A thing that is greatly needed for all of us is a common sense in our America.

We are surrounded by the peace and quiet of the mountains and valleys of America.

The nation is what she wants to make out of the nation she has. It is the way she looks at it that counts.

The American Federation of Labor has resolved that Italy is an outlaw nation.

TODAY and TOMORROW

WASHINGTON, Oct. 17.—Many years ago somebody called Washington "the city of marionettes."

Washington is more like the great European cities than any other American municipality. Its growth has been horizontal rather than vertical.

It is not at all uncommon to have to travel three or four miles or farther, to get from one Government building to another, and in the course of a day around Federal offices the visitor has to walk along literally miles of corridors. It occurred to me that one of the reasons why Government business goes so long to transact may be the one and energy wasted in getting from one office to another.

BEAUTY in marble Major L. D. Gant, the brilliant politician who planned the Federal building, conceived it as the most beautiful city in the world. I seem to recall every time I visit it, the known Washington since 1800. Another fifty years there will be a thing to compare with it for beauty. The Supreme Court moved into the most beautiful of all Washington buildings last week. It is built all of white marble. Outside, Vermont marble; inside, Italian, Spanish and African marble.

EVERYTHING about the building is freshly new and gleaming except the Justices' chairs. They sit in the old, comfortable chairs they have been accustomed to. When it was proposed to buy a new chair for Justice Cardozo, he replied that the old chair that was good enough for Justice Holmes twenty years was good enough for him.

TENANTS everywhere In spite of the multitude of Government buildings, there isn't room for all the new Federal offices. Uncle Sam is the biggest tenant in Washington. After taking all the available office space in town, public offices are spreading out into hotels, apartment and private houses.

Some of the "temporary" buildings put up during the World War are still in use by Federal offices. Uncle Sam's Washington, largest taxpayer, pays half the cost of running the District of Columbia. In return for the Federal Government's assumption of the tax burden, the people of the District, 60 years ago, gave up their right to vote on local affairs. If they want to vote on state or national questions they can do so in their old home towns.

HOUSING I hear a lot about the "housing" shortage, but I don't know of any place where it is as acute as in Washington. More than 100,000 new Federal employees have been trying to crowd into the city in the past two years. There just isn't room for them

I heard of one landlord who had 143 applications on file for his next vacancy. Another built a 50 family apartment house and rented every apartment from the place before the summer was over! Rent has gone down most everywhere else, but not in Washington.

One result has been the spilling of population away out into the Maryland hills and across the Potomac into the beautiful Virginia hills. I met one Federal official who "commutes" to Washington every day from his home in Baltimore forty miles distant.

LAG the salute I read in the papers the other day that the salute should be fired for the first time in the history of the United States. I don't think that's the best way to spend the money. Spending the money so widely on a low nobody really feels. It is a compromise in our minds. It is a compromise in our minds. It is a compromise in our minds.

If I could catch every child who would try to make the "understand" that it does not stand and has a "good for nothing" even example to salute it. If old "story" means anything, I mean to me at least—the complete liberty of every individual under it to believe and behave as he pleases so long as he doesn't try to interfere with other people's beliefs and behavior.

THE DIVORCE COURT MURDER BY MILTON PROPPER

Fifteenth Installment

BARBARA Keith, wife of a prominent Philadelphia business man, is reported to have been found dead in a rooming house in the divorce case of Rowland and Barbara Keith. She was to have testified for the husband, a friend, who was retained in the action. Detective Tommy Rankin is assigned to the case from police headquarters. His preliminary investigation showed that both Mr. and Mrs. Rankin had gathered evidence against the other of individuality. The wife of Mrs. Rankin's first husband directed her lawyer to lead the case of Rankin to handle the case. Rankin was transferred when the new information came into control. Detective Rankin files a report and the evidence is sent for the murder of Mrs. Keith. Rankin is assigned to the case of Rankin. Rankin is assigned to the case of Rankin. Rankin is assigned to the case of Rankin.

The lieutenant inspected it carefully. "But there's nothing on it to indicate that it's part of service equipment," he objected. "I always supposed the stuff was marked—either stamped with the name of the corps, or the initials of the army or navy punched on."

"You'll generally find the name of the depot that issued it," Rankin agreed. "But it's usually placed on a small loose leather strip, inside."

"That doesn't mean," Rankin said, "that it's not a military article. It could be anything. I've also found prints to compare. You take the man's prints, and compare them with the prints on the belt."

"Oh, yes, that's a description," Rankin said. "Give the man's prints to have a look at them now."

"And what about Rankin's prints?" Rankin asked. "The secretary said we don't take the prints of the man who's arrested. We take the prints of the man who's arrested."

ies and, more important, had been out of the man six years, that was a possibility.

"I think we should find out what you want in our case," Rankin said.

"Fred Dennis," Rankin said. "That doesn't mean anything. He could be anything. I've also found prints to compare. You take the man's prints, and compare them with the prints on the belt."
