About this graduation section

Dear graduates,

You have finally reached your graduation day – an occasion to celebrate all that you’ve accomplished, while you anticipate what lies ahead.

We at The Courier-Times congratulate you and offer this 2011 graduation tab in your honor, to help you freeze this moment in time. We hope that it will stir memories of your achievements, and all the people and moments that have been special to you during this time in your life.

A special thanks to everyone here at the C-T who contributed to the production of this tab. The hard work of our advertising team is evident on these pages. Phyliss Boatwright lent some reporting by way of a story on two 2011 PCC graduates, and Greg Phipps recorded the athletic accomplishments of some of Person High School’s seniors. Everything you see before you came together thanks to Carol Garrett, who exercised her expertise in layout and design with this year’s edition.

Thanks also to all those at the schools who took time out of their busy schedules to submit information and help line up interviews.

Our cover features graduates from four of our high schools (1 to r): Hannah Womack, Roxboro Community School, valedictorian; Carson Allen, Person High School, student body president; Candace’ Johnson, Zion Christian Academy; and Ashley Thaggard, Roxboro Christian Academy, valedictorian.

Graduating class of 2011, we wish you much success and exciting discoveries as you set off on the path that your education has helped prepare you for.

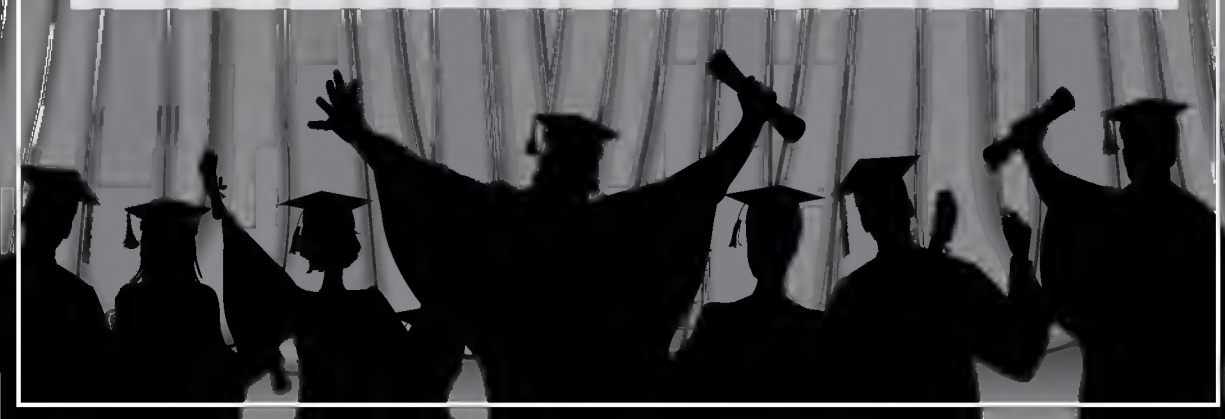

— Grey Pentecost
