

Veterans Head Not To Be Chosen Soon

Delay Expected In Naming Person Man For Post.

County Commissioners will meet again Monday morning in regular first of July session at ten o'clock at Person Court house, but because of the heavy schedule of budget business it is not regarded as likely that the Commissioners will arrive at a decision in the naming of a Veteran's Administration assistant here, although $2,700 was appropriated by the Commissioners at their last meeting to pay for the salary of a Veteran's Administration director.

The director, it is expected, will be chosen from the ranks of returning Person veterans of World War II, and according to one spokesman for Lester Blackwell Post, the American Legion, should be a man with proper personnel training. Such a director will be expected to work in cooperation with the State Veteran's administration, a commission for which met this week in Raleigh.

The State Commission has already chosen a chairman and announced objectives and it is thought that a State Director of Veteran's Affairs will be named shortly. Now on a State committee for region four of the Civil Service commission are two North Carolinians, Dr. Frank T. deVyver, Duke University, and George M. Zvey, of Charlotte.

Report from Raleigh concerning the newly formed State Veteran's commission reads as follows: Burgin Pennell, of Asheville, newly chosen chairman of the state veterans commission, announced today that the commission will select a director at an early date and that state offices will be established in Raleigh shortly after July 1.

Pennell said the number of district veterans service officers will be gradually increased.

In addition to the state and district veterans commission, Pennell said, the commission through its director and other personnel will go into the counties, and in co-operation with city and county officials, veterans organizations, civic clubs, Chambers of commerce, merchants' associations, American Red cross, organized labor and all public agencies rendering service to veterans, will appoint a local veterans committee. This committee, he said, will vary in size according to the requirements of the local situation and will be kept small enough to function as an executive body.

It will be the duty of the local commission, he added, to co-ordinate services of all public and private agencies in the community rendering service to veterans and their families. Subcommittees will be appointed as follows: Employment, education, pensions, compensations, GI laws, insurance, psychiatric service, business advice and counsel, personnel and family problems and publicity.

In a statement issued here today the commission listed its four principal functions as follows: To collect data and information as to facilities and services available to veterans, their families and dependants and to co-operate with agencies furnishing information or service through the state.

To co-ordinate, harmonize and perform the services now being rendered by various state departments, agencies, and instrumentalities to the end that such state services may be more efficiently and economically administered.

To furnish a means of contact and co-ordination between veterans and all governmental, private or civic facilities.

To assist veterans, their families and dependants in the presentation, processing, proof, and establishment of such claims, privileges, rights, and benefits as they may be entitled to under federal, state or local laws, rules and regulations.

Gen. Edwin Parker Back From Europe

New York, June 24.—Gen. Jacob L. Devers, commander of the Sixth Army Corps, returned from Europe today and declared the situation in Germany becoming so orderly that "we are thinking of taking arms away from a majority of those in the Army of Occupation."

"The Germans," he said, "will obey when they know they have met their master, and they know we are their master now."

The four-star general, who also is deputy Supreme Allied Commander, Mediterranean Theatre of Operations, was one of 12 general officers who came home in four planes. Twenty-four field grade and junior officers and 26 enlisted men accompanied them.

General Devers discussed the European situation at a press conference, along with Gen. Joseph C. McNarney, commander of American forces in the Mediterranean Theatre; Lt. Gen. William H. Simpson, commander of the Ninth Army; Maj. Gen. Edwin P. Parker, Jr., commander of the 76th Infantry; and Col. Creighton W. Abrams, of tank force fame.

General Devers, McNarney and Simpson agreed that:

1. Hitler is dead.

2. Non-fraternization orders in Germany must be relaxed.

3. Germany has been so utterly defeated that there is no chance of her starting a war for a long time.

General Devers said "Our only job" now in Germany was to see that the people "do not get out of step."

"They are easy to handle," he said. "They are in the habit of taking orders. They look to their superiors for orders and at the moment we are their superiors."

Carolina Curers May Go To Help Canadian Growers

OTTAWA—Arthur MacNamara, director of Selective Service, said tonight word has been received from Brig.-Gen. William C. Rose, vice-chairman of the War Manpower Commission at Wilmington, that the commission will give every assistance in securing workers to aid in curing the Southwestern Ontario tobacco crop.

For some years experienced workers have not been available in Canada to work on the tobacco harvest, and this situation has been accentuated by the war. Due to labor shortages in the United States, it is difficult to obtain workers from the tobacco growing states.

However, with the assistance of the War Manpower Commission officers of the employment service are more optimistic of being able to meet the needs of tobacco growers in Ontario.

Live News from CAMP BUTNER

CAMP BUTNER, June 28.—Just as its counterpart, the U. S. Army General Hospital has installed a system of Occupational Therapy for the patients who are slowly regaining mental and physical strength through a program of shop and craft work, the Camp Butner Convalescent Hospital is utilizing a similar plan to speed the convalescent patient on the way to substantial recovery.

Occupational Therapy, or simply "OT" as it is called in the convalescent hospital, is a term now applied to that form of treatment consisting of various forms of activity—mental or physical—that relieve the patient either permanently or temporarily of his injury. Under careful supervision and guidance, the battle work with clay, metal, leather, plastics, and other materials that not only result in the making of useful articles, but aid in mending broken bones and healing injuries.

One recently returned battle vet explains the whole "OT" program in these words. "I heard about the opening of the OT Building from one of my buddies, but I had no interest in woodworking or the rest of the crafts offered. One day, more out of curiosity than anything else, I went down to 8th and D Streets to see just what was going on down there. I guess you could have knocked me over with a feather when I saw about 40 or 50 men engaged in crafts and activities that a few weeks before would have been impossible for them to accomplish. And another thing that amazed me was that the fellows were making useful articles; one of my buddies was making a table and chair for his little girl and another was completing a copper serving tray. Down at the other corner of the room, I saw several from my old outfit making plastic picture frames, wallets, ash trays, bracelets, and bookends. Since then I have gone down to the OT Shop for a few hours each day. Not only am I doing something constructive, but I'm regaining some of the strength I lost in my arms."

Open each day from 10 a. m. to 5 p. m. to the convalescents, the former 8th Street barracks has been entirely remodeled and repainted. Since its opening on June 13, the shop has accommodated almost 500 men who are presently quartered in the Convalescent Hospital battalions, and each man is permitted to select the craft on which is going to work.

Supervised by a staff of trained Wacs, most of whom were teachers and instructors before the war, each convalescent is individually instructed in the craft and work in which he has expressed an interest. The staff headed by T-5 Virginia Stewart, includes T-5 Janet Hager, Pfc. Lee Meyers; Pvt. Josephine Syracuse; Pvt. Barbara McCally; Pvt. Elizabeth Rodent and Pvt. Beatrice Carsok, all of the Wac Convalescent Hospital Medical Detachment. Also assisting in the Occupational Therapy building, of which Miss Emily Vezin is Occupational Therapist, is Mrs. Caroline Chichester, of Durham.

Butner Soldiers Go Fishing In Perry's Pond Area

CAMP BUTNER, June 28.—Fishing was an important topic of conversation this week at the U. S. Army General Hospital, Camp Butner, N. C., as the more ardent "Isaac Waltons" awaited their turn to go on one of the periodic fishing trips sponsored by Educational Reconditioning Service, or told their fellow anglers of the big one that got away the day they went out on one of the hospital's rod-and-reel excursions.

With Lt. Bernard Colmes, chief of the educational reconditioning section of the hospital, in charge, patients were taken on two fishing trips this week. On both occasions scene of the event was Perry's Lake, located near the highway between Durham and Wake Forest, N. C., where permission for the veterans to fish free of charge was granted by the owner, O. M. Perry, 526 Holmway St., Durham.

Twenty-five patients were taken on each trip this week. Men from the surgical wards who, when out Tuesday reported rather poor luck, but patients of the neuro-psychiatric wards were enthusiastic when they returned to the hospital late Friday afternoon—with fish.

Youths Married In Name Only

Chicago.—Gloria Welsh, who has Edward Waybright, 16, who have been married twice and parted by annulment once, were placed under juvenile court supervision today and ordered by Judge Frank Bicek to remain apart until they are legally of marriageable age.

Under the ruling, the young people may live together in 13 months, when Waybright becomes 18. Gloria will be 16 a year from yesterday, legal age for a girl. The couple eloped to Kentucky and were married early this year, but that marriage was annulled by a court ruling they could see each other only on Sunday, but that their visits were to be unsupervised.

On Sunday, May 13, they went to Waukegan, Ill., and were married by a justice of the peace. Their case was continued until September 19. The court said the second marriage is valid if not protested, and that the parents have agreed to allow them to remain married if they abide by the court's ruling separating them until they reach legal marriage age.

Under our Australian ballot law, if an elector desires to vote for a person whose name does not appear on the ticket, he can substitute the name in writing it in with pencil or ink in the proper place and making a cross mark in the blank space at the left of the name so written in, and the name written in will be treated like any other name on the ballot.
