

The latest news from Hawaii contained nothing displeasing or disappointing to the Administration.

The placid smiles of President Cleveland and Secretary Gresham since the last news from Hawaii was received indicates that it contained nothing displeasing or disappointing to them.

The administration has never been more dignified than during all of the senseless excitement and criticism which followed the publication of Secretary Gresham's recommendation concerning Hawaii.

It is probable that the National Democratic committee will open headquarters in Washington in time to take a more active part in the preliminary work of the Congressional campaign of next year than it has been accustomed to take.

In all of the departmental annual reports which have been completed there is one noticeable feature that is essentially democratic, recommendations looking towards economy in public expenditures.

The New York World of Sunday says: The Rev. Dr. Charles F. Deems, the venerable pastor of the Church of the Strangers, died at 9:55 o'clock last night at the home of his son-in-law, Mr. Marion J. Verdery, No. 145 West Seventy-sixth street.

It was several months ago that the genial, kind-hearted pastor was stricken down with paralysis. From the first none of his friends believed that he would survive more than a few weeks, but his indomitable pluck and his remarkable vitality enabled him to carry the battle on until this time.

He returned to North Carolina a year later, and shortly afterwards was elected delegate to the General Conference to be held in St. Louis. While on this mission he was elected President of the Greensboro Female College, in North Carolina, and for five years he had charge of that institution.

Dr. Deems was the author of various books and has published numerous sermons. Some of his works are: "The Home Altar," "What Now?" "Annals of Southern Methodism," "Life of Jesus," "Gospel of Common Sense," and "My Septuagint."

Dr. Deems was under the medium height, sparely built. He was of a nervous, impulsive temperament, and was rapid in coming to conclusions. His deportment was characterized by a high-toned courtesy and genial warmth.
