NORTH CAROLINA. NEWS OF THE STATE.

Senator Hill will be at Charlotte May 20th. The law firm of Morphey & Eaves, of Marion, has been dissolved by mutual consent.

Mr. Wm. B. Nisbet, real estate and insurance agent of Charlotte, and a prominent citizen, is dead. Grip has taken a fresh lease on the lower part of Mecklenburg county. It is prevailing to a great extent.

Rev. Dr. J. W. Carter, of Raleigh, will preach the baccalaureate sermon at the State University, May 29th. A report from Winston says that the Norfolk and Western railroad has leased the Roanoke and Southern, and that the latter is now known as the Winston Salem division.

A child was born in Durham last week with a natural head but a body having the appearance of a dog, says the Recorder. It was born dead. The mother was a colored woman.

An engagement has been made by which Rev. Thomas Dixon, Jr., of New York, will lecture on the evening of July 2, at the Teachers' Assembly at Mecklenburg. On the 3rd of July he will preach a sermon to the Assembly.

From the Marion Free Lance we learn that Buck creek furnishes fine sport for the followers of Nimrod; that three deer have been killed in Buck creek this year and that Robert Strook has killed six wild turkeys since December.

Rev. T. A. Boone, pastor of the Methodist church in Lexington, has just finished a series of sermons, says the Lexington Dispatch, on the second coming of Christ. He feels sure that the millennium will occur in the year 1897, just five years from now.

Mr. H. A. Murrell, editor of Press and Carolinian, of Hickory, and Miss Louise V. Thompson, of Goldsboro, were married in St. Paul's Church, Goldsboro, on the evening of March 2nd. The bridal train are now sojourning for a short season in Florida.

Mr. D. D. Coffey, of Caldwell, has returned from a visit to points in Kansas, says the Topic, and reports the Coffeys, Estes, Chambers, Woodys, Harshaws and other North Carolinians in that part of Kansas to be prospering. Times are flush and money plentiful there.

The Concord Standard says Will A. Misenheimer, Esq., of No. 5 township, Cabarrus county, was at work at his saw mill when he stumbled and fell. "The edge of his shoulder struck the saw while running at full speed. It drew him in before he could be rescued by assistants, and the saw cut its awful course right through his neck, his head rolling down on one side of the saw and his body falling on the other."

The Atlanta Constitution says: Several old deeds in the court house at Charlotte, N. C., are dated in the fifth, ninth and tenth years of independence, and they are all dated from 1776, the Mecklenburg year of independence, and not from 1776, the year of the Philadelphia declaration. One of the deeds is witnessed by a governor of North Carolina. Dr. George W. Graham, of Charlotte, has had the deeds photographed. They certainly tend to establish the authenticity of the Mecklenburg declaration.

The Asheville Citizen says: Asheville's hustling little sister just over the way, Hendersonville, is apparently moving along in a great shape. Work is rapidly progressing on the new hotel built by a stock company. The building is situated in a beautiful spot near the depot, and when finished will be a very imposing structure. It is a 3-story hotel, and will cost about $25,000. There are many other improvements going on in the town, and the inhabitants thereof are confidently looking for a time of great prosperity.

ANCIENT GREECE. PLATO AND ARISTOTLE.

To human beings in the early ages of the world, fire was a rarity and a mystery. They could not understand it, they knew not how or whence it came, and they looked upon it with terror as something which had come to destroy.

To make a digression here on the way in which some words come about long ago, before there was any written music, the Celtic harp or minstrel used to wander from place to place, singing their ballads of romance or war, always accompanied by a long staff or walking stick.

Each had his appointed meeting place, his separate school, his individual and peculiar tenets. The death of the latter, eight years ago. During the first years of their married life they visited together the capitals of Europe where the woman who was the grandmother of the one and who had been the wife of the other once reigned a social queen.

THE BIG BONAZZA MINE. A Snake Hole in the Ground Out of Which Mackay Took $150,000,000. John Russell Young in Mackay's Magazine. I was strolling with Mackay some years ago in Virginia City, when we looked down a smoking cavity in the ground that was soon lost in the darkness, and at the mouth of which a windlass was slowly grinding.

THE CONCORD STANDARD. Several old deeds in the court house at Charlotte, N. C., are dated in the fifth, ninth and tenth years of independence, and they are all dated from 1776, the Mecklenburg year of independence, and not from 1776, the year of the Philadelphia declaration.

THE ASHEVILLE CITIZEN. Asheville's hustling little sister just over the way, Hendersonville, is apparently moving along in a great shape. Work is rapidly progressing on the new hotel built by a stock company.

THE RALEIGH DISPATCH. The Raleigh correspondent of the Richmond Dispatch, under date of March 2nd, says: The public event here to-day was the funeral of ex-Governor William Woods Holden. The flags on the Capitol and City Hall were at half-mast, this being the only official notice of the event.

THE WASHINGTON LANDSLIDE. Senator Vance proved too heavy a weight yesterday for the United States Senate even. He tilted his chair back, a habit nearly all the Tar Heel gentlemen have contracted.

NEWS IN GENERAL.

THE CREAM OF OUR ECONOMIES. What is happening out of the States? Illinois has five aspirants for the Presidency. Philadelphia contributed $50,000 to last year's relief of the starving Russians.

THE NEW YORK NEWS. The New York News of March 2nd says: On January 3rd the Rev. Dr. A. C. Dixon, the pastor of the Hanson Place Baptist church in Brooklyn, preached on "Involuntarism as it is." A morning newspaper published the sermon, and quoted the doctrine as saying that an investigation made by Anthony Comstock a few years ago, in relation to pictures and literature passing through the mails, it was discovered that Col. Ingersoll represented the publishers of the pictures and publications.
