What is the matter with Royster & Martin's beautiful glass show windows? Hits all right!

The News-Observer will please spell our member—H-U-R. He is no kin to the New-Yorker.

We can all knock off now and prepare for the "good times" which the Republicans promised to restore if they were restored to power.—Statesville Landmark.

You can see the nobbiest line of Furnishing Goods in Royster & Martin's new show window White Front clothing Emporium.

And now it cometh to pass that many Republicans want to lick stamps and hand out your mail, but the Civil Service law standeth in their way for a time. Selah.

Royster & Martin have the largest stock of overcoats ever offered in Western North Carolina. Call and see them before you buy.

Three basements are dug out and about ready for the foundation of three new brick stores in town, and yet some people say Hickory is not on a boom.

What is the matter with Royster & Martin's Dummy Figure that wears a $2.50 overcoat? Hees all right!

We hope some persons who think more of a few dollars than they do of their honor and their vote as a free American citizen, will enjoy their ill-gotten gains.

Royster & Martin have at last gotten in their beautiful glass front and are now ready and willing to serve you with anything you want in their line.

Mr. W. G. Burkhead writes a card to the News and Observer to say that he voted the straight Prohibition ticket. We are glad Durham county got a good Democratic majority without his assistance.

When Rom Lanney went over all his friends thought him guilty of spasmodic and reckless political suicide, but suppose he succeeds. Ham Jones as U. S. District Attorney, what shall we think? Was it luck or foresight?

Catawba Keeps the Banner.

We felt a little doubtful last week about the Banner as well as everything else. It is now decided that we carried North Carolina by about 17000 and that Catawba holds the Banner four years longer.

Our most excellent Chairman, Mr. A. A. Shuford, who did so much hard work to carry Catawba by a larger majority than any other county could roll up, telegraphed to Rowan and Cleveland counties that if they could beat us to come after the Banner. Here is the reply to each:

SHELBY, N. C., Nov. 10, 1888.
To A. A. SHUFORD, Chairman,
Hickory, N. C.

You beat us ninety-nine. Keep Banner; will try again.

G. W. GIBSON, Chairman.
SALISBURY, N. C., Nov. 10, '88.
A. A. SHUFORD, Chairman, &c.

My Dear Sir:—Your telegram received. Sorry, but cannot beat 1604, but think we increased our majority over '84 more than Catawba. Hurrah for Catawba! If Rowan can't get it, I can say for the good people of my county they would rather see it remain where it is. With kindest regards.

I am very truly,
CHAS. D. CRAWFORD, Chr.

Rowan and Cleveland both did well, but Catawba has the "longest vote and knocks the persimmons."

"Take it Who Can"

The first thing some ambitious county knows Mecklenburg will be flouting that Democratic prize banner.—Charlotte Chronicle.

Well, it is up for the highest bidder. We thought Rowan or Cleveland had taken it this year, but a "fair count" keeps it yet in Catawba. Stir up, friends, we don't intend to stop at 1604 majority any more. That is getting to be a common and rather small majority. Catawba holds to you that side of the banner which says, "Take it who can," but she means to keep it at home.

It Produced Mr. I. R. C. Miller and Died.

West Virginia has become a Republican State, and it will probably be many a year before we hear of another Democratic victory in that quarter. The Democratic party in West Virginia produced Mr. Internal Revenue Commissioner Miller, and we have generally observed that after a political party has sent a statesman of Miller's calibre to the front it feels tired, and is ready to lie down for a period of rest and recuperation.—The Capitol.

The report that Mr. F. B. Alexander voted the Republican ticket is a slander. He allowed himself hauled from a sick bed under great bodily suffering to vote the Democratic ticket, straight through, as can be proven. Would his slanderers have done as much? Another false report is going around that Lee Hawn voted the Third Party ticket. Mr. Hawn voted the full Democratic ticket, as did his hireling, side by side.

The Supreme Court of this State has sustained the lower court in the case of Cross and White. They will endeavor to carry the case to the United State Supreme Court before they go to work on the public roads in Wake county, as they were sentenced to do for five and seven years. Verily, the wicked shall be punished—if they don't run away.

BOST--INGOLD.

The Marriage Bells Ringing.

A merry peal of marriage bells steals softly on the evening air. Their silvery harmony foretells the weal, we say, of this fond pair.

Married, on last evening, the 14th inst., at 7:30 o'clock in the Corinth Reformed church, by Rev. Dr. Ingold,—father of the fair bride,—assisted by Rev. L. Reiter, Mr. Chas. C. Bost to Miss Emma Ingold.

The above few lines tells the story, beautiful and simple, of two hearts that were born for each other; tell the story of one of the finest of women and of one of the soberest and most prosperous of young men.

The night was inclemency itself yet the church was filled to its utmost capacity.

Promptly at 7:30 o'clock the bride and groom, each looking the personification of joy and gladness, marched up the aisle to the time of Mendelssohn's Wedding March, rendered in excellent style by Mrs. J. W. McMillian, two of the ushers, Messrs. F. B. Ingold and H. A. Murrill, preceding and two, Messrs. M. M. Bost and D. M. McComb following the happy pair and

A nobler pair, in sooth, than they have not been seen in many a day.

The bride was dressed in cream white albatross, trimmed with white Moire silk and ribbon.

The ceremony over the bride and groom accompanied by friends and relatives, drove to the house of the brides father where congratulations were tendered and the reception took place.

A festal throng had met at night, and joy beamed in the face of all. Congratulations and good wishes were tendered by numberless people. The list of presents was extensive—some of which were very handsome.

Every thing passed off pleasantly and life lies before the young couple fair and enticing. Peace, happiness and long life to them.

Looking Ahead.

What has become of Walker? How many votes did he get? We have not heard his name mentioned in a fortnight. In most places the men who had been allured from their allegiance to the Democratic party returned on the day of election to the old safe fold and voted for honest government and lower taxes. Prohibition will be a great factor in the next State election for Governor and general election for President. Protection will become the fixed feature of the country. A huge Chinese wall will be run all around the country, men will exist on starvation wages and then Prohibition can assert itself as it will.—Wilmington Star

He Had Things Mixed.

Friend Blair clips and returns our report of his probable defeat, with the inquiry, "Where in h— did you get it, &c." We got the bad news from a clergyman, but he is excusable, having mixed up certain matrimonial calculations with the political outlook in Caldwell. We are glad, Brother Blair, to stand corrected, and that you are triumphantly elected. Your fight against radical rascality and corruption "in high places," deserved success, and you won it. We congratulate you.

A Fraud in the Land.

Look out, Alliance men! Bro. W. L. Kivett, of Liberty, writes us that an agent is going through the country selling Alsike clover seed at 75 cents per pound, and asks us to warn the farmers against the fraud. The same seed are advertised in this paper at 15 cents a pound. He claims to be from Pennsylvania. Pass him around, gentlemen. Whenever you find a fraud in your midst write the Progressive Farmer and expose it.—Progressive Farmer.

When we went to press last week the news made us believe that we had elected eight Congressmen out of nine. The result now shows that the Republicans have elected Cheatham in the 2nd district, Brower in the 5th and Ewart in the 9th, which gives them three members in the next Congress from this State. Brower is a member of the present Congress. Ewart and Cheatham will be new members.

We regret to learn that the barn and stables of Capt. J. S. Bridgers, near Catawba, were burned Monday night. It was early, soon after Mr. Jim Bridgess had fed, and as no fire had been about the premises, is charged to an incendiary. The stock was saved, but all the grain and forage, with some agricultural implements, were destroyed.

It was somewhat sarcastic, the remark of Senator Joe Blackburn at Erlanger, that considering there were now 400,000 beneficiaries upon the pension roll, and an equal number trying to get there, the Confederates must have been the best marksmen in the world, each of the riflemen having made four cripples.—Covington Commonwealth.

A young man who has recently "been there," asks if there is anything more cruel than when your best girl, who married another fellow, sends you a piece of her wedding cake with the suggestion "I'd you dream on it."

Conover Items.

The alldage that time proves all things has once more been made obvious; before election day, democrats were sure they would have a straightforward impartial, honorable man as President of the U. S. They don't think a man can be all those and swallow the Republican Platform, sectional legislation, monopolies etc., but capitalists. But the people of this State rejoice that D. G. F. will be their Gov.

The election passed off quietly but with great anxiety. Every one registered here, voted.

Mr. Pierre Young, who was burned a couple weeks ago, by the explosion of an oil can is out again.

The college grounds are being enclosed with a new fence. Mr. R. M. ple has the contract.

Miss Angus Watkins left Friday night for Rowan, where she expects to teach.

Prof. J. F. Moser's hand that has been giving him so much pain for the last four months is beginning to heal nicely.

The Reformation services held here Oct. 31st, were interesting.

Prof. R. A. Yoder has declined the call extended him by Concordia congregation. The churches he is now serving are not willing to let him off.

A horse thief, a negro named Calvin Stowe, was caught in Conover this evening. He stole the horse in the country and came through Conover about 9 a. m. He returned the evening to trade it for an ox, but his pursuers met him here and took him to jail.

Rev. P. C. Henkle, D. D., has come to Randolph, he preached the funeral of Rev. M. L. Fox, M. D., down there, Nov. 11. Dr. Fox used to practice medicine here. E. Nov. 12.

Rev. R. G. Pearson writes to Rev. Dr. Pritchard that the pamphlet copy of his sermons in outline issued at Winston was issued against his written protest. He feels very indignant at the treatment he has received and he describes the conduct of the parties concerned in very plain and emphatic terms. He says he will now publish his sermons as he delivers them and under his own revision.

Our newly elected Democratic state Auditor and distinguished fellow county man, Rev. Geo. W. Sanderlin, was in the city yesterday, and received the congratulations of his friends on every hand. He led his ticket in this county by a handsome vote, showing thereby that he was the choice, also, of a large element of the Republican party in this the county of his citizenship.—Goldshero Argus.

Our Congressmen.

North Carolina's Congressional delegation will be as follows: 1st Dist. T. G. Skinner, dem.; 2nd, H. C. Cheatham (col.), rep.; 3d, C. W. Manning, dem.; 4th, B. H. Bonn, dem.; 5th, J. M. Brower, rep.; 6th, Alfred Rowland, dem.; 7th, J. S. Henderson, dem.; 8th, W. H. H. Cowles, dem.; 9th, H. G. Ewart, rep.

It was entirely in accord with the fitness of things that the first marriage celebrated in the new Reformed church should be of the daughter of Rev. Dr. Ingold, the pioneer and father of the church in Hickory. He preached the first sermon and organized the first congregation in the town of Hickory.
