

Forever

Two little streamlets leap and flowed,
And sang their songs together;
They felt alike the summer rays
And bore the stormy weather;
The selfsame blossoms decked them both
In colors rich and rare,
And in each stream the song-birds wooed
Their bright reflections there.
And on, and on, and on they danced,
Each leaping towards the river,
And then they met to kiss and part
Forever and forever.

County Candidates at Conover.

CONOVER, N. C., Oct. 19.—The county candidates spoke here yesterday evening. There was a pretty good crowd present. The democratic candidates refrained from making speeches, except Hoyle and Cochran. Colon Yoder, third party candidate for register of deeds, tried to make a speech, but failed. Reuben Yoder, candidate on the same ticket also attempted to speak. He made the regulation third party speech.

S. E. White, third party candidate against M. O. Sherrill was present and tried to speak. He is certainly no match for Sherrill. He showed plainly his ignorance of the issues of the day.

Hoyle made a good sensible speech. He asked Whitener to tell the people how he stood as to the democratic state ticket. But Whitener said he was going to vote as he pleased. The question was asked him whether he did not say publicly at Marvin church he was going to vote the third party ticket from Weaver down to township constable. He stated here that he might have said so. It seems plain that Whitener wants to make the impression on third party men that he is going to vote their whole ticket, and make the impression on democrats that he aims to support part of the state democratic ticket in order to catch democratic votes.

Marion Butler is to speak here on November 2, 1892. C. L. C.

Another Mine Horror from Negligence.

DETROIT, Mich., Oct. 18.—A special to the News from Bessemer, Mich., says: "By the giving way of the catch at the Colby mine this morning, when the day shift was going down, the cage containing nineteen men dashed down over seven hundred feet to the bottom. One man was instantly killed and the balance all had legs broken. One had a hip smashed and many were injured internally."

Then and Now.

GROVER CLEVELAND—Greeting:

We honor you more in defeat than we would in victory, if it were won by means through which your opponent triumphed. —[Caucasian, Nov. 15 1888,

It lies not in the mouth of any Third partyite to talk about anybody "wearing a collar" Judging by their strict observance of the orders of their Marse Maryann Butler to stay away from Democratic speakings, they not only wear a collar but a block and chain as well.—[Shelby Review.

The Presbyterian Synod.

STATESVILLE, Oct. 18.—The Synod of the Presbyterian Church of North Carolina met in the Methodist church tonight and was opened with a sermon by Rev. Dr. J. M. Wharey, of Mooresville, the last moderator present, on the subject of "Individual Responsibility." After the sermon Synod was constituted with prayer and called to order by Dr. Wharey.

The roll was called by Rev. J. A. Ramsey, of Hickory, stated clerk, and ninetythree ministers and elders answered.

Rev. J. M. Rose, of Fayetteville, was elected moderator by acclamation and Rev. P. R. Law, of Lumberton, and Rev. A. T. Graham, of Davidson, temporary clerks. Ministers of other denominations present were introduced to the Synod and invited to sit with with the body, and Rev. J. H. Page, pastor of the church, made a short address of welcome.

It was ordered that the Synod adjourn to meet to morrow at 9 a. m. at Barium Springs, to dedicate the orphanage.

WAYNESBORO, Ga., Oct. 9.—If we had a kodak we would send the Constitution a picture of Joe Allen, colored, and his ox as they appeared at the election Wednesday. Joe is long and lank; his ox is broad and squatty, wide spreading horns and a tail about nine inches long. About 10 o'clock Joe rode up to the polls with a rope bridle, and old quilt for a saddle, a democratic badge tied to one horn of his ox and democratic ticket on the other, while a large Cleveland banner held aloft fluttered to the breezes. With true prophetic instinct he had tied a third party ticket to the ox's short tail, thus tipifying how it would bring up the rear when the polls closed. The Constitution ought to have that picture, and we regret our inability to furnish it.

The demand of the republican party for the passage of the force bill, and a repeal of the state laws prohibiting the inter-marriage of the races, is a long way in advance of anything heretofore advocated by republicanism. In the winter of 1877-8 the republican legislature of Iowa, passed a law making inter-marriage between the races a felony. At the time of the passage of the law, the republican majority in Iowa was something over 40,000. We call attention to these facts, merely to point out the present dangerous phase of radicalism, and to emphasize the fact that the south will be overwhelmed in ruin, if Harrison is re-elected president of the United States.

From 1850 to 1860 the country enjoyed the advantages of a low tariff—for revenue only. During that period the wealth of the country increased one hundred and twenty-six per cent. and the capital invested in manufactures increased over ninety per cent. In that proportion a return of the country to a tariff for revenue basis would be of benefit. That's the Democratic idea and hope and promise. Strikes for wages were a novelty in those days, and farm mortgages were scarce.—[Durham Sun.

Mr. BLAINE professes not to understand why Irishmen in this country vote for the Democratic party. The reasons are plain. The Democratic party is the party of home rule, of liberty, of popular rights and of the people's interests, as opposed to class interests. Irishmen who come to America have had enough already of being governed by those who assume that they can take better care of the ruled than these can take of themselves. In the second place, Irishmen, like other people, object to being taxed more than is necessary for the support of the Government in order to enrich favored classes.

Just so Carr is Beaten.

The Goldsboro Argus, as reputable a paper as there is in the State, publishes the following:

Mr. Jesse T. Gardner, of the Sauls X Roads section, reported to us yesterday that he came to town with Hopes-to-be Governor Exum yesterday and that, on the way, they held a confidential Third party conversation, and that Exum, in that conversation, said, that if he could not be elected he hoped to obtain a sufficient number of votes to split the Democratic party and elect Furches. Mr. Gardner rode with Exum—their conversation was quite explicit on the point, and he is authority for this report.

Mr. Editor—Today has been a grand day for the democrats of Lovelady township. Hon. Octavius Coke spoke for about two hours to an audience of about 250 men and women. There were about 150 voters present. Of this number there was one republican, five people's party men, and the others were democrats. The speech was a grand effort, and greatly aroused democrats to their duty. Mr. Coke was greatly applauded and after finishing his speech, a nice bouquet was presented him by Mrs. J. A. Houk in honor of Caldwell democracy. Only one "Hurrah for Weaver" was heard during the speech, and that one came from a man who was fleeing from the presence of the speaker at the time he uttered it. The so-called people's party, was conceived in deception, born of deception, and will die the death of a deceptionist. Its elder brother "the know-nothing" party will soon embrace the shade of its brother in the land of oblivion. A. P. W. Granite Falls, Oct. 18, '92.

The administration organ says: "There is scarcely a possibility of saving the Senate or the House this year if Cleveland is elected." Why should you wish to "save" either? Have not the majority a right to rule? Are you afraid to trust the people? Is republican government a failure? It is surely so if a thrice discredited minority must retain enough power to thwart the will of the majority in order to save the country from some terrible fate. The suggestion is insulting and ludicrous.

Mrs. Victoria Woodhull-Martins has just arrived from Europe to accept the nomination for the presidency of the United States, and she is represented by a New York paper as walking down the gang-plank of the ocean steamer attired in a braided blue tailor made dress, pink silk stockings and red slippers. If she sits down to write her letter of acceptance in this garb it is likely to be a picturesque document.—[Charlotte Observer.

Hon. Warton J. Green, of Cumberland, has withdrawn from the farmers' alliance, and the Fayetteville Observer publishes a strong and manly letter from him to the president of the alliance to which he belongs, giving his reasons for withdrawal. They are that the alliance has gone into politics.

The Wilkesboro Chronicle has proofs which are satisfactory to it that the republican revenue officers of Wilkes county have assessed $25 apiece for campaign purposes, and says that there are enough of them to raise over $1,100, assessed upon this basis. There was a great gathering of them at Wilkesboro Monday and the fat fried merrily.

Bishop J. M. Brown, of Washington, a distinguished prelate of the African Methodist faith and a scholar of reputation, has written an open letter advocating the election of Cleveland and advising colored people to vote for him.

The Wilmington Review says it may be accepted as a fact that there is not more than a half crop of cotton this season in Wayne, Duplin and Sampson counties.

Here is what Mr. Cleveland says: "Unorganized good intentions and idle patriotic aspirations cannot successfully contend with the compact forces of private interests and greed."

Democrats heed. Organize. Do it at once.

Advertisement for CATARRH Ayer's Sarsaparilla. Text: CATARRH Is a most loathsome, dangerous, and prevalent malady. It is a blood disease, usually of Scrofulous origin, and for which local treatment is useless. Before health is possible, the poison must be eradicated from the system, and to do this SUCCESSFULLY the disease must be treated through the blood. For this purpose no remedy is so effective as Ayer's Sarsaparilla. "For the past eight years, I have been severely afflicted with Catarrh, none of the many remedies I tried affording me any relief. My digestion was considerably impaired, and my sleep disturbed by phlegm dropping into my throat. In September last I resolved to try Ayer's Sarsaparilla, began to use it at once, and am glad to testify to a great improvement in my health." —Frank Teson, Jr., engineer, 271 West Fourth Street, New York City. "My daughter, 16 years old, was afflicted with Catarrh from her fifth year. Last August she was TREATED WITH Ayer's Sarsaparilla, and after three months of this treatment she was completely cured.
