RUBBER .

Back in 1911 I met a great German cientist, Dr. Duisberg, who showed me a set of tires he had made for the Kaiser's car, from artificial rubber of his own invention. I asked him how

"It's perfectly simple," he replied. 'It's done by the polymerization of isporene". Which left me right where I was at the start.

Since then thousands of others have tried to make rubber synthetically. Some have got better results than others, but nobody yet has produced a rubber substitute that answers all the purposes of natural rubber and osts no more.

An American company has produced something that works, but it is too expensive for ordinary use. The latst report from Germany is that a ynthetic rubber superior to the naturif article is being produced from petrol um. That is doubted by practical rubber men.

Some day, however, somebody will P. urn the trick.

BUDDHA geography

The sect of Buddhists who live in Fibet regard their high priest, the 'Dalai Lama'' as their spiritual and comporal ruler. When he dies, they believe, his soul enters the body of a newborn babe, who at once becomes he Dalai Lama.

The last Dalai Lama died in December 1933, and ever since then the Tibetans have been hanting for child born at the instant of his death. They have not found one, and have about decided to accept the spiritual overlordship of another Lama, the 'Panchan Lama," who has been an exile in China for twelve years.

That may result in putting Chima in position to control the mysterious land on the Himalayan plateau, and so exand westward while Japan is slicing off Chinese territory in the North.

Little things often have great consequences. Nobody can guess what is going to happen in Asia, but the fail me of the Tibetans to find a baby forn just at the right time may hange the geography of a nation.

The town of Bodenwerden, in Germany, has bought the house in which Baron Munchausen, the world's most iamous liar, used to live. He was born there 216 years ago, and won fame for the "tall stories" which he used o tell about his adventures as a sol dier and a hunter. One of his listeners wrote down some of the baron's yarns and sold them to a London book publisher, who printed them in 1785.

Since then the noble name of Hieronymus Karl Friederich, Frieherrr von Munchausen, has been a ynenym for "kar" throughout the Englsh-speaking world.

Lately there has been a revival of interest in the type of obviously exaggerated or impossible tales such as Baron Munchausen told. But the technique is different. Baron Munchausen's stories are not thrilling enough for young people who read the "Tarzan" stories and delight in the adventures of "Buck Rogers."

LANGUAGE . . . our own

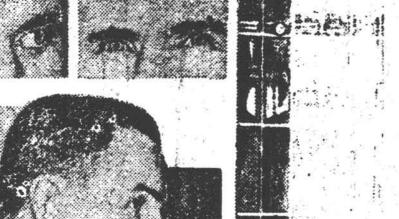

It would be a monotonous world if everybody looked alike, thought alike, dressed alike and spoke alike. I have long felt that we were getting too completely standardized, and I am glad to hear the voice of Professor ! Ioffman of Boston University raised in defense of variety in speech and

"If everbody talked with the pregision of a radio announcer," Professor Hoffman said the other day, "our sor Hoffman sale the lacking in common speech would be lacking in Setting participation of the United charm, vitality and the human touch."

I hope mone of the attempts of pedants and purists to pedants and purists to body speak alike will ever destroy body speak alike will ever destroy pedants and purists to make everythe accents of the South, or deprive New England of its short-vowelled, clipped staccato speech.

The longest term, among numerous ones imposed by Judge Oglesby, last week, was that of from 3 to 5 years in the State Prison, for Roy Stewart, who entered a plea of guilty of bigamy. Stewart's attorney stated that Stewart had gone to Gainesville, Ga., and paid an attorney $50 to obtain a divorce for him, and thought that the decree had been granted, before his second marriage.

In addition to imposing many road sentences, Judge Ogleshy ordered the forficture of many thousands of doilars of defendants who failed to answer when called. In most of these cases judgments absolute were entered on the sci fa decket against the surcities, execution not to issue until the May term of court, giving the makers of the bonds an opportunity to bring their men into court,
