Political Talk of All Kinds. What Will Marion Butler Do? Favorable Crop Reports. State Normal and Industrial School. RALEIGH, N. C., May 24.—Last week the talk was of what the State ticket might be; this week the talk is of how satisfactory the ticket is. The haps and the mishaps of politics were never more strikingly illustrated. Elias Carr, who was barely mentioned for Governor, gets that prize; Sanderlin, whose friends take two chances in dame Fortune's wheel, gets nothing; and Finger, whose renomination for a third term appeared to be a certainty, taking it "by and large," as the sailbetter, it is a winner

The Third party is out in all its glory and at last the Democrats can see their adversary. The county conventions are to meet June 11, and if they see proper can put up county tickets. They will also elect delegates to the district conventions which meet June 16. These will elect delegates to Omaha and will also nominate candidates for Congress. The call for these meetings was officially made today. It may happen that there will be no State convention, as the Third party conference last Wednesday re lved itself into a convention. elected eight delegates to Omaha. These are headed by Harry Skinner. w.o will be the chief orator of his party in the State.

This same convention endorsed Polk in the most gloomy language, as a candidate for the Presidency of the United States. That is his goal, evidently. He has always aimed

What of Marion Butler? many people ask. He and Polk do not agree. It is said to day that in his paper, the Caucasian, this week, Mr. Butler will renew his devotion to the Democratic State ticket. He and the other work ers failed to capture the Democratic convention. What will the Republicans do? Nobody knows. On one hand there is a demand for a State Convention and a complete ticket; with others a demand that no ticket be put out for the State. But this much is certain, that the Republicans will bend every energy and spend plenty of money to get the electoral vote in North Carolina. They want to buy 10,000 votes for that business. indirectly if not directly, in this business. They have already seen it fail in the State matter.

The campaign thus triangular-Democratic, Republican and Third party--will have another feature in the presence of the Prohibition party, whose great exponent, St. John, is now stumping the State, and whose members one and all declare they will poll the biggest vote since 1881.

Nobody will forget the campaign who never so figured before, and new influence will be at work in many

The Third party will elect members of the Legislature wherever it can It counts on securing some Congressmen, and on getting 60,000 votes for Polk, or whoever is its nominee for President. On the other hand some Democrats and Republicans will not give it over 10,000 votes.

Turning from politics it is pleasant to know that every inch of the extensive space granted this State at the World's Fair will be filled and well filled. It means great things for the State. double that, as he was believed to be implicated in the Whitechapel out-It was expected up to the moment that Deeming was sent out of the world that he would make an honest confession of his scores of misdeeds. At the beginning of March last the police at Liverpool received a dispatch from the police at Melbourne, stating that the murder of a woman had just The case involving the State's right | come to light at Windsor, a suburb of Melbourne, and that from certain facts that had been revealed it was thought that the Windsor murderer had killed another woman at Rain Hill at Liverpool.

The police of Liverpool started an investigation and soon a most horrible crime was unearthed. Beneath the hearthstone of a residence known as Dinham Villa, at Ram Hill, there were found not only the body of a woman, but also the bodies of four little childen, all of whom had been buried in a pit that the murderer had dug. After the earth had been thrown over them the surface was cemented and the hearthstone relaid. The house had been occupied by a man who had given his name as Williams, but who, it was subsequently ascertained, was Frederick Bayley Deeming, whose family resided in Birkenhead, across the river from Liverpool.

Deeming had married at Rain Hill a young and beautiful girl. Miss Emily Mather, and had sailed for Australia with her, and it was her body that had been found at Windsor, She, too, had been buried under the hearthstone of the house there and her grave was covered with a coating of Numerous swindling transactions were traced to Deeming, principally in mining lands. Detectives followed him to England, where it was found tectives, gaining admission to the house, found it occupied by Mrs. Marie Deeming and the three elder children, whose bodies have recently been found at Rain Hill. The fourth child was not then born.

Deeming later appeared in London under his alias of Williams. He paid addresses to a number of Liverpool women, among them one who, from his conversation about the "Jack the Ripper" crimes, became afraid of him. One night he had an engagement to take tea at her home, but he did not appear, and she never saw him again Shortly afterward Mrs. Deeming and the children disappeared from Rain Hill, but as Deeming had repre sented the woman as his sister, nothing was thought of their disappearance. It was not long after this that he married Miss Mather and sailed for Australia. After Deeming had killed her he became engaged to Miss Kate Rouse. ville, who was on her way to the Southern Cross gold fields in West a certainty, as some of the most in Australia to meet and marry him when she learned of his arrest for the murder of his former wife.

That he was guilty of many other easily raised. crimes, including murder, is believed by every one. He was a jail bird, hav-by the police to prevent a mob from lynching him. On May 2 the jury convicted him of murder and at the same time said that Deeming was not insane, as he claimed to be.

After he had been condemned to Court and said : "I have not had a fair trial. It is not the law that is trying me, but the press. The case was prejudiced even before my arrival by the exhibition of photographs in shop windows, and it was by means of these that I was indentified. I leave it to the jury to say if it is not the case that there are hundreds of people in Melbourne who would execute me without a trial.'

Opinion Considerably Divided as to Whether or not Blaine Will Run. World's Fair Officials Salaries

Cut Down. WASHINGTON, D. C., May 23 -The nearness of the time for the meeting of the Republican National Convention makes the probable action of that body overshadow everything else as a topic of conversation at the Capital, Will it be Harrison or Blaine, or some one of the numerous other gentlemen who have been mentioned? Your correspondent is not here to guess, but to furnish you with the news, as it is. President Harrison's action in ordering the members of his Cabinet to stay away from the Minneapolis convention, after at least three of them -Secretaries Elkins and Tracy and Attorney-General Miller-had engaged quarters and made arrangements to attend, is regarded as significant, and has revived the rumor that after all Mr. Harrison's name may not go before the convention. But the longheaded politicians regard it rather as a very shrewd move to clear Mr. Harrison's candidacy of the charge of being backed by the administration

The confidence which the Harrison people have been expressing of his nomination on the first ballot is unquestionably growing weaker, and some of them now say that there will probably be two or three ballots taken before he is nominated. The anti-Harrison people are on the contrary more confident than ever They claim that Mr. Harrison is already defeated. and that his nomination is absolutely impossible. Many people have an impression that Mr. Blaine is to be nominated in spite of his letter and his constant reiteration that he does not want the nomination, and those who are working with that end in view appear to be confident that he will accept. Others are of the opinion that the Blaine scheme is merely being worked to weaken Harrison in order to give his opponents a chance to consolidate upon some one else.

committee of the House in favor of a big cut in the salaries of the officials connected with the Exposition, beginning with reducing the salary of the Director-General from $15,000 to $8, 000, and ending by declaring that no other official should receive more than $4,000 a year. The committee also recommends that the Department of Foreign Affairs be abolished and its work taken up by the Director General. The committee does not say so; but it has long been whispered around that some gentlemen had made very expensive and extensive pleasure trips in connection with the foreign affairs department of the Exposition without gaining anything for the money spent.
