HAY'S TREATY--"D-N JOHN JAY."

On the 19th instant the New York Chamber of Commerce is to celebrate by a banquet at Delmonico's "One hundred years of American Commerce," dating from the treaty of John Jay in 1795. No treaty, or act of Congress was ever adopted that created anything like such a storm of indignation as did Jay's treaty when made public in 1796. Says the Mail and Express:

In Philadelphia an effigy of Jay was placed in the pillory, guillotined, the clothes fired and the body blown up with gunpowder: He was burned in effigy here on our Bowers, while Alexander Hamilton, attempting to defend him from the rostrum as he had already done in print as "Camillus," was cut with a volley of stones and retreated, saying, "If you use such striking arguments, I must retire. In Boston and in Savannah Jay was denounced and vilified. The newspaper press teemed with the most coarse and spiteful attacks. Jay was accused of having been corrupted by British gold. "Come up to my price and I will sell you my country" was put in the mouth of a New York effigy. In Charleston the treaty was solemnly burned by the hangman. At one dinner a toast was drunk, "A perpetual harvest to America; but clipped wings, lame legs and an empty crop to all Jays." The Order of the Cincinnati at New Castle expressed the hope that Jay "might enjoy all the pleasures of purgatory." The Frenchmen at New York, celebrating the anniversary of their republic, gave a toast, "The Republic of America: May she never mistake Jay-birds for eagles." On Mr. Jay's doorstep was chalked the comprehensive anathema: "Damn John Jay! Damn every one that won't damn John Jay!! Damn every one that won't put lights in his windows and sit up all night damning John Jay!!"

The Knoxville Tribune says: John Jay had resigned the Chief Justiceship of the United States and was sent by President Washington as a special envoy to negotiate a settlement between the United States and Great Britain. Great Britain was then enforcing rigidly her famous Orders in Council. Hundreds of American vessels had been seized and American citizens captured and carried off as British subjects, the vessels condemned and the cargoes confiscated and Great Britain continued to hold possession of the Western frontier posts contrary to the terms of treaty of peace recognizing the United States. These posts controlled the navigation of the Mississippi river.

Congress retaliated in 1794 by proclaiming an embargo against British ships. A resolution was moved to sequester all moneys due to British creditors and apply them to indemnifying ship owners, and on April 21, 1794, a resolution was moved to suspend all commercial intercourse with Great Britain until the Western posts should be given up, and adequate indemnity paid for injuries to American commerce in violation of the rights of neutrals. Judge Jay had been elected Governor of New York only a short time before the treaty was made public, but it killed him politically.

He was a man of great ability and spotless integrity. J. C. Martin's large and new line over coats are now exhibited at the White Front. 47ft

"KNOW THYSELF."

"An Ounce of Prevention is Worth a Pound of Cure."

These two mottoes have been the guide and life work of the distinguished Dr. Hartman, President of the Surgical Hotel. He has written more to teach the people how to prevent disease than any other living writer. He says the month of December is the most dangerous of the year. In this month cold weather begins. Colds, coughs, sore throat and hoarseness, all of which are sure to set up chronic catarrh or consumption, are acquired in this month more than any other. Thousands upon thousands begin their downward road from health to disease and death in this month.

The doctor has had a life-long experience with Pe-ru-na in the prevention of these affections. Not only has he prescribed it for a vast multitude of people, but this remedy has been his constant shield through his many years of travel and active profession. A bottle of Pe-ru-na, rightly used in the family at this season, is of value untold. Pe-ru-na cures catarrh, cures colds, cures coughs, cures la grippe, cures all diseases due to catarrhal congestions of the mucous membranes, lining the head, throat, bronchial tubes, lungs, stomach, kidneys and pelvic organs.

Dr. Hartman's latest book on catarrh and diseases of winter will be sent free for a time by the Pe-ru-na Drug Manufacturing Company of Columbus, Ohio.

PROBABLY INSANE.

The Man Who Fired a Pistol in the French Chamber of Deputies.

PARIS, Dec. 7.—The police have searched the lodgings of Gilbert Lenoir, the man who fired a revolver yesterday in the Chamber of Deputies, and have found there some anarchistic literature, but the general opinion is that the prisoner is insane.

DON'T BE TOO CONFIDENT.

That's What Chairman Carter Says to the Republican Party.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 9.—Senator Elkins gave a dinner to a number of members of the Republican national committee and other prominent politicians of the party.

While no particular object was stated for the gathering, it is known that the meeting developed into a discussion of party politics and what was best to be done during the next campaign, or, rather, preliminary to the campaign.

During a discussion of party measures Chairman Carter took occasion to say that he did not think it well for the Republicans to be too confident. Although it was apparent that victory was in the air, he said that there were reasons why it was not well to be optimistic to a degree of carelessness. He thought the grave questions before the country might well cause the Republicans to pause and reflect. The President had placed himself squarely in favor of retiring the credit money of the country. It was possible that the financial centers of the country agreed with him. There was no doubt that a course of that kind, if pursued, would make populist votes. Mr. Carter called attention to what he styled the remarkable growth of the Populist vote. He said that it had increased 240 per cent during the past three years. The great growth had not been developed in the national legislature, as there were fewer populists in the house now than in the Fifty-second Congress, but the vote in the different elections showed a populist increase, which it was well for the Republicans to take into consideration.

Mr. Carter was charged with being a pessimist, and different members of the committee said that with a platform enunciating straight Republican principles there could be no doubt of victory with any of the excellent men who were mentioned for the nomination to head the ticket.—[Ashville Citizen.]

About two hours afterwards, she was seized with violent pains and finger began to swell. She suffered the same as a person who had been snake bitten, and a doctor worked with her all night. The supposition is that it was a poisoned arrow and had retained the poison through all these years.

Convention in Lexington.

The convention of officers of the Reformed churches in Davidson county was held in the hall of the Knights of Honor in Lexington, Nov. 23d. More than fifty men present, among them three ministers of the gospel. Revs. Hedrick, McNairy and Leonard. The attendance was unexpectedly large, showing commendable interest in the welfare of the church.

A proposition was made to detach Calvary from the Upper Davidson charge and Emanuel from the Lower Davidson charge, and unite these two churches with Heidelberg church of Thomasville, thus making a new charge. The discussion was interesting, and the subject was viewed from all standpoints. It was finally decided that to take Emmanuel from the Lower Davidson charge at the present time would be a positive injury to the work in that charge, which is now going forward so well. It was felt by all that this would have been the logical course to pursue if this had been the proper time.

No other plan of rearrangement seemed to receive favorable consideration; this was due to the fact that any other arrangement would make the salaries insufficient to command the services of good pastors.

As a last resort, in order to relieve the pressure of work in the Upper Davidson charge and to give Thomasville close pastoral oversight, classis was asked to overture the Board of Home Missions to enroll Burlington as a mission, and commission the same man for Burlington and Thomasville. In this way both of these places would have good attention, and the work, though extensive, would not be too great for one man. It is hoped that the Board may see its way clear to carry out this plan.

The convention, though unable to agree upon a plan of reconstruction at the present time, was not in vain. Good results must follow such a meeting of brethren. This convention has paved the way for another in the future when all things will be more favorable.—Corinthian.

"Saved My Life"

A VETERAN'S STORY.

"Several years ago, while in Fort Snelling, Minn., I caught a severe cold, attended with a terrible cough, that allowed me no rest day or night. The doctors after exhausting their remedies, pronounced my case hopeless, saying they could do no more for me. At this time a bottle of AYER'S Cherry Pectoral was sent to me by a friend who urged me to take it, which I did, and soon after I was greatly relieved, and in a short time was completely cured. I have never had much of a cough since that time, and I firmly believe Ayer's Cherry Pectoral saved my life." — W. H. WARD, 8 Quimby Av., Lowell, Mass.

NOT LIKE OTHERS

There is a difference between medicines and medicines. Those of to-day, as a rule, differ from those of the past in many respects. Fully as great is the difference between Dr. King's ROYAL GERMETUER and the ordinary medicines of to-day. It is unlike them in

THESE FIVE THINGS:

1. It does not taste like a medicine. It is as pleasant to take as lemonade and makes a most refreshing drink.
2. It never nauseates the most delicate stomach.
3. It does not swap off one disease for another. It does not set up one form of disease in order to relieve another as is so often the case.
4. It contains no alcohol or opium in any form and is always harmless even when given to a babe one day old.
5. It does not patch simply, it cures. It reaches as nothing else does to the hidden sources of disease in the blood and removes the cause. It does this with an ease and power that have never been equaled.
