COMMUNICATIONS.

BROADWAY.

Much has been written, and much more thought, about marriages; and it seems yet to be a problem with some, whether it be a failure or not. Now, should it prove to be a failure you may put us down as broke.

Whether the great rush of matrimony was caused by the McKinley bill, we are not prepared to say, but one thing we do know, we have invested heavily, as the following will show:

Married on the 18th ult., at Broadway, by M. M. Watson, Esq., Mr. J.
H. Thomas to Miss Mollie Buchanan, all of Moore county.

Near Broadway, on the 18th ult., by M. M. Watson, Esq., Mr. John A.
Buchanan, of Harnett county, to Miss Mary Thomas, of Moore county.

Near Chaffin, on the 24th instant, by J. B. F. Stewart, Esq., Mr. Jordan Davis to Miss Mary Clark, all of Harnett county.

Near Chaffin, on the 25th ult., by S. B. F. Stewart, Esq., Mr. John Gilchrist to Miss Mary Clark, all of Harnett county.

Near Swann's Station, on the 25th ult., by M. M. Watson, Esq., Mr. J.
A. Yarbrough of Broadway, to Miss Emma Thigpen, of same place.

On the 28th ult., at Broadway, by M. M. Watson, Esq., Mr. S. B. Womack to Miss Laura Yarbrough, of Broadway.

We would have had a greater number of marriages, as we knew quite a number who would like to marry, but the trouble is they can't get official or ministerial help. We look upon this want of ministers and officers as a public calamity. Whomsoever God has joined together, men should not keep asunder by works of omission or commission. A special commissioner for the performance of marriage ceremonies should be provided in our section. And in special emergencies, he should have the power to appoint two or three deputies.

Messrs. R. B. Douglass & Co., will erect a turpentine distillery near Holly Springs church, in a few days, if our information be correct.

SAM BOWS.

[From Another Correspondent.]

On the 18th ult., James B. McNeill and Sallie M. McNeill were married at the residence of Malcom McNeill, Esq., father of the bride, by T. A. Harrington, J. P. The attendants were E. D.
McNeill with Miss Laura McNeill, Flinn McNeill with Miss Mary McNeill, B. F. Rosser with Miss Annie McNeill, J. H. McNeill with Mary A. McNeill,

N. A. McNeill with Miss Nannie J.
McNeill, S. K. McLeod with Miss Jennie Rosser.

After an excellent dinner we had music and dancing at Mr. McNeill's and then we were invited by the groom to his father's residence where we were treated most hospitably.

After an excellent supper the guests repaired to the new residence of the groom, and engaged in courting, dancing, etc., until after day next morning, and then returned again to Mr.
C. B. McNeill's where we were treated to another splendid repast after which we reluctantly returned to our homes.
GUEST.

CHAFFIN.

Mr. Malcom O'Quin, of Arkansas, returned after an absence of twenty years on a visit to his relatives.

J. L. O'Quin, of Raleigh; George O'Quin, of Buie's Creek; J. E. O'Quin, of Aberdeen, are visiting their father, Burwell O'Quin.

Mr. C. M. Page, of Holly Springs, is visiting his uncle, Mr. Jessie Page.

Mr. W. M. Page and family, spent their holidays with friends around Chaffin.

Miss Rebecca N. Brown has returned, accompanied by her sister, Mrs. W. J.
O'Quin and her three little girls.

Christmas day the friends of J. L.
Stephens assembled to witness the marriage of his last daughter, Miss Mattie, and John Gilchrist.

Mr. Neill Stewart's children, we are sorry to say, are seriously sick with pneumonia. They have our sympathy.

"Lie Low," who has been suffering with a carbuncle on his neck, is about to recover, but is strongly threatened with that most prevalent disease—hymenial fever. He needs prompt attention.

FAIR HAVEN.

Christmas is now numbered with the things of the past, and the boys have gone to work, but alas, we did not get off to see our girls; but we had a large time with some other fellow's girl, all the same.

Mr. and Mrs. R. M. Phillips, of Jonesboro, passed through here last Thursday en route for Carthage.
Don't be in such a hurry next time, Bob.

Masters George and Joe Phillips, of Jonesboro, were visiting here last week, and they, and Richard and Frank, report a huge time hunting, etc. Just ask them; we don't know who killed the most squirrels, but they got 'em.

Miss Lydia Womble has returned from Littleton Female College.

Messrs Simpson & Tillman have their saw mill in operation, and are shipping lumber.

Mr. Wm. Kelly, of Pocket, has moved to the saw mill of Stinson & Tillman and will log the mill for them.

Santa Claus visited Mr. and Mrs. R.
W. Powers Christmas morning and left one of his girl babies.

Bascom Phillips says Santa Claus came to see him and "foteh him one of the largest dolls, he ever seed. It was a gal too."

Married Dec. 21st 1890, by R. Street J. P., Wm. Frazier to Lucinia Hannon.

Mr. C. F. Foster killed his two pigs the other day, net weight 510 lbs. We had a hog killing time the other day too, just ask R. M. P. and the other boys.

Mr. R. G. Glenn, of Greenboro, was down on business last week. NIBBOD.

The Goldsboro Argus truthfully says:
"To the eternal credit of the Farmers' Alliance will be attributed the defeat of the Force Bill in the Senate. There is scarcely any doubt but that the Ocala condemnation has put several radical Senators on their good behavior. The hearts of the farmers of America are in the right place."

Blackguard Journalism Re- buked.

The Durham Globe of the 23d inst. makes a most wanton and cowardly attack upon Rev. Baylus Cade, editor of the Progressive Farmer, which the press of the State cannot afford to let go unrebuked. We say the attack is cowardly for two reasons:

First. The Globe insinuates that the editor of the Progressive Farmer might go elsewhere than in North Carolina by some other name than the one given him by his parents, and which he has never disgraced by a questionable action during a public professional life of twenty-five years.
The editor of the Globe knew that he dare not charge upon Mr. Cade what he meanly insinuates. Now, any man who insinuates against another a delinquency which he dare not charge against him openly, acts like a coward.

Second. The editor of the Globe knew that Mr. Cade's character forbade him to resent any attack: the Globe might make upon him, no matter how dirty that attack might be.
And we say that a man who attacks another, when the character and calling of that other forbids him to visit his assailant with corporal punishment, acts like a coward.

The dirty attack upon Rev. Baylus Cade was entirely unprovoked. The Globe attributes language to the Progressive Farmer which the Progressive Farmer did not use, and then says the editor of the Progressive Farmer "lies like a horse thief." The annals of journalism in North Carolina might be searched in vain for anything that will equal in baseness this attack upon the editor of the Progressive Farmer.
For one, we desire to record our indignant protest against this attempt of an unknown interloper, upstart and blackguard to come into this State and befoul the names and characters of good men; and we call upon the citizens of Durham, and upon the good people of the State in general to see to it, that the editor of the Globe finds no opportunity to use an alleged news paper to defame the men who are trying to elevate and ennoble every class of our citizenship.

If a man of such pure and upright life as Rev. Baylus Cade cannot escape the defraction of the Globe, who is safe from its misrepresentation and foul slanders? Mr. Cade came to North Carolina five years ago to become pastor of the Baptist church at Louisburg, and is still pastor of that church. About a month ago he added to his labors and his field of usefulness by becoming editor of the Progressive Farmer. He is highly esteemed by all who know him, and is upright; sincere, courageous and able.
Outside of Wake and Franklin, and among the great army of Baptists of the State, Mr. Cade is not generally known in North Carolina; and if it were not for the fact that defraction by the Globe is a sure sign of integrity and honor, this base slander might injure Mr. Cade where he is not known.
As it is, the slanderous article of the Globe is proof positive of Mr. Cade's high character and pure patriotism.

If this dirty attack had been made upon us, we would not have noticed it; but when it is made upon one of our friends, and also threatens the dignities and decencies of journalism in the State, we cannot do less than hold the author of it up to scorn and contempt.—State Chronicle.

Many year's practice has given C. A.
Snow & Co., patent solicitors, Washington, D. C., unsurpassed success in obtaining patents. They have secured many patents on inventions that have been rejected in the hands of others.

Col. W. B. Richardson, the old republican war horse, who figured conspicuously in Moore county politics years ago; is dead. He died at his home a few miles west of Carthage on Sunday morning last, after a lingering illness.

$200,000 FIRE.

The New Round House of the Raleigh & Gaston Rail Road Burned.

We glean from the State Chronicle the following particulars of the disastrous fire which occurred in Raleigh, on the morning of December 29th, 1890:

"About two o'clock Sunday morning the prolonged and mournful sound of a steam whistle alarmed the people of the northwestern portion of the city, and almost simultaneously the bright blaze of a terrible conflagration illuminated all around the Raleigh & Gaston R. R. yards. At the same time the general fire alarm was turned in from box — at the Railroad shops and soon the department were at the scene of the most destructive and unmanageable fire Raleigh has ever had. The new round house of the roads with seventeen locomotive engines belonging to the Seaboard system, standing therein was wrapped in flames. The night was intensely cold, and although the fire boys did all that human effort could do, the massive structure and its contents of iron horses could not be saved.

Whether or not the true cause of the fire will ever be known, it is a terrible fact that, there within the blackened walls of a once magnificent building, now stand seventeen large locomotive engines charred and disfigured, if not totally ruined. Five of these were in the course of getting ready for their first trip, and cost $14,000 each. The splendid little new engine, Egypt, built in Raleigh for the Egypt road, which had made but one trial trip, is among those burned. The loss on building and engines is estimated at two hundred thousand dollars.

Another Way to Raise Revenue.

A Special correspondence to the State Chronicle contains the following: LAURINBURG, N. C., Dec. 27.—More money is needed for the A. and M.
College and for disabled soldiers.
How are we to get it with the least burden to our people?

Tennessee has a law requiring ten cents to be levied on every hundred dred dollars of real estate transfers—to be paid to the Registrar of Deeds, outside of their regular fees. Let our Legislature pass a similar law. One-third of the amount to be applied to the Agricultural and Mechanical College and two-thirds to increase the pay of our disabled soldiers.

S. M. THOMAS.

Important Land Sale!

Court of Moore county the undersigned ment of A. B. Kelly deceased will on highest bidder at the mill known as

N. C., one-half of the Mill and fixtures and Mill privileges, including dams and races and right of way of ingress and egress.

Also sixty acres more or less of land joining the land known as the Harman Thomas land. Terms: One-half cash
