

not reënlist. The army call, however, was so great that he reënlisted immediately after camp last year and will be seen at Camp Glenn again this year.

FIRST SERGEANT RUNS FOR CONSTABLE

1st Sgt. Battle Wheeler of Company "D," 120th Inf., is now running for constable of Durham Township. Wheeler is making a good run and the Company is supporting him. Wheeler has been a member of Company "D" for about seven years. He is perhaps one of the best known enlisted men in the 120th Inf. He is especially remembered for his work as judge of the Kangaroo Court at Camp Glenn.

Additions to Family

The following men of Company "D" have had an addition to their family since the last camp: 1st cl. private, Alonza Phipps, 1st cl. private, Charles Parrish, private James Duncan, private Willie McBroom.

Expectant Marriage

Cpl. Forest Adams has announced to the Company that he will perhaps take unto himself a wife during the Easter holidays.

(Editor's note: Did he? Let us know in the next issue.)

In Hospital

1st cl. private, John W. Phipps was back at drill last drill night after an absence of two weeks, due to the fact that he had been in the hospital recuperating from injuries he had received in an automobile accident.

3RD BATTALION HEADQUARTERS COMPANY 120TH INFANTRY ASHEBORO, N. C.

The local National Guard unit, Headquarters Company, 3rd Bn. 120th Inf., attended the showing of "The Cock Eyed World," a story of soldiers, written by a soldier, Laurence Stallings, at the Sunset Theatre Friday evening, April 18, as guests of Mr. J. F. White, Jr., owner of the White Amusement Company, operators of the theatre. The company attended in uniform and made a splendid showing and impression before a capacity house. In extending the invitation to the company, Mr. White declared that "we are taking this means to express our appreciation for what your organization is doing for this community and the young men of the community."

Clifton Thomas, son of Mr. and Mrs. G. N. Thomas, of Asheboro, has been accepted for enlistment in Headquarters Company, 3rd Bn. 120th Inf. Several other young men are on the waiting list and will be accepted into the unit when vacancies are available.

The company's armory was used Tuesday evening, April 8, by the congregation of the Asheboro Presbyterian church for a "congregational party." Lieut. C. J. Lovett, commanding the company, was called on for the speech of welcome, and served as one of the three judges for the stunts which served as a part of the entertainment for the evening.

The company has purchased through personal and public contributions athletic equipment for the armory and has installed a creditable gymnasium.

Non-commissioned officers' schools are held each Friday evening at 7:30 o'clock, attendance on part of the non-coms being compulsory. By authority of company order, any non-commissioned officer who misses two of these schools in succession without valid and satisfactory reason is automatically demoted. The attendance since this order was issued has been 100 per cent at every school.

COMPANY F 120TH INFANTRY CHARLOTTE, N. C.

Greetings, fellow guardsmen, from the old reliable Company F. To the Editor and Publisher, we wish the best of luck. If our whole-hearted support counts for anything, you certainly have it.

The Hornets Nest Riflemen, as a member of the Centennial Legion, composed of the oldest companies in each of the thirteen original States, have been honored by the City of Charleston as the recipients of an invitation to attend their 250th Anniversary Celebration. However, to the disappointment of the outfit, we were unable to accept.

Perhaps we shall make the trip to Boston to attend the celebration there Lt. Charlie Riley, instructor and Sgt. which we have been invited to as part of the Legion.

On the Thursday night before our annual Federal Inspection, May 8th, the whole gang is having a smoker and Dutch Supper. (No, Rufus, that doesn't mean that each man pays his whole share—this is on the Company). Sort of makes a fellow feel like the Thanksgiving Turkey. Entertainment will be in charge of Sergeants Chaplain and Bernstein, and they're promising a hot-time-in-the-old-town affair.

On Friday night, May 9th, we are privileged to have as our honor guest, Captain Page, the Inspecting Officer. Many of us will recall his visit of last year with much pleasure.

It is our opinion that our own Captain Boyette is due for much chest expansion that night, for every man says he's prepared to "do his stuff."

And after the Battle of Wits, comes the Battle of the Mahogany, and take it from us that's going to be some dance. As has been the custom for the past few years, the Engineers and Band are holding their inspections in conjunction with ours. Good music, entertainers, and what-have-you. We dislike to belittle any body's rank, but there's going to be so many Generals and Colonels present that the Captains will not fail to realize that the Stars outshine the Bars. Boy! what will we, poor enlisted men, mean that night.

THAT'S ALL.

HORNETS NEST RIFLEMEN

COMPANY M 120TH INFANTRY WILSON, N. C.

With inspection out of the way, Captain Henry B. Culbreth, Commander of Co. M 120th Inf. N.C.N.G., turns his attention to plans for getting his men in shape for the Annual Encampment this summer. Last drill night a tentative schedule of work was outlined before the company was dismissed, and the men urged to extend themselves in their efforts to make Wilson's military organization the best company of soldiers that ever attended Camp Glenn.

Captain Culbreth announced that the non-commissioned officers school would continue to meet every Monday night until further notice, and outlined a course of study as follows: Machine gun drill in charge of 1st Lt. J. E. Paschal with 1st Sgt. O. B. Beland as assistant instructor; School of the Company and Platoon, with 2nd
