

Physiotherapy Put To Practice

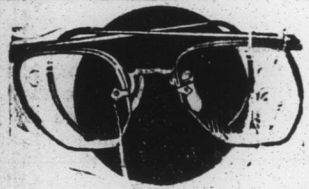

CAMP BUTNER, May 16.—In line with the Army Medical Department's policy of making available to all army personnel the finest and very best latest facilities to medicine, in ultramodern physiotherapy department already handling in excess of 250 patients daily has been installed at the huge U. S. Army General Hospital, Camp Butner, N. C., commanded by Brig. Gen. Roy C. Heflebower.

Under the direction of Capt. Irving I. Weiner, chief of the physiotherapy section, this department at present is specializing in the treatment of trenchfoot, although it is completely equipped for every kind of practical physiotherapy and handles many other types of ailments.

The scope of the work carried on by Capt. Weiner and his competent staff of three officers and 20 enlisted men and women is far reaching. There are a number of intricate-looking mechanical devices, lamps, baths, heat cabinets and gymnasium apparatus arranged in neat order in the several large and small rooms that comprise the physiotherapy department.

According to Capt. Weiner, the goal of the physiotherapy section is to restore the soldier patient to normal, or if this is impossible, at least to approach the normal as nearly as possible so the man can carry on. This goal is reached by the use of various scientific devices and a program of exercises designed to correct deformities of the body or any restrictions of movement due to stiff joints resulting from injury.

The soldier is treated for as long a period as is found necessary to obtain the maximum benefits that can be expected from physiotherapy, and in the majority of cases this results in return of normal functions, the captain asserted.

Surplus Property For Farmers

Farmers and rural areas generally are assured equal opportunity to supply their needs out of surplus property as it becomes available, the Surplus Property Board said. The Board's Regulation No. 3, effective June 1, 1945, sets up procedures for channelling critically needed trucks, machinery, and equipment into agricultural uses. Farmers, however, should not expect a flood of surpluses at give-away prices, the board warned. First and second purchase priorities given by the Surplus Property Act of 1944 to federal agencies and State and local governments will absorb many surplus items, but trucks, machinery and equipment in critical short supply will be distributed on the basis of greatest need. Disposal agencies designated by the board are directed to cause appropriate quantities of surplus property to be sold or channeled into rural areas so that farmers and farmers' cooperative associations will be given opportunity to buy. Sales will be made to distributors, dealers, wholesalers, farmers' cooperative associations or retailers who customarily distribute in rural areas, and who certify that the surpluses being purchased will be so distributed. The Office of War Mobilization and Reconversion has announced that surpluses will be sold mainly through dealers and distributors, not to individual consumers.

An exception to that rule is provision for direct sales to veterans who wish to buy surpluses to establish themselves in business, the professions or agriculture. Office of War Information.

Coal Short Weights Cited
Raleigh, May 16.—The shortage of coal is resulting in some purchasers' not receiving full weight, according to C. D. Baucum, of the State Department of Agriculture, and these purchasers have been requested by him to notify the Weights and Measures division of the department of any discrepancy in coal weight or of the failure of any company to issue a ticket showing the gross tare and net weight of the purchase. Baucum said that a coal dealer in Taylorsville was convicted last week of selling coal at short weight and of failure to issue a ticket, and that reports of other violations of the Weights and Measures law with regard to the sale of coal are reaching his office.

"Although the N. C. Coal Dealers Association has shown its eagerness to cooperate with us, there are still some dealers who are selling their coal at guess-weight," said Baucum.

Counseling And System Work At Camp Bulner

CAMP BUTNER, May 16.—A well coordinated, yet simplified program of Counseling and Classification is aiding in the readjustment of Overseas Veterans in the Camp Butner Convalescent Hospital.

Entering the Counseling and Classification Building, the returnee is told how the Reconditioning Program will benefit his own specific case. This additional orientation, coupled with the guidance offered by a staff of trained counselors, start the soldier on the road to convalescent recovery.

This job of interviewing the patient is divided into three phases: Pre-Reconditioning Counseling, where the man's educational, civilian, and military specialties are discussed; Re-Counseling or Follow up Counseling, where the patient is given the opportunity to discuss problems that may have arisen since the initial interview; and Final Counseling; the ironing out of difficulties before a man is returned to duty or separated from the Service. In each case, "duty" means those who are to return to full service, limited service, or limited service for a period of six months.

Patients whose physical condition permits them to return to duty are classified and ear marked for a specific Army job which is in keeping with their physical limitations. These men receive refresher military training and are sent to an Army Redistribution Station for a 21 day delay enroute. Returnees incapable of further Army Service are discharged from the Service as soon as possible.

While patients in the Camp Butner Convalescent Hospital all men are physically reconditioned and given the opportunity of taking one or more of the educational, vocational, or farming courses offered under the Reconditioning Program. Educational activities being widely varied, the Counseling and Classification Branch may adequately place the soldier in a program of study that will benefit him upon his return to duty or release to civilian life.

Our fighting men will do their job. But we must do ours!

And right now, the most important job we have is to meet our personal quotas in the Seventh War Loan drive!

Those quotas are big. Uncle Sam needs $7,000,000,000 from individuals. For this loan is really 2 in 1—there had been 2 drives in 1944, by this time. So now—we've got to do a two-loan job in one.

But Americans have never failed to meet a War Bond quota yet—and we won't fail now! So find out what your quota is—and meet it!
