for the individual as for the store," he said, "but you've got to have the goods on your shelves!"

HELP for ambitious
Under my friend's direction, the great corporation which he heads takes pains to help its 60,000 or more workers to "stimulate their luck." Every employee who shows signs of special ability, and of ambition to get ahead, can count on a helping hand.

"The only way to run a big business successfully," my friend once said to me, "is to show everyone in the organization the door of hope, and to encourage them all to find their way through it. That, and to put just as much in their pay envelopes as can possibly be done."

BOY now on job
The son of one of my village neighbors has been doing odd jobs around my country place for three or four years, after school, Saturdays and in vacations. Last month he graduated from our town high school, with high marks.

"What are you going to do now, John?" I asked him. He dropped the handle of the lawnmower and straightened up.

"I'm going to college," he said. "I don't know how I'm going. I've got to work my way—dad can't help me, with my seven younger brothers and sisters to bring up—but I'll find a way! I'm going to hitch-hike to New York and look for a job."

I smiled at his enthusiasm, but did

HIGHLANDS BANK HOLDUP BELIEVED TO BE LOCAL JOB

Residents of Cashier's Valley and Highlands are of the opinion that the robbery of the Highlands Bank, last Friday was the work of the ranks of amateurs, who live in that section that embraces parts of Jackson, Transylvania or Macon counties, or Oconee county, S. C. or Rabun county, Ga., or at least by someone who was entirely familiar with the territory.

It is pointed out that it is extremely unlikely that professionals would have fled with a meagre $66.27, leaving $1,200 in currency lying on the floor, where the cashier tossed it, when he was confronted with the hold-up men.

The route taken in the escape is another matter that is pointed to in support of the contention. To flee down through Horse Cove, Whiteside Cove and into Bohaney, would require an initiate, or at least the assistance of one who knew all the by roads, in that part of Macon, Jackson and Transylvania.

And, then, the license tag of the Ford coupe driven by the would-be bandits, was stolen from a resident of Lake Toxaway, a short time previously.

On last Friday two unmasked men entered the Bank of Highlands and held up the cashier, escaping with $66.27, leaving $1,200 lying on the floor behind the adding machine, at the entrance of the bandits.

The Bank of Highlands is a branch of The Jackson County Bank. All deposits and funds are fully insured against robbery.

U. S. SENATORS VISIT IN JACKSON

Four United States Senators, with a party of friends, fled from the heat of Washington's summer and the stress of one of the most trying sessions of Congress, to the cooling breezes and restful scenes of Jackson county's mountains, during the last week end.

In the party were Senators Walsh, of Massachusetts, Murphy of Iowa, Duffey of Wisconsin, and Murray, of Montana.

While in this county, they were guests at High Hampton Inn.

AIR CIRCUS HERE THIS WEEK

The Good Will Flyers are putting on an air show at Allison Farm. The show started yesterday and will continue through Sunday.

Stunt flying and a parachute show are among the attractions.

CAGLES TO HAVE REUNION

The annual Cagle reunion will be held Sunday, August 11, at the old homestead of E. H. and Margaret Cagle, now the home of Jess Cagle.

All friends and relatives are invited to come and bring picnic lunch. Talks and music will be features of the day.

not discourage it. Neither did I encourage the idea of a country boy seeking work in New York these hard times.

"If you get there, look me up, John," I said, and gave him my New York office address. Sure enough, a week later John showed up.

I thought of my friend of whom I have been talking. I wrote a note to him and gave it to John. "Try your Candidates Close Together Where Will You Stand On The Tenth Of August?

CAMPAIGN PRIZES HAVE BEEN PAID FOR

Some person or persons, either maliciously, for the purpose of injuring the circulation campaign now in progress, and injuring The Journal and its publisher, or thoughtlessly, have been circulating rumors that the campaign will be called off, and the prizes will not be delivered.

In order to put any such rumors to sleep, and that the contestants may go ahead with their work in perfect confidence, without disturbing and distracting rumors, the campaign management has delivered to the publisher of this paper receipts for full payment for each premium, from the business house through which they were purchased, except the Kelvinator, which is not in stock in Sylva, but which will be ordered out by The Radio Shop, and delivered to us in ample time for presentation to the winner.

The Journal, during the quarter of a century under its present management, has put on a number of similar campaigns, and every premium was delivered as advertised.

The manager of this campaign has conducted fifty-six similar ones, and has never called one off.

Receipts for payment for the Chevrolet, the living room suite, and the radio are in possession of the publisher of The Journal as follows:

August 1st, 1935
Received check for full payment for Chevrolet Car which is to be given away by Jackson County Journal on August 24th, 1935.

MRS. EXTINE DIES IN HOSPITAL

Mrs. Henry Extine died Sunday morning in the Community hospital, from a self-inflicted wound in the stomach. She told officers that she shot herself on Friday, because of ill health.

Surviving here are her husband, two children, Blanche and Marshall, five sisters, Mrs. Beck Ashe, Mrs. Jane Fox, Mrs. Will Frady, Mrs. Mary Franklin, and Mrs. Minnie Jones; and three brothers, Charles Gibbs, Hamilton, Ohio, Wesley Gibbs, Memphis, Tenn., and Bill Gibbs, Sylva.

Funeral services and interment were at Wesley's Chapel, Sunday afternoon.

OPENS RACKET STORE

Sam Kay, who has been with The Leader for several months, has opened a racket store, under the name of Kay's Racket Store, in the Bryson Building, in quarters just vacated by Dave Karp's Department Store, in moving to larger quarters in the new building next door to the Eagle 5c and 10c Store.

Saturday at 12 o'clock midnight, the first vote period in the big Jackson County Journal subscription campaign closed.

The next vote period will close on August 10. A lead gained at that time will go a long way toward winning one of the grand prizes, as votes, in August 10, go down about 50 per cent.

The campaign department as well as the publishers of The Journal, are well satisfied with the work that is being accomplished. The thought paramount in the mind of the publishers was to put The Journal in every home in this trade territory, and the report shows that the idea is being carried out.

All candidates should realize that to give away practically $2000.00 was a big undertaking and should use every spare minute of their time toward winning.

This writer knows of no occupation today where one can go out and in six weeks win a new Chevrolet, or Kelvinator. How happy the candidate will be on August 24, when his or her name is called out and a nice new automobile is presented. The only way to be this next person is to apply your efforts properly.

Before going out in the morning, take a few minutes, write down the names of people you will call on during the day, then try to see them all.

Advertising cards were handed all the candidates, Monday, and each card gives so many votes. Merchants and institutions that you have patronized for years, in return, should buy a card from you.

The Journal is one of North Carolina's good weekly newspapers, and you can assure all merchants that they will get value received for their investment in advertising in The Journal, as well as all job work they may need.

You should keep in mind that you have only 23 more days until the close of the campaign, and should use every minute you can spare of that time, to win.

Will you be leading in next week's paper?

BALSAM

Mr. and Mrs. W. S. Crosland, Jr., of Winston-Salem are visiting Mr. and Mrs. H. C. Hart, at the W. T. Lee cottage. They will leave here August 1, for Palmico, S. C., where he is connected with the R. J. Reynolds Tobacco Company.

Mrs. John W. Fowler, of Walnut Cove, is spending two weeks with her daughter, Miss Lillian Fowler.

Balsam Mountain Springs Hotel has not opened this season, much to the disappointment of hundreds of visitors who come here every season. Balsam Lodge is enjoying good patronage and nearly all cottages are occupied.

A farewell picnic dinner was given Sunday, in Recreation Park, in Asheville, in honor of Mr. and Mrs. Mitchell Cogdill and four children, Mary Maxine, Helen, Bobbie and Donnie. Those present from here were Mr. and Mrs. Walter Baines, Mr. Fagg Henry, and family, from Willets, Mr. and Mrs. Glenn Beck, and Miss Virgie Green, of Addie, and many other relatives from other places.

Mr. H. C. Hart was given a surprise birthday party Saturday. The house was beautifully decorated with cut flowers. Delicious refreshments were served and a happy birthday was enjoyed.
