Miss Laurita Houston And Earle Barlow Wed In Formal Church Ceremony

Miss Laurita Houston, daughter of the Rev. and Mrs. Ben H. Houston of Roxboro, and Earle Berkley Barlow, son of Mr. and Mrs. E. H. Barlow of Abington, Mass., were united in marriage in a formal ceremony at Edgar Long Memorial Methodist church in Roxboro Saturday, June 15, at 5:30 o'clock. The double ring ceremony was used and the bride's father was the officiating minister. The church was beautifully decorated. Palms, ferns, and floor baskets of cut flowers formed a background above which shone a lighted cross. The chancel was banked with candles its entire length, these being intertwined with fern and baby breath.

A program of wedding music was given by Mrs. Kendall Street, organist, Miss Billie Street, violinist, both of this city, and Miss Naomi Smith, vocalist of Benson. Miss Smith sang "Love, Here is My Heart" by Lao Sileu, "Ich Liebe Dich" by Edward Grieg and "My Heart At Thy Sweet Voice" from Samson and Deliah by Saint-Saens. Miss Street's violin selections were "O Promise Me", de Koven and "In My Garden", Isabel Firestone. The traditional wedding marches were used and Schubert's "Serenade" was played during the ceremony.

The bride was escorted and given in marriage by her brother, Ben H. Houston, Jr. Her wedding gown was of white duchess satin, featuring a molded bodice, square neckline, long fitted sleeves and full gathered skirt with a short train. Her veil was of silk net, and her bouquet was a single cala lily tied with fern and a shower of satin streamers. Miss Beverly Barlow, sister of the bridegroom, of Boston, Mass., was maid of honor and the bride's only attendant. She was gowned in blue-green net with a satin bodice and carried a large colonial bouquet of yellow carnations and gypsophelia tied with satin streamers.

Harold Pride of Lynn, Mass., was best man for the bridegroom, and ushers were Lawrence Featherston, Elmo Mitchell, Barden Winstead, and Norfleet Umstead of Roxboro. The bride's mother wore a costume of black and yellow chiffon. Her hat was a fall model of yellow felt and she wore yellow gloves. Her corsage was of yellow daisies and tulleman ribbons. The bridegroom's mother was gowned in grey with pink accessories and a corsage of pink carnations.

Following the ceremony the bride's parents entertained the wedding party and out-of-town guests at a reception and buffet supper at their home. Mr. and Mrs. Reginald Harris greeted guests at the door. Miss Claire Harris introduced to the receiving line composed of the bride's parents, the bride and bridegroom, and their attendants. Miss Dot Hooks and Allene Grier of Smithfield presided in the gift room. Misses Elizabeth and Anne Margaret Long had charge of the bride's book on the front porch. This handsome book with backs of white lacquer covered with white lace and pages of air sprayed color was made by the bridegroom and his best man. The bride's table was covered with a linen cloth of lace and cutwork and was artistically arranged with magnolias with their glossy leaves, and white gladioli were also used. Friends of the bride served cream puffs stuffed with chicken salad, ham biscuits, bundles of cheese straws, cinnamon apples, and d'oeuvres. At one end of the table Mrs. Hal Hood served punch and seated at the other Mrs. Thel Hooks dispensed decorated bridal cakes. Sixty guests were present.

The bride was educated at Greensboro College and the bridegroom at Vesper George School of Art in Boston in the field of industrial design. The bride wore for traveling a dress of black taffeta with white accessories. After a short wedding trip they will be at home at 20 Fay Street, Boston, Mass.

Numerous social courtesies were extended the bride during several weeks prior to her marriage in Roxboro and in Smithfield, where she lived before coming to Roxboro.

Mrs. R. H. Gates Dinner Hostess

Mrs. R. H. Gates entertained at a lovely dinner party at Hotel Roxboro Wednesday evening at 6:30 o'clock. An attractive centerpiece of white roses flanked by white candles graced the table. Guest were: Mesdames Frank Wright, J. R. Garrett, L. G. Stanfield, A. E. Jackson, E. L. Wilkerson, J. I. Brooks, D. S. Brooks, G. M. Fox, C. C. Critcher, R. E. Hamlin, and the hostess, Mrs. Gates.

Miss McFarland And Mr. Bowes Wed In Simple Rites

In a late afternoon ceremony, Miss Sophia McFarland, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Lester McFarland of Oxford, and Lawrence Bowes, son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Bowes of Longhurst, were united in marriage Saturday, June 8, at the home of the Rev. J. N. Bowman, officiating minister. Only a few friends and relatives were present.

The bride chose for her nuptial a white taffeta dress with white accessories, and her corsage was of red roses. She is a graduate of Berea high school and is now employed by Collins and Aikman Corporation.

The bridegroom has recently been discharged from the Army after serving 20 months overseas.

Immediately after the wedding, Mr. and Mrs. Bowes were entertained at dinner at the home of the bridegroom's parents. Guests included members of the families and a few intimate friends. During the evening they left for a wedding trip and on their return will make their home at Longhurst.

Mr. and Mrs. Washington Reade Jones Celebrate Silver Wedding Anniversary

In observance of their twenty-fifth wedding anniversary, a reception was held Friday evening by Mr. and Mrs. Washington Reade Jones at their home at 228 Court street from 8 to 11 o'clock. Prior to her marriage, June 14, 1921, Mrs. Jones was Miss Frankie Woody.

On arrival guests were greeted by Mrs. E. E. Thomas and Miss Claire Harris, both of whom attended the wedding of Mr. and Mrs. Jones, their daughter, Miss Doris Woody Jones, and Miss Hilda Shoemaker, niece of Mrs. Jones.

The entire lower floor of the home was thrown en suite, with white gladioli, larkspur, gypsophelia and feverfew attractively arranged in the reception room. At the entrance to the dining room tall baskets of white gladioli were placed on each side of the door and here Mrs. Frank Howard, another guest at the wedding, greeted the callers. Pouring punch were Mrs. Thomas, B. Woody and Mrs. George Thomas. Covering the table was a lovely imported Chinese cloth with hand embroidered and handmade lace insets. Centering it was the three-tiered wedding cake topped with the proverbial lucky silver horseshoe festooned with orange blossoms and bearing the figures twenty-five in silver. Beneath the cake was a large reflector flanked by tall white cathedral candles in silver holders, with large white satin bows. The antique buffet with its white marble top was banked with white flowers in crystal holders and tall burning tapers.

Serving daintily decorated individual cakes, nuts, and mints all in traditional green and white, the cakes holding orange blossoms, roses and other bridal motifs with mints shaped as Calla lilies, were Mrs. Baxter Wade, Mrs. Al Penry, Mrs. W. R. Minor, Mrs. Clyde Swartz, Mrs. George Bullock, Misses Bivins Winstead and Mamie Love Barnette.

Mrs. W. H. Adair guided the guests to the guest book which was in charge of Mrs. W. I. Newton, at whose Golden Anniversary Mrs. Jones assisted in welcoming the guests.

From here, Mrs. R. D. Bass directed the guests to the gift room where a beautiful array of silver, crystal and china was on display. Mesdames Clifton Hall and Maxie Daniel were hostesses there.

Saying goodbyes was Miss Ruth Newton, another guest at the couple's wedding. During the evening, Miss Sarah Thomas, who had charge of the music, played appropriate recordings. Approximately 250 guests called during the evening.

Miss Mary Anne Howard United In Marriage With William T. Harvey

Saturday afternoon at five o'clock in the Concord Methodist church, Miss Mary Anne Howard, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charlie Howard of Roxboro, became the bride of William Thomas Harvey, son of Mr. and Mrs. F. T. Harvey of Burlington. The Rev. Daniel Lane, pastor, officiated at the double ring ceremony.

The church was decorated with pedestals of white magnolias, gladioli, fever few and ferns and burning tapers in seven-branched candelabra.

Music was by Mrs. C. E. Winstead pianist, whose selections included: Schubert's "Serenade" and "Liebestraume". The traditional wedding marches were used for the processional and recessional. Charles Riddle, soloist of Burlington, sang "Because" and the "Lord's Prayer" at the close of the ceremony.

The bride, who was escorted and given in marriage by her father, wore a white imported lace gown over satin styled with a fitted bodice. Sweetheart neckline, with tiny buttons of self-material fastened down the back extending below the waistline. The full-length sleeves were fastened at the wrist with a finger band and ruffle. The long skirt ended in a court train, and her finger-tip veil of illusion fell from a headdress of pearlized orange blossoms. Her only ornament was a string of pearls, gift of the bridegroom. She carried an arm bouquet of white bridal flowers centered with a lavender orchid and tied with satin streamers.

Miss Alma Pulliam, maid of honor, and Misses Sallylou Kirby and Musette Riggs, bridesmaids, wore identical dresses of white net over satin with shoulder length veils and matching gloves. They carried bouquets of mixed summer flowers with contrasting streamers. Misses Carolyn and Dot Howard were junior bridesmaids, and they wore dresses of blue net and head bands of mixed flowers.

Master Don Howard was ring bearer, carrying the rings on a satin pillow. Little Miss Donna Howard, flower girl, was dressed in white taffeta and lace and carried a basket of lace.

Best man for the bridegroom was Marshall Ross of Burlington. Ushers were Lake Harvey, John Lee, and Calvin Terry, of Burlington, and Dailey Frederick, Jr., of Roxboro.

The bride's mother wore a dress of summer sheer print of blue with white accessories. Her corsage was of pink roses. Mother of the bridegroom was attired in navy blue sheer with matching accessories and a corsage of white gardenias.

Immediately following the ceremony, the couple left for Florida and on their return will be at home in Burlington. For travel, Mrs. Harvey chose a white gaberdine suit with matching accessories and the orchid from her bouquet.

Mrs. Harvey graduated from Roxboro high school in 1944, and prior to her marriage she held a position as receptionist in Alamance General Hospital, Burlington. Mr. Harvey, a graduate of Burlington city schools, has recently been discharged from the Navy after having served three years in the Pacific area.

Following the wedding rehearsal Friday night the bridal party, members of the immediate families, and intimate friends, were entertained at a cake-cutting given by the bride's parents at their home. Decorations were in the traditional green and white with the three-tiered wedding cake the center of attraction. In charge of the bride's book was Mrs. W. C. Pulliam. Mrs. E. E. Carver assisted in the cutting of the cake and Miss Sybil Ann Winstead presided at the punch bowl. Numerous social courtesies were extended the bride before her wedding.
