 Monday morning the work train was on the main track near Connelly Springs. The engineer went to the tank not more than 300 yards away to get a supply of water and when returning, he was unable to manage the brakes and ran into the cars. Capt. Simson, the conductor, was standing at a window and the sudden jar threw him against the window breaking it and cutting his head in several places with glass. The engine and caboose came here and Dr. Baker cared for the wounded man. They stayed here till late evening and left for Salisbury. We are glad the affair is no worse.
 A charming residence of two stories, delightfully situated in North East Hickory and elegantly furnished, will be rented to a good tenant who will take care of the house and furnishings, very cheap for the winter, and probably longer.  Last Friday night there was a local disturbance in Hickory which amounted to almost a serious riot. A colored woman, Cora Dyke, became jealous of the attentions paid by her husband to Josephine Ferguson. She started out in pursuit of the inamorata, and finding her made an attempt at assault, whereupon there was a general getting together as it were, and when the smoke of battle had cleared away Cora was found to be severely wounded in the shoulder. There was a knife slit across her shoulder extending from the left breast bone over the shoulder near the neck and jugular vein to the rear and under the shoulder, almost severing the entire arm from the body. It is thought by the doctor that amputation will be necessary and in which event death may ensue. There was a trial of the case before his Honor, Mayor J. D. Elliott, and he placed the woman under a bond of $200 to appear at Superior court at Newton next term, which bond she was unable to furnish and she was therefore sent to jail.

Disquieting Political Rumors Affect the London Market.
 London, Nov. 3.—The disquieting political rumors during the past week, which under normal conditions would have been speedily dissipated have under the scare produced by the mining collapse, induced a semi-panic in every direction, besides revealing unexpected weakness in Paris and Constantinople where there has evidently been extensive wild speculation in mining shares. All the markets here have suffered more or less, the worst being mining, foreigners and Americans. After Fridays holiday the stock market re-opened in a better tone and with an appreciable advance in prices, which would have been greater but for the Moratorium declared at Constantinople.
 The American market under the influence of the Reading reorganization continues in a depressed condition.
 During the week Reading firsts lost 4 1-2; Louisville and Nashville 2 1-4; Norfolk and Western 1 1-4 and Grand Trunk preferred 1.

Oklahoma the Boomer.
 Oklahoma was opened to settlement only about half a dozen years ago and now the population of the Territory is estimated at 275,000, and the taxable valuation amounts to over $40,000,000. There are six States in the Union that had less population in 1890 than Oklahoma has now. They are Delaware, Idaho, Montana, Nevada, North Dakota and Wyoming. And Oklahoma has now more population than Montana, Nevada and Wyoming combined had in 1890. Of all the tongues and peoples that have appeared on our earth none of them can equal the Americans in the building of a State.

Ovation to General Gordon.
 General and Senator John B. Gordon, of Georgia, delivered his celebrated lecture in Indianapolis, Ind., last Friday night to a very large audience in a small hall. He was introduced by ex-Senator and ex-President Benj. Harrison in some very highly complimentary remarks, which at once brought the audience en rapport with the distinguished speaker.

At the close of Gen. Gordon's lecture he was given an ovation. As Edmund Kean would express it, the pit rose to him. Nowhere in his tour, North or South, was he better received. A promise was exacted from him to return at an early day and repeat the lecture in a larger hall. In an interview Gen. Gordon stated that he had been asked to consent to the use of his recent Chickamauga address as a reading lesson in a school-book to be used in the schools of New England.

Where did Gordon get his idea with Grady of being so liberal in views?

With two little children subject to croup we do not rest easy without a bottle of Chamberlain's Cough Remedy in the house, for the most severe attacks quickly succumb to a few doses of it.—Morrison, Colo., Bud. For sale at 25 and 50 cents per bottle by O. M. Royster, Druggist. 40-4t

Gen. Gordon and Gen. Harrison.
 At Indianapolis last Friday night Gen. John B. Gordon, known in the struggle before Richmond in the dark days just preceding the fall of that capital as "Lee's Right Arm," delivered his lecture, "The Last Days of the Confederacy." He was introduced to the audience by ex-President Benjamin Harrison in an admirable address breathing patriotism, union and amity. Not since Horace Greeley has there appeared any man who proved the equal of Harrison in composing short addresses. Their language is the most choice and their temper admirable in every particular. His trip across the continent when he was President necessitated that he should make numerous speeches, and they excited the admiration of even his political enemies. Blaine was a capital hand at that business, but he was inferior to Harrison, so is Dewey; so is Ingersoll; so is James E. Campbell. If Harrison was less austere in manner his transcendent abilities would be more generally recognized than they are.
