

Jackson County Goes $5,000 Above May Bond Quota Sales, Ariail Says

Jackson County exceeded its quota of War Bond sales by nearly $5,000 according to a statement just issued by R. L. Ariail, Chairman, Jackson County War Bond Staff.

However, Mr. Ariail stated, the quota for the month of June will be increased to $18,900 which will make it necessary for the people to redouble their efforts to buy more and more war bonds.

The May quota was $12,000, and the sales amounted to $17,450. Of these $15,500 were sold at the Jackson County Bank, $1,237.50 by the Sylva post office, and $725.00 by the Cullowhee post office.

Teachers Go To War Work From County

War work in various parts of the United States has taken many of the teachers from this county at least during vacation, and possibly longer, thus making the task of election of teachers by the several local school committees unusually difficult, it was pointed out today by County Superintendent A. C. Moses. Mr. Moses stated, however, that the committees and the board of education have done the best they could under the circumstances and have elected a number of teachers, some of whom may not accept the posts they have here-tofore held.

The following have been elected:

- Sylva: Louis Hair, Mrs. Mary Scott, Miss Mary Henson, Mrs. Julia Chapman, Miss Louise Henson, Leonard Huff, Mrs. Sally Mae Campbell, Roy G. Watson, J. F. On The Tar Heel Front In Washington

By ROBERT A. ERWIN And FRANCES MCKUSICK

Washington—The independent businessman won two important decisions in Washington last week which should make the "little fellow" heave a deep sigh or relief, roll up his shirt sleeves and settle down to the prospect of "back to normal" or better business. As usual, members of the North Carolina congressional delegation were not caught napping over the plight of the little businessman, and partially because of their efforts, at least, things have been done.

One of these victories directly affects only one type of business: the meat packer who sells only within his state. However, the final passage of the bill allowing Federal inspection for intrastate selling meat packers indirectly aids the farmer, the employees at the meat packing establishments, and Uncle Sam.

Under the provisions of this bill, the Federal Government will accept state certificates of inspection, or will send its own inspector to pass on the meats. This means that North Carolina packers may sell their goods to the various military camps within the state without having to send them out of the state for inspection.

Obviously, the government benefits from this new measure, as it will not have to pay the additional cost of transportation out of the state and back again. It also helps to cut down on the heavy transportation borne by railroads.

Representative Harold D. Coolidge, member of the House Agricultural Committee worked tirelessly on this measure. He was fully backed by other members of the delegation who saw that passage of the bill would be a Godsend to small meat packers throughout the State.

The other victory for small business lies in the amendment to the "Back Door Trucking" order which formerly required that all trucks delivering merchandise must be assured of a 75 percent of capacity return load before they left the home plant, if their destination was more than 15 miles away.

Last week Congressman John H. Folger, John H. Kerr, Harold D. Cooley and William O. Burgin frantically protested to the War Production Board against this order, which was to be effective June 1. They explained its enforcement would result in an epidemic of bankruptcies of small manufacturers throughout the state, or at best, the closing of their doors. It took them only a day to persuade the WPB that the effective date of the order should be deferred until July 1, giving the officials in that agency an opportunity to amend the order.

On Thursday of last week, John C. Baskerville, Secretary of the Lenoir Chamber of Commerce and former newspaperman came back from the Office of Defense Transportation with a happy smile and the announcement that the ODT had assured him the order would be definitely amended to allow the continuance of trucking for the small manufacturer. Mr. Baskerville believes some zoning plan will be enforced, extending the mileage in which a truck may travel without the "return load regulation" of from 50 to 100 miles.

Mr. Baskerville was particularly concerned about this order, and therefore correspondingly pleased with promises of amendments because this mandate constituted a serious threat to Lenoir furniture interests. Because of the lack of convenient rail facilities, the Lenoir furniture and hardware manufacturers have their wood brought in from the forests, from distances more than 15 miles away, by truck.

Senator Josiah W. Bailey was assured by Price Administrator Leon Henderson that tobacco farmers who carry their crops to market in a trailer will be

THOMAS L. HOOPER JOINS NAVY IN MASS ENLISTMENT SUNDAY

In the nation-wide Remember Pearl Harbor enlistment in the Navy Sunday afternoon, Thomas Leon Hooper of East LaPorte, took the oath, along with a large number of others, at the city auditorium in Asheville. The occasion was the end of the first six months since the treacherous Japanese attack upon Pearl Harbor.

In speaking of the enlistment, Chief Signalman C. J. Rhinehardt stated: "Twenty-nine men from Western North Carolina were sworn into the U. S. Navy last Sunday in Asheville as a part of the nation-wide 'answer to Pearl Harbor Day'."

Chief Rhinehardt will be in this section next week with Yeoman Wayne W. Blanton, in order to give additional men an opportunity to enlist in either the Navy or Navy Reserve. His itinerary includes Murphy, at the Court House on Monday and Tuesday, June 15 and 16; Hayesville, at the Court House on Wednesday, June 17; Bryson City at the Court House on Thursday, June 18; and Sylva at the Post Office on Friday, June 19.

Men who are skilled in trades may still find available ratings in the Navy, either in construction or for duty with the fleet. Rhinehardt announces that he will have full information at the places announced. In addition, preliminary physical examinations and applications will be given by Rhinehardt.

Men Eighteen To Twenty To Register In County On The Thirtieth Of June

Housewives Can Still Get Sugar To Can

The registration for sugar for canning purposes closed in this county on Wednesday; but Mr. W. R. Enloe, chairman of the Rationing Board stated today that all persons who did not have the opportunity of registering on the two days of regular registration can register with the Rationing Board and secure the allotment of sugar.

It is essential that as great a volume of the products of field, garden, and orchard be conserved this year as is possible. The amount of sugar for preserving and jelly making is ridiculously small, it is observed, being limited to one pound per person, which would provide approximately two glasses of jelly per person and practically none for preserving purposes. However, it is pointed out, the supply for canning fruits will be ample, if conservatively used; and the housewives can can the fruit juices, and make their jellies as they are needed.

Mr. Enloe wanted it made clear that all persons who did not register for sugar for canning can still do so with the Rationing Board.

The theme of the meeting will be: Lighted to Lighten. The morning session will be devoted to reports from the Missionary Societies and an Inspirational message by Rev. A. J. Herring. A program on the Young People's Work will be presented in the afternoon.

SCHOOL IN HOME NURSING WILL END HERE MONDAY

The Home Nursing School, a project of the Red Cross, that has been in progress in Sylva for the past several weeks, will close next Monday. The class has been taught by Mrs. J. R. McCracken, of Waynesville, and Mrs. B. L. Padgett, Jackson County Health Nurse, has been active in both promoting and assisting to conduct it. Members of the class have stated that the course was distinctly worth while, and have expressed the hope that another class can be immediately organized with Mrs. Padgett as teacher.

Members of the class were Mrs. Dan K. Moore, Mrs. John Wilson Smith, Mrs. Dan Allison, Mrs. Ben Cathey, Mrs. David M. Hall, Mrs. Harry L. Ferguson, Mrs. Hugh E. Monteith, Dr. Noracella McGuire, Mrs. W. T. Wise, Mrs. John H. Morris, Mrs. Fred Sutton, Mrs. W. E. Reed,

J. C. Allison, chairman of Jackson County Local Selective Service Board has signed an order, in compliance with the Presidential order, requiring all men in the county who were born between January 1, 1922 and June 30, 1924 to register for selective service, in the fifth registration which will be held between the hours of 7 a. m. and 9 p. m. on June 30.

Mr. Allison stated that the registration will be held at the same places as the other four registrations, and that the same registrars will conduct the registration, wherever it is possible.

In his notice, Mr. Allison requested that all persons who had part in the former registrations call at the office of the Selective Service Board on June 27, between ten and twelve o'clock, and receive the necessary supplies; and that if there is any reason why any of these persons cannot serve, they are requested to notify the board at the earliest possible moment.

The places of registration will be:

Cashier's school, Glenville high school, Tuckasee school, John's Creek school, Cullowhee training school, Webster school, Savannah school, Sylva Local Board office, East LaPorte school, Wolf Creek school, Sylva Paperboard office, Armour Leather Company office, Barker's Creek school, Qualla school, Willets school, and Balsam school.

Wood Will Take Place Of Coal And Oil As Fuel

In view of the present transportation shortage, the Government is suggesting that farmers and people in small towns use wood as fuel instead of coal and oil, where feasible.

R. W. Graeber, Extension forester of N. C. State College, says that the use of wood fuel has great possibilities in North Carolina for the heating of homes, curing tobacco, heating schools and in smaller industries where equipment can be readily changed from coal-burning to wood-burning.

The forester said a ton of dry wood is equal in heat units to about a half ton of soft coal. Different kinds of wood vary in weight from about one and one-half to more than two tons per cord.

"The maximum heating results are secured from well-seasoned or thoroughly air-dried wood," Graeber said. "Such wood will then contain about 15 to 20 percent moisture by total weight. Fuel wood requires from six months to a year to season properly. If it is intended for next winter's consumption, the wood should be cut not later than this summer."

The Extension worker said that farmers, in providing themselves with fuel for their winter use, can place their woodlands in good growing condition at the same time. "Utilize the poorer species," he suggested; "the dead, crooked, defective and heavy-limbed trees not suitable for commercial use. This thinning out process will give the good trees a better chance to grow into saw-timber size."

Farmers who have stacks of wood alongside the road should find a ready market for surplus fuel, "and this is one time that surpluses will mean extra profit for the farmer," Graeber declared.

SEARCH

The cutting off of normal sources of supply emphasizes the need for continued research to develop new insecticides from native plant sources, says the U. S. Department of Agriculture.
