COMMUNICATIONS.

[Correspondence of the LEADER.]

FAIR HAVEN.

Our farmers are about through "laying by," and crops are looking well. Cotton is ten days earlier than usual.

The threshers have cleaned up the small grain crop, which was very poor.
The biggest crop in the vicinity was 15 bushels; several did not make as much as was seeded.

Miss Augusta Phillips is visiting her sister, Mrs. Ella Johnson, of Chatham county, who is very sick.

Mrs. Lydia Thomas, of Carabonton, visited her brother, Mr. C. H. Wom-ble, a few days ago.

Mr. R. G. Glenn, of Greensboro, was here on a business trip this week.

Mr. A. W. Tillman, who went to Georgia last winter, has returned.

Mr. Kenneth R. Campbell has gone to Kentucky.

Some of the boys report a large time at the sing the other night, but it was so dark when they left and the road was so rough they all fell down.
They threaten to "break loose" and leave next time before the moon goes down.

Rev. J. A. Hornady preached to the children at Cool Springs the third Sunday in this month. Text: Remember now thy creator in the days of thy youth. Mr. Hornaday will commence a series of meetings at this church the 12th of August.

The third Quarterly Conference for Deep River circuit will be held at Fair Promise the 12th and 13th of August.

The Christian Methodists will hold their District Conference at Mt. Union Church the 5th Sunday in August.

Everything quiet in political circles.
We believe everybody is pleased with the nomination of Capt. McIver for Judge, "even if he is a lawyer."

Summerville.

Several good showers of rain have made the crops look fine, and consequently the spirits of the farmers are enlivened.

Quite a large number of the young people of Harnett county will participate in the excursion to Carolina Beach on August 16.

Miss Schlossberg, of Fayetteville, and Miss Addie Baie, of Tokay, who are visiting the family of Mr. Taylor Kivett, are creating quite a furor in this vicinity on account of their unusual attractions. Even the young men of Dunn have caught the infection.

Miss Lina Shaw, of Lillington, an accomplished musician, has organized a music class here. MORE ANON.

BROADWAY.

Our people have about all returned from the picnic at Shallow Well, well pleased with their trip.

The rains have been falling every day since Wednesday last.

Yellow dip turpentine has advanced 5 cents. No change in virgin.

S. F. Kelly has retired from the firm of C. B. & S. F. Kelly.

Mr. J. B. Buchanan is putting a very desirable addition to his dwelling.

It is unnecessary for us to acknowledge that we are a "bit" stupid and a trifle late in "catching on," consequently we are unable to discover from the reading of "Lie Low's" article whether the information was obtained through the teamster, the team, or John Wannamaker; and as to the wallet, we are informed by the said teamster and N. D. Underwood, that they were satisfied that the corn left the wagon near the north-west end of Ben Cameron's lane. Turn on the cats. And for the reasons first stated we are unable to see the "pint" in the reference made by the Salona correspondent to Sam Bows, but should you hear no more from that source, close its obituary with this sad but appropriate line—Sung to death by Meadow Branch.

SAM BOWS

Gum Swamp.
Plenty of rain, crops are looking splendid.

Nine foxes have been killed in this neighborhood the past few days; Mr.
D. Thomas taking four of them, and Mr. H. McL. Cameron the other five.
They had borrowed several of the latter's chickens.

The freight train killed a fine milch cow of Mr. H. D. Cameron's the other day.

There has been a lot of talk about mad dogs lately, but so far as we hear not much damage has been done.
We guess there is more talk than dogs; mad ones, at least.

Singing was appointed to be at McGills on Sunday evening, but the females failed to attend, and our young men were badly disappointed.

Mr. G. W. White cut his arm the other day, while trying to loosen some tangled up balky horses, and he will not be able to work for a few days at best.

Chafin.

Times are dull, and nothing of interest to communicate.

Rev. W. G. King preached the expected sermon, last Sunday, using for a text, "Take heed therefore how ye hear." He was accompanied by Rev.
J. M. Henly—who greatly enthused the congregation, on Saturday.

What does Rom Brooks and Willie Hawley continue to visit our community for? Do you suppose they are courting? We judge they are by their going to one place every time.

We learn that Mrs. Jno. R. Wilson has a remarkable turkey. She has laid two litters of eggs, and hatched young turkeys twice, since April. The first setting is as large as laying hens, while the second has just commenced to feather. We advise all poultry raisers to get the Wilson stock of turkeys.

Miss Hester M. Patterson, who spent last week in Lillington, returned home last Sunday.

Turpentine is rising, and we are proud of it, for we have a barrell to sell and we want all we can get for it.

LONG GRAB.

Forkade.

The people in this section are about through with their crops, and are ready for the thresher, and if it don't come soon we will be without bread.
If the editor was to come we would like to have some bread for him to eat; we hardly suppose he would expect anything else in the way of something to eat. However, if he comes, and we can't give him bread, will try the potato patch. We believe in feeding folks, when they come to see us.

We hear of no disturbances in this section at present. We think Mr. T. and Mr. W. have got about quiet.

Protracted meeting going on at Pleasant Ridge this week. Hope they will have a good time, and that many sinners may be brought to a knowledge of the truth.

Mrs. D. D. is visiting at Forkade this week. N. F. A. is expected home next Saturday. Guess he will bring a lot of money with him.

Our people are feeling good over the crop prospects. All are counting on a big yield, and are already telling how many bags of cotton and barrels of corn they expect to make.

We are having much rain at this time.

Mrs. J. W. B. Thomas seems to be some better for the last few days.

Mrs. A. B. R. is still feeble; so is Mrs. J. B. T.

Rev. Mr. Churchill had a hard ague to-day, so we hear; not able to preach.

Mr. N. F. S. went to Jonesboro on the 23d, and came home that night.
He said next morning that he was going over to S. M. B's. to get something that people make out of apples.
Don't know whether he went or not.

Kerosene for Killing Bugs and Worms.

The Kerosene Emulsion is the cheapest, safest and best of all insecticides.
It will kill any insect or caterpillar that it touches. The emulsion is made as follows: Dissolve three-quarters of a pound of hard soap in one gallon of boiling soft water and add one gallon of kerosene. Pour the whole into one old-fashioned dash churn or something of the kind and churn violently for fifteen minutes. When cool the emulsion will form a white jelly not at all oily. In this condition it will keep for any length of time. When wanted for use dilute the jelly, using nine parts by measure of soft water and one part jelly. The diluted liquid must be sprayed or dashed upon the infested plants with a broom or wisp of twigs. It is harmless to the plants. Flies on the ceilings of rooms may be killed by sweeping them off at night with a broom wet in this liquid. Dogs and other animals may be relieved of fleas and lice by bathing them with it. Every one who grows field or garden plants should keep on hand a supply of the jelly and use it freely upon plant lice, caterpillars and other noxious insects.—Gerald McCarthy, N. C.
Experiment Station.

WASHINGTON LETTER.

(From our Regular Correspondent.) Washington, July 25, 1890.

Mr. Harrison is preparing, so I am informed, to take a hand in the tariff-reciprocity business. The amendment offered last week by Senator Pierce providing for the restoring of the present duties on sugar, after one year, at the discretion of the President, against such countries as fail to admit our agricultural products free, is believed to have been prepared at the suggestion of Mr. Harrison, who is unwilling to go to the extent of the Hale amendment which is in accordance with Mr. Blaine's ideas, and now Mr. Harrison, according to my informant, proposes to send to the Senate a special message urging the acceptance of Senator Pierce's amendment. He may do it, but it hardly seems probable that he would care to make such open war upon his Secretary of State, unless he really wished to drive him out of the cabinet, which no one well informed believes that he does. If Mr. Harrison sends any special message on this subject to Congress, it will be safe to wager that it will be submitted to and approved by James G. Blaine, before it goes in.

The Senate for some reason seem indisposed to devote much time to the tariff bill yet, and it remains the "unfinished business," which only comes up after two o'clock. Senator Morrill attempted to change this early in the week, but enough republicans voted with the Democrats to defeat his motion.

The working-men want a hearing in the House. The committee on Labor has reported a number of bills in which the Labor organizations are greatly interested, and a committee from these organizations has waited on Speaker Reed to ask that gentleman why it was that he did not recognize members of the Labor Committee when they endeavored to call up some of these bills; they pointed out the fact that during former sessions Labor measures had been given from four to seven days while in the present they had had none. Mr. Reed made a diplomatic answer, and now the Federation of Labor have sent him a monster petition which they hope will cause him to grant their very modest request—one day for the consideration of the Alien Contract bill and the bill amending the eight-hour law.

As anticipated, the House passed the "Original Package" bill, or rather, its substitute for the Senate bill, and the National Bankruptcy bill this week.
The rest of the week promises to be occupied by the very uninteresting but necessary appropriation bills.

The republican Senators are still in a state of uncertainty about the Federal Election bill, and just now the most of them have their "ears to the ground," carefully listening, to ascertain how the public at large feels on this matter. Should they decide to take it up after the appropriations and the tariff are disposed of, the Committee on Elections will be ready to report it with the amendments which the committee have already agreed upon, but the decision is not looked for just yet.

The House and Senate Military Committees seem to have entered a race, to see which could first get a bill through, pensioning the widow of Gen.
J. C. Fremont, and the result is that bills have been favorably reported to both Houses, the only difference being that the Senate bill names $3,000 as the amount she shall receive, while the House bill is for $2,000. The House committee has also reported a bill allowing the widow of Gen. Geo.
B. McClellan the same amount.

The influence of the Farmers' Alliance is being felt in Congress, particularly in the House; it has killed the bill allowing a clerk to each member of the House, which had been considered as likely to pass at this session.

Mr. Harrison has been reviving recollections of his soldiering days this week by visiting the encampments of the District of Columbia militia and of the Pennsylvania State National Guard. Secretary Proctor accompanied him, probably to get some military ideas.

It is stated here that the cottage occupied by the Harrisons at Cape May Point, New Jersey, was not given to Mrs. Harrison, as has been so widely published; but that it was purchased by Mr. Harrison with $10,000 good honest dollars. Why this was not told before is a conundrum which I beg to be excused from answering.
Perhaps M. H. used it as a trap to catch the Democratic newspapers.

The fifty-first Congress, although less than seventeen months old, has already lost more Representatives by death than any one Congress ever did. Nine members of the House have died since March 4, 1889, two from Pennsylvania —Samuel J. Randall and Wm. D. Kelley; two from New York—Samuel S.
Cox and David Wilbur; two from Missouri—James N. Burr; and James P.
Walker, who died this week; and one each from Illinois—R. W. Townsend; Nebraska—James Laird; and Louisiana—Edward J. Gay.
