"Our daughter, Blanche, now fifteen years of age, had been terribly afflicted with nervousness, and had lost the use of her right arm. She had tried St. Vitus Dance and tried the best physicians, with no benefit. She has taken three bottles of Dr. Miles' Nervine and has gained 35 pounds. Her nervousness and symptoms of St. Vitus Dance are entirely gone. She attends school regularly, and has recovered completely. Her appetite is splendid."

NORTH CAROLINA NEWS.

An Epitome of the Week's News, Culled from the Papers and Compiled.

MYSTERY OF A MISSING MAN.

A Big Catch of Fish in Eastern Carolina Waters—Fires—Barn Burned—Accident—White Man Married a Negro Woman—A New Cotton Mill—Legislature Hurdles—Four Men—A Long Ride—April Fool—Sale of a Ship—Mount—Breed for Libel—New Suit—A Fine Colt.

A Bicycle club has just been organized at Shelby.

Eggs are more plentiful this Easter than ever before.

Some ladies have started up a broom factory at Rutherfordton.

Editor Miller, of the Shelby Aurora, has just been sued for libel, in Gaston county.

The Sampson Democrat has bought a new Spring suit. It is a fine fit, and the Democrat is vastly improved.

A white man named Proctor, was arrested and committed to jail, at Wilson last week, for marrying a negro woman.

Primaries are being held all over the State now for the nomination of Mayor and Aldermen, at the regular May elections.

Capt. E. W. Kerr, of Sampson county, has a fine thoroughbred colt. It is a colt of Nancy Hanks, and promises to be a flyer.

As Spring advances, the baseball teams in Gaston county, all over Carolina, and from now on, the record of games will be continuous.

Dr. G. J. Rittenhouse, left Hickory, N. C., on horseback, last week for New York. He will ride his horse all the way. It is quite a jaunt.

Work has begun on a 4000-spindle cotton mill at Rutherfordton. Mr. W. H. Norris, a practical mill man is superintendent and general manager.

Monozite, the mysterious, is being mined largely now, in the counties of Cleveland, McDowell, Rutherford and Burke. A man who has Monozite on land is strictly in it.

Mr. Jarman did not rest satisfied with what he had accomplished as I went to work to see what was the past event in the man's career that caused him to seem in such constant apprehension.

Mr. Jarman's investigations at last led him to suspect that the man was Ben Hill, a negro who in 1883 escaped with two other prisoners from Gravel county jail—one was recaptured, but Hill and the other succeeded in making good their escape—Hill, it seems, was in South Carolina the last heard from. He was in jail here for killing his wife. His home was in James City, but they had been off to work in the country. He choked her to death and threw her body under Bachelor creek bridge. The coroner's jury thought at first she was drowned, but the marks were on her throat—the truth discovered and Hill jailed.

Mr. Jarman on Thursday, the 28th, had Mr. R. R. Blackledge, who still remembers and felt sure he could identify Hill to come and see if the man in jail was he. A telegram announces that Mr. Blackledge says the man is Ben Hill.

So, after the lapse of many years, Hill is likely soon to be on trial for the greater crime and may at last answer for it with his life.
