BISHOP DOANE ON FAMILY LIFE EVILS.

He Deprecates Prevalence of Divorce and the Increase of Race Suicide.

Philadelphia,-There was read be- | character of the American people. fore the Federal Council of Churches of Christ a report on "Family Life," prepared for a committee by the Rt. Rev. William Croswell Doane, Bishop of the Episcopal diocese of Albany, in which were exploited the evils pre-

"Family life," wrote the Bishop, "is threatened, first, by the lowered sense of the sanctity of marriage; secondly, by the prevalence of di-vorce; thirdly, by the alarming increase in the restriction of the bearing of children. In this last matter it is the duty of the Christian Church to speak out. There has been a decline in the birth rate in every Western speaking countries; greater in the United States than in any other country. It is largely due to the loss of the sense of responsibility to God for the fruits of marriage. It is a symptom of the spirit which shirks responsibility and resents self-donial and which results in the weakening of | by a court of law."

"Concerning this evil . . committee desire to recommend that wherever possible legislation should be promoted to secure the prohibition of certain appliances and drugs and corrupting advertisements; the prosecution of all who publicly and professionally assist preventive methods, a proper and efficient standard and status of those who practice midwifery and the national recognition of the

THE HON. JAMES BRYCE SPEAKS

British Ambassador Called Upon For an Impromptu Speech Before the Southern Commercial Congress Predicts an Era of Great Prosperity For This Section.

Washington, Special. - Expressing the conviction that a great future is Bryce, the British ambassador received a notable reception from the delegates in attendance upon the Southern commercial congress, following a speech in which he declared that he is a well-wisher of the South.

The ambassador was the centre of attraction, although his visit was unexpected. Mr. Bryce came into the audience simply as a spectator, but the audience soon noted his presence, and immediately shouted "speech. speech," filled the air and he was compelled to yield to the desire of

"Since I came here eighteen months ago," said Mr. Bryce, "I have twice visited the South. I can hardly express to you the contrast between what I personally witnessed twentyseven years ago and the present conditions. Wherever I have been in the South I have been struck by the signs of activity, progress and development. see land being brought more and more into cultivation; more and more being done for agricultural methods. I saw the resources of your soil, of coal and iron, being brought to light and I saw a new spirit in the South which desires to make educational progress commensurate with material levelopment."

The ambassador pointed out the normouse difficulties with which the South has had to contend since the civil war. "Now, however," he continued, "there is a great door open before you and as one of the well-wishers of the South, who believes in its greatness as a flourishing and important part of the country, I venture to congratulate you on what is being done and to say that still greater prospects are before you."

The afternoon session was presided over by Judge George Hillyer, a member of the Georgia State Railroad Commission, who in a brief address, reviewed the work of that body in dealing with transportation companies. The principal speakers were William J. Oliver, of Knoxville, Tenn.: Clarence H. Poe, editor of The Progressive Farmer, Raleigh, N. C., and Dr. J. A. Bonsteel, of the United States bureau of soils.

Care of Our Resources.

Roosevelt and President-elect Taft publicly put themselves on record in advocacy of the issuance of government bonds for the construction of permanent improvements to conserve the natural resources of the nation. President-elect Taft presided at the joint conservation meeting at the Belasco Theatre in this city at which President Roosevelt made the principal address. Mr. Roosevelt and Mr. Taft gave their unqualified approval for the carrying out of expert plans for conservation of the nation's resources. An audience which filled the theatre and which included Andrew Carnegie, John Mitchell, Senators Congressmen and the Governors of several States, applauded every sentiment expressed.
