THE COMING MAN.

"And so when the age of moral warfare shall succeed to the age of passionate gain-getting, as succeed it must in the movement to higher forms; when blind economic forces have wrought their tangle of inequality and injustice of hatred and suspicion; when calculation and machinery and combination can only weave the web more fiercely; when the whole people in some hour of national need shall seek for the man of heart and faith and truth, and who will not falter, nor lie, nor steal, they shall turn hither for succor in their vaster peril as they once turned to a simple Virginia planter to free them from a stupid king and a stubborn parliament. And they shall find him—in the sweet justice of God—in the land where once for conviction's sake his fathers shunned nothing, compromised nothing, reserved nothing, until the sublime struggle wore to a close at Appomattox."

The above beautiful clipping is from a recent address of President Alderman of the University, who is one of the most original thinkers and talkers in the State. One can but remember that his "simple Virginia planter," was the richest man in the colonies at the time John Adams nominated him for the Chief Command, which would seem to show that money was as powerful in proportion as now.

We fear the new man will be of the Croker and Tom Platt order despite the optimistic picture drawn by President Alderman. If there is anything certain in this age of Trusts, it is that we are marching under the banner of Hamilton to a centralism more and more pronounced with the passing years and that Virginia planters are now at a decided discount. This is not "a movement to higher forms," we regret to say; but it is the real movement.

SENATOR PRITCHARD'S PARK.

Some time since the Asheville Citizen informed us of the design entertained, it was then said, by Senator Pritchard and Judge Day, late of the Cabinet, to urge upon the next Congress the establishment of a National Park in Western North Carolina. We were struck with the idea as one of our own long cherished notions which had been given up as impracticable; but the way the Citizen sets it forth gives a ray of hope that with the right sort of pull it may be realized. Our own vote on location would be for Grandfather Mountain, the crown of the Blue Ridge system, with the head waters of Watauga, Linville, the Toe, Banner's Elk, John's River and Wilson's Creek taken in—say 440 square miles, from Caldwell, Mitchell and Watauga counties.

But Black Mountain with Caney river, the South Toe and Swannano would do as well if the purpose be, as it should be, to preserve a bit of nature as it looked when Noah left the ark. In a conversation last week in Charlotte with Senator Pritchard on this subject, we found him alive to its importance and determined without reference to location to urge the measure. "The Sapphire region is working for it and should be a valuable agency in securing the passage of the desired legislation."

This being the formative period of public opinion in so staid a State as ours upon the winning issues of 1900 the play for position upon the part of the Charlotte Observer and several of its hostile contemporaries is of more than personal interest. The Observer continues to insist that its notions of men and things are in the highest degree unpopular with the party managers, which admission causes all its "guardians and administrators," as it delights to name them, to stroke their beards afresh and sharpen anew their pencils. Meantime the Observer is losing no readers and its slightest suggestion to the drivers of the State team is of more avail than all the road directions of its critics. This is a condition by no means to our liking, but we can see no especial gain to the good cause of 16 to 1 in denying it, and we at least are not taken in by the modest minority plane from which the Charlotte paper talks. The excellent gentlemen of the press who may think we are off our base in the above, would do well to look over the home-field and catalogue the men of their community in secret, if not open, sympathy with Charlotte and its paper. In the woods it is the other way; but the towns send the delegates—at least the "walking delegates."

THE FILIPINOS.

From the Baltimore Sun.

That the Filipinos are not unworthy our sympathy we have the high authority of Admiral Dewey himself for asserting, whose words have been often quoted and printed, viz: "These people, the Filipinos, are far superior in their intelligence and more capable of self-government than the natives of Cuba, and I am familiar with both races." And Commander Ford, in his recent interview, given through the Sun, thus enlarges upon what his superior officer has said: "The Filipinos pictured in the sensational papers are not the men we are fighting; they are entirely distinct and separate. The fellows we deal with out there are not ignorant savages fighting with bows and arrows, but an intelligent, liberty-loving people, full of courage and determination. The idea that the Filipino is an uncivilized being is a mistaken one. * * * They have the intellect and the stamina to govern themselves, and have done it for three hundred years, although under the rule of Spain. They were the clerks, the bookkeepers, the assessors, and managed the entire machinery of government. * * * As for their condition now, as far as I can see, they are stronger, more determined and more skillful in the art of war than when the fighting out there started, and, as the days go by, they increase in strength and knowledge, having nine or eleven millions of people to draw from. They are armed with Mausers, the best rifle in the world, and are far better marksmen than the Spaniards. At first they shot high and missed, but now they have caught on, and aim low with deadly effect. They have a good government now, which they are operating successfully, and preserve law and order."

Another gallant Marylander, Lieut. Henry Page, of the regular army, lately quoted in these columns, has borne similar testimony in a letter from the front to the Chicago Times-Herald as to the excellence of the civil government which the Filipinos have succeeded in maintaining even in the midst of war, and especially in regard to their solicitude for education. Professor Worcester, in his book, written before Mr. McKinley made him a commissioner, compares the Tagals, the race to which Aguinaldo belongs, to the Japanese, and a German writer, Ferdinand Blumentritt, in the Deutsche Rundschau for May, says that the Malays of the Philippine Islands are very intelligent and bear a striking resemblance to the Japanese. So eager for education are they, he states, that their percentage of illiterates is two-fifths that of Spain. General Greene, of the United States Army, who had just returned from the Philippines, told the American Peace Commissioners at Paris (his testimony will be found in Senate Document No. 62, printed with the treaty) that more than 50 per cent. of the Filipinos can read and write; a recent writer in the New York Independent says 83 per cent. The proportion of literates in Italy is only 58 per cent., in Russia 31 per cent., and in Spain, according to the census of 1887, only 28 1/2 per cent.

Help... Nature

Babies and children need proper food, rarely ever medicine. If they do not thrive on their food something is wrong. They need a little help to get their digestive machinery working properly.

will generally correct this difficulty. If you will put from one-fourth to half a teaspoonful in baby's bottle three or four times a day you will soon see a marked improvement. For larger children, from half to a teaspoonful, according to age, dissolved in their milk, if you so desire, will very soon show its great nourishing power. If the mother's milk does not nourish the baby, she needs the emulsion. It will show an effect at once both upon mother and child.
