

He Saw the Point.

He had a pretty hard day of it and had gone to bed early. When his wife entered the room he was sleeping soundly, and no man likes to be awakened half an hour after he gets asleep.

She was evidently amused at something, and as she approached the bed she exclaimed: "John! Oh, John!"

"He never moved."

"John! Wake up!" she persisted. "There's one of the funniest incidents—"

He still slept and she began to shake him.

"John! Listen to me!" she cried.

He mumbled something and she shook him again. He opened his eyes and gruffly asked what the trouble was.

"There's the funniest story in one of the papers," she said. "It's about Goldust, the millionaire, and it makes me laugh every time I think of it. I'll tell you about it."

"No, you won't," he exclaimed hotly. "What in thunder—"

"Why, John?"

"I suppose you think it's a joke to wake me up out of a sound sleep to tell me some foolish story. What do you think I went to bed for?"

"Don't you want to hear it, John?" she asked in surprise.

"No, I don't."

"Dear me," she said in a puzzled sort of way. "Don't you really like to be waked up in the middle of the night to hear a story any more than I do when I get to bed first?"

He glared at her and she retreated, but she knew that the shot had gone home. He doesn't wake her up any more and expect her to laugh at some joke or story he heard at the club.

Both in the Same Box.

There was a strange incident in Clerk Tanner's office yesterday.

Dr. Sam Stiles has a crippled-foot on which is a shoe with nothing in the toe. He was standing at the desk when Mr. Charlie Hancock, who has been paralyzed, walked in with great difficulty to present a jury slip for payment.

He weighs about two hundred and twenty-five pounds, and as he walked in, he planted himself squarely on Dr. Stiles' crippled foot. The doctor did not feel it until he started away, and then he came near falling.

"You are on my foot, sir," he said, shaking Mr. Hancock who was writing his name on the slip.

"Look out, man! What's the matter with you? I'm signing my name don't you see?" replied Mr. Hancock, who did not hear the doctor's remark.

"Tell him he's on my foot," said the doctor, turning to a bystander, and when Mr. Hancock was told where he was he said, as he shifted his position, "Excuse me, sir, but I've been paralyzed and I haven't got a bit of feeling in my legs. I didn't know I was on your foot."

"That's all right," replied the doctor. "I haven't got any feeling in that foot, and I didn't know you was on it until I started away."—[Atlanta Journal.]

He Got His Kiss.

MURFREESBORO, March 27th.—A rural "shindig," as a party is known in this country, Miss Matilda Lilywell and her lover, Reuben Sparkle, entered into an agreement that the one who should eat the larger number of biscuits should pay the other a forfeit to be named by the winner. Sparkle openly declared that should he gain the victory a kiss would be his reward, but a toss of the head from the country beauty warned him that his triumph would not be lightly won.

So, allowed only spring water or cider to moisten the feast, the party began. One after another of the light, delicate compounds of the beauty's mother disappeared until thirty-five had been eaten by the young man, while the lady passed him and drew up at the unparalleled and incredible number of fifty-seven, a feat almost beyond comparison. Giving the swooning youth a kiss to comfort him, Miss Lilywell sank into unconsciousness and is still speechless.

—How to prevent paste from turning sour is a question often asked. The following will make paste that will last a year: Dissolve a teaspoonful of alum in a quart of water; when cold stir in as much flour as will give it the consistency of thick cream; stir until all the lumps are removed; add as much powdered resin as will lie on a dime, and a half-dozen cloves. Have ready a teaspoonful of boiling water, put the flour mixture into it, stirring well at the time. In a very few minutes it will be of the consistency of mush; let it cool; cover it and set in a cool place, when needed for use take out a portion and soften with warm water, says the Scientific American.

Wrong Either Way.

"It's just like a fussy old maid, any way."

Mamma—What's wrong now, Johnnie?

"Well, teacher told me not to speak out loud, and then kept me in for whispering."

This is Meant for You.

It has been truly said that half the world does not know how the other half lives. Comparatively few of us have perfect health, owing to the impure condition of our blood. But we rub along from day to day, with scarcely a thought, unless forced to our attention, of the thousands all about us who are suffering from serofula, salt rheum and other serious blood disorders, and whose agonies can only be imagined. The marked success of Hood's Sarsaparilla for these troubles, as shown in our advertising columns frequently, certainly seems to justify urging the use of this excellent medicine by all who know that their blood is disordered. Every claim in behalf of Hood's Sarsaparilla is fully backed up by what the medicine has done and is still doing, and when its proprietors urge its merits and its use upon all who suffer from impure blood, in great or small degrees, they certainly mean to include you.

To all whom it may concern:—I take great pleasure in testifying to the efficient qualities of the popular remedy for eruptions of the skin known as P. P. P. [Prickly Ash, Poke Root and Potassium]. I suffered several years with an unsightly and disagreeable eruption on my face, and tried various remedies to remove it, none of which accomplished the object, until this valuable preparation was resorted to. After taking three bottles, in accordance with directions, I am now entirely cured.

Mr. Harrison observed that all, save one, of the members of Mr. Cleveland's Cabinet were Presbyterians. This fact rather militates against the doctrine of election, unless we consider that Cleveland was elected to appoint them.

Deserving Prais.

We desire to say to our citizens that for years we have been selling Dr. King's New Discovery for Consumption, Dr. King's New Life Pills, Bucklen's Arnica Salve, and Electric Bitters, and have never handled remedies that sell as well, or that have given such universal satisfaction. We do not hesitate to guarantee them every time, and we stand ready to refund the purchase price if satisfactory results do not follow their use. These remedies have won their great popularity purely on their merits. O. M. Royster, druggist.

To the Ladies.

There are thousands of ladies throughout the country whose systems are poisoned, and whose blood is in an impure condition from the absorption of impure matter, due to menstrual irregularities. This class are peculiarly benefited by the wonderful tonic and blood-cleansing properties of Prickly Ash, Poke Root and Potassium [P. P. P.]. Roses and bounding health take the place of the sickly look, the lost color and the general wreck of the system by the use of Prickly Ash, Poke Root and Potassium, as hosts of females will testify, and many certificates are in possession of the Company, which they have promised not to publish, and all prove P. P. P. a blessing to womankind.

A Mother of Triplets at Thirteen.

ROXBURY, Conn., March 25.—A bright-eyed, rosy-cheeked, and strong hearty Irish lass of 12 years old married Henry Thinkley, aged 16 years, eleven months ago. Her name was Lizzie Bishop.

Sunday evening she probably broke the world's record by presenting to her husband three stout, healthy, and strong-lunged children. There are two girls and one boy in the set, and their names are Josephine, Jane, and Timothy. One girl, the elder, has black eyes and black curly hair; the other girl is of light complexion, with blue eyes and light hair. The boy's eyes are blue, and his hair has a beautiful tinge of red. Each of the girls weighed 8 pounds, and the boy 7 1/2 pounds at birth.—[New York Sun.]

OFFICE OF S. CHERRY, 21 Drayton street, SAVANNAH, GA., December 16, 1891.

MESSRS. LIPPMAN BROS., Savannah, Ga.

DEAR SIR:—I would like to add my testimony to the almost miraculous effect of P. P. P. in the case of Mary Ingraham, a woman living on my place; she had a constant cough, sore throat, debility, etc., and was emaciated to a degree that she was unable to get out of bed unaided, being given by physicians she had taken the ruinous so-called Blood Medicines without the least effect, until being put under the P. P. P., she immediately began to improve and is now in as good health as ever in her life. You can refer to me at any time as to the effects of P. P. P., in the foregoing case. Yours truly, SAMUEL CHERRY, A Marshall Served, Life and Hair.

MONTICELLO, FLA., Jan. 21, 1890.

For the last eight years I have been in bad health, suffering with Malaria, Rheumatism, Dyspepsia, Dropsy. My digestion was bad, and my hair all came out, in fact I was nearly a wreck. I had taken kidney and blood medicines, which did me no good. When I began taking P. P. P., about three months ago, I was as weak as a child. I have only taken four bottles small size, and today I am a well man and my hair has "come again." I cannot recommend P. P. P., too highly. W. F. WARR, Marshal, Monticello, Fla.

I declare I don't know. I was introduced to him at Dawsons'; he was lovely, he loved me, proposed and was accepted, all in the same evening. Unfortunately I didn't catch his name.—[Harper's Bazaar.]

Strongly Endorsed.

The advertising of Hood's Sarsaparilla appeals to the sober, common sense of thinking people, because it is true; and it is always fully substantiated by endorsements which in the financial world would be accepted without a moment's hesitation. They tell the story.—HOOD'S CURES.
