Anyone desiring this work is invited to see the Postmaster and make a bid for the performance of such service on an hourly, daily or monthly basis. Such bids should be made as soon as possible, says Carlton.

Washington, Jan. 24.-President Truman presented a number of new legislative requests to Congress in his state-of-the-union and budget message Monday.

In addition, he renewed requests for enactment of 21 legislative proposals he has submitted to Congress since last May 28 and which are still pending.

Here are the President's major new requests:

1. Extend selective service, by the end of March, beyond the present May 16 expiration date, unless the campaign for volunteers produces enough manpower to maintain 2.000,000 men in the armed forces through 1946.

2. Extend the price control act a full year beyond its present June 30 expiration date. 3. Continue food subsidies, with a stipulation that they be removed as soon as it is indicated that the cost of living will decline from its present level.

4. Extend the second war powers act beyond its present expiration date of June 30.

5. Act immediately to provide authorization for ceiling prices on new and old houses and act as soon as possible on a permanent housing program

6. Consider legislation to replace the 1937 sugar act which expires this year.

7. Provide a permanent federal school-lunch and milk program by the start of the school year in September.

8. Provide adequate protection for the health and safety of federal workers, including unemployment compensation and provision for return to their homes from wartime service at government expense. 9. Provide means for Hawaii to acquire statchood, with similar action in regard to Alaska as soon as it is determined that this is what the Alaskan people desire.

10. Provide a greater measure of self-government for the people of the Virgin Islands and the people of the District of Columbia.
