Liberty is not license, as has been pointed out many times. One of the best definitions of liberty is that each individual has the right to do as he pleases, so long as he does not interfere with other people's rights. When he oversteps that limitation, he is confusing his precious liberty with vicious license.

The Chamber of Commerce and the Town of Sylva are cooperating in lifting Sylva's face and restoring her to her natural beauty. Do your part. Clean up the weeds, the trash, make Sylva look trim. All Jackson county should join in the movement, to make this the neatest county in the State, as it is already naturally the most beautiful.

Hit Hitler with a kettle. Bring your old aluminum to the designated place in your township. A flood of aluminum far exceeding the hopes of the OPM has been pouring from the kitchens and farms of America. It will go a long way toward relieving the aluminum shortage for making the planes that Britain and America need for defense of Democracy. The Lions, the Rotarians, the farm organizations, the Boy Scouts, the Civilian Defense agencies, all want to see Jackson do her part, as does, we believe every man and woman in the county.

MISS MARTIN LEAVES

The following editorial comment from the Evening Herald at Rock Hill, will be of interest to Journal readers, because it speaks the high regard in which the York county newspaper holds Miss Margaret Martin, Jackson county's new Home Agent:

"A great number of people in York county will regret to hear that Miss Margaret Martin will leave her post as home demonstration agent for York county August 1st after a service to our farm women of more than five years.

"Miss Martin has been most diligent in office during the five-year period and the work of the home demonstration department and the 4-H Club activities have shown marked progress. Also has Miss Martin contributed to the county by the inauguration of the rural youth clubs for older boys and girls.

"Active work in behalf of the less fortunate by the mattress program and direction in better farm living as part of the defense program have been among the many assets involved in the work of Miss Martin. What will be York county's loss in Miss Martin's leaving will be North Carolina's gain as Jackson county in the Tar Heel state will be under her supervision in home demonstration work."

V-5

These symbols are appearing everywhere in the German-occupied portions of the continent of Europe. V, the first letter in victory, is also the Roman figure five. Hence, the numerous variations, the figure five, the Morse code for victory, the playing of the Fifth Symphony, and so on, has spread throughout the continent like wildfire. Hundreds of arrests have been handed out. And yet the V symbol appears everywhere, on buildings, is tapped out in Morse on the tables of cafes, is heard on radio receivers, appears on windows, walls, sidewalks, barns, outbuildings, on the backs of German soldiers, on the German embassies in Rome, Istanbul, Madrid, and every conceivable place from the fjords of Norway to the blue waters of the Mediterranean. For V stands for victory for Democracy and Christianity, over this new tyranny and new paganism. The V's are said to irk the Germans no end. It is the pledge of man to man and woman to woman that the freedom-loving peoples will continue to struggle until the light once more wipes away the darkness of this new night that has settled like a miasmic mist upon Europe, the cradle of our race. It also causes the Germans to tremble, for it is the living symbol of unconquerable mankind, a token of the great caldron of wrath that is brewing. "Mine eyes have seen the glory of the coming of the Lord. He is trampling out the vintage where the grapes of wrath are stored."

Little would one have dreamt, a few years ago that history would so far repeat itself as to recur to the days when Christianity was living underground in the catacombs of Rome; when the symbol of the fish was the shibboleth by which the followers of the Light, that was brought into the world by the Nazarene and spread throughout the Empire by the fishermen of Galilee, made themselves known to each other, and defied the temporal power of Rome to forever imprison the souls of men, or to keep light and liberty in hiding beneath the ground.

There is a marked similarity between the then and the now; between the V and the fish. Both quietly hurled their defiance to the tyrant and his cohorts, and brought the rays of hope to the hearts of sorely oppressed men and women.

There is one difference. The Christians of the catacombs were waging their campaign alone, except for the power of God, who always bides His time and brings better days when the fullness of time arrives. The V army in Europe has behind it the power of the British Empire, the blessings of the United States of America, and the prayers of the Sons of Liberty everywhere.

V stands for victory. And a British victory is the hope of the restoration of liberty to men and women, of a return to sanity, and the days when a human being will be recognized as the most valuable of all earth's riches. Liberty and Christianity are again going through the fiery trials. The aim of the Hitler revolution is to wipe both from the face of the earth; and Hitler indicts himself of that charge in his own words:

"Two worlds are in conflict, two philosophies of life. One of these worlds must break asunder. Can a dynamic revolution stop at a sharing of the world? Must not the struggle continue until the final world dominion of a single nation? My motto is, destroy by every means. So-called international law will not check me—one is either German or Christian. You can't be both."

There you have the truth, the meaning of all this titanic conflict, and from the lips of Hitler himself. Germany has set about to blot out the Bible, both Old and New Testaments, to destroy by every means known to man or devil, Judaism, Freemasonry, and Christianity, for the reason that the teachings and philosophies of these stand in the way of his hopes of enslaving the bodies and the souls of men, of substituting Totalitarian frightfulness for Freedom, and of forcing all Germany to do the will of Hitler, and all the world to do the will of Germany.

Winston Churchill has said that the mightiest weapon the Empire has is the spirit of the people. That is profound truth. It is impossible to overcome spirit by physical force. For that reason, of all the diabolical weapons used by Hitler, the propaganda is the worst, for it is directed not against physical armaments, but against the spiritual bulwark of the free peoples. By cunning lies, frequently repeated; by half-truths reiterated, the way was paved, between 1918 and 1939 for the present assault by Germany upon the free institutions of the world. How cunningly that propaganda was devised, how potent it was, is proved every day. It enervated France until she folded up like a mushroom when the attack by force came. It held the British people within its grasp, until the real truth was so apparent that anyone could read, and until it was almost too late to retrieve the threatened liberties of the peoples of the Empire. It was taught in the schools in America, preached from the pulpits, hurled at our ears over the radio, published in our papers and magazines, and spoken from the platform, until the voice of sanity and of the traditional love of liberty in America was almost drowned out. Its manifestations became a national disease, and a national scandal. Youth movements, that recognized not the ancient landmarks of freedom as set up by our fathers, swarmed over the land like a pestilence. Pacifist groups were so powerful that the American Legion could not make its voice heard in the councils of the nation. The majority of Americans actually believed that the Treaty of Versailles was an atrocity, although our country was not a signatory to it, and although a young German had been sent to a concentration camp for an indefinite time for expressing the opinion that its terms were not nearly so harsh as those that would have been imposed had Germany won the last war. Many Americans, the majority, we believe, came to the conclusion that American participation in the last war was a mistake, that our leaders were duped into entering it, that those of us who waged it in mortal combat were imbeciles and fools, and that our country was actuated by the low motive of trying to save somebody's money (whose, it was never said, except for the indefinite term "international bankers") instead of the high purpose of preserving the liberties that had been so dearly won for us by our forebears. It is echoed by ape-like simplicity in the Congress today, by Bert Wheeler, Bob Reynolds, Charlie Taft, and others. They have not yet recovered from the virus. That is the kindest thing we can think to say for them, for surely they would not put their political fortunes above the welfare of the nation. It brought about, in twenty years or less a complete reversal of the thinking of a great nation regarding practically every principle upon which our country was founded and for which it had ever contended. In other words it made us a different nation, for, "As a man thinketh in his heart, so is he."

When the physical onslaught came, France fell, Britain had to again find her soul, and America had to regain her high principles.

The V in Europe, the spirit of the British, and the reawakening of America are the answer to the German horror. The spirit of freemen will again sweep the world clean of this unutterably filthy thing that Germany has set up for all the world to worship.

State College Answers Timely Farm Questions

QUESTION: Where are the "wrappers" found on a tobacco stalk?

ANSWER: The wrappers are selected from the leaf and cutter groups, and may be described as the fancy leaves of these groups. L. T. Weeks, Extension tobacco specialist, says wrappers must be practically free from injury, must be smooth, elastic, oily, firm, and strong, and must have bright finish and small to medium size and blending fibers. The average crop does not contain any wrappers, but Weeks says that if the crop is exceptional in quality and contains a fair percentage of wrappers, it will pay farmers to sort them out.

QUESTION: What publications are available from State College on dairy production?

ANSWER: The following publications may be obtained free upon request to the Agricultural Editor, N. C. State College, Raleigh: Extension Circular No. 177, "Raising Calves to Breeding Age;" Extension Circular No. 193, "Feeding and Care of Dairy Cows;" Extension Circular No. 202, "Pastures in North Carolina;" Extension Circular No. 203, "Producing Quality Cream;" and Extension Circular No. 237, "Making Hay in North Carolina."

It breathes through an extra "Nose" for action

IN one important way this stunning straight-eight pictured here is like no other in the world.

It has two "noses" to breathe through.

One of them is the forward carburetor of Buick's Compound Carburetion† — a thrifty, smaller-size gas-and-air mixer that handles all your normal driving with the greatest of ease and the maximum of thrift.

The other is a second carburetor with a very special mission.

It waits, unused, until you want action. Then—

The extra "nose" opens. Your engine breathes deeper. And z-i-i-i-p!—you're away in an extra burst of reserve power no other car in the world can provide.

Sounds good? Naturally—but that's only part of it.

Facts are, your engine is more efficient with Compound Carburetion's extra "nose" for action. Owner-experience shows that you actually go as much as 10% to 15% farther per gallon than you did in previous Buicks.

So better go try it. Try out Buick's bigger size, greater room, extra comfort at the same time.

Then ask delivered prices. Instead of being higher you'll find them actually lower than you'll pay anywhere else for anything like equal value.

for the Business Coupe (illustrated above) including Compound Carburetion.

delivered at Flint, Mich. State tax, optional equipment and accessories — extra. Prices and specifications subject to change without notice.

†Available on Buick SPECIAL models at slight extra cost, standard on all other Series.
