Senator Borah still leads in all political the Republican presidential preference, but Washington strategists that he will lower his name. Governor Alf Landon, of Kansas, is now regarded as the likeliest prospect with Col. Frank Knox, of Tennessee, second. More talk is being heard of the availability of Governor Arthur Vandenberg, of Michigan. Little, however, has occurred to clarify the names of the 1936 candidates.

"GULLIBILITY"

It occurs to me more and more frequently as the years go by, that "gullibility" is one of the greatest misfortunes that afflicts our people. Sometimes I think it costs our country more in the total than the most devastating epidemic of disease. Let's get the meaning of the word clear. Gullibility is the ease with which you can be misled by fake propositions. At heart you really abhor all swindles. It's the deal that you THINK is honest, that you bite at with avidity and do not learn that you have been stung until you have parted with all the good, honest money that could be extracted from you. Your gullibility leads you through suckerdom. There are all sorts of fake sanitoria in the country, with a so-called "religious" complexion added and a freak dietary system, all designed to catch the American sucker. Such things have no legitimate place in the honest care of the ailing—nor are they true component parts of any worthy church enterprise. The "preacher-doctor" has long been noted as an American hoax, insinuating himself into the confidence of gullible people by prostituting the sacred tenets of religion to his unlaudy ends. There is no more humanitarian work than that of the true physician. If an individual must summon religion to commend him in a money-getting scheme or calling the chances are that he is sadly defective in the most important qualification, the ability to honestly deliver the goods. I wish I were able to write a book about humbuggery. But, I think I would run myself ragged, only to fail in finding a publisher.
