Mr. and Mrs. Davis, who have been guests at the Perkins for sometime, went on a fishing trip to New Bern this week. Mrs. Davis came to Southern Pines in a serious condition as a result of the flu. She is now the picture of health and a good ad for Southern Pines air and board.

For the past two weeks the beautiful pink dogwood trees at the home of Mr. L. A. Gould on May street have been strong enough attraction to draw hundreds of tourists to see them. They are a pretty sight and will probably last another week. These trees are hard to raise and Mr. Gould made several attempts before succeeding.

The favorite outdoor sport last Saturday was going over to Pinehurst to watch the professional golf tournament. The day was perfect, and the scene was a beautiful one to the eye, as well as full of interest to the golfer. It was appreciated by a large number of Southern Pines people.

Dr. E. E. Holt, an eminent oculist and eye-surgeon of Portland, Maine, who with his wife and daughter has been spending the winter at the Juneau, has decided to make Southern Pines his permanent winter home. He finds such a need here for his services that he has decided to build a residence, and has plans already drawn for a twelve-room house, to include offices, which he expects to have erected this summer on Massachusetts avenue.

Now that prices have dropped somewhat, and labor is more plentiful, building is going merrily on, and the sound of the hammer is heard in the land. The Rev. Mr. Gardner has just completed a large addition to his home on May street, adding greatly to its appearance, as well as to its comfort. On the next lot, the large garage and storehouse at the rear of Mrs. Weed's home, is being converted into a dwelling-house with two cozy apartments, one upstairs and one down. Mr. J. R. Robinson has charge of the work. Over on Ridge street, work is going on apace on Mr. Packard's new house, which is evidently to be a big one. Dr. and Mrs. Perry have moved into their fine new house on Ridge street near Vermont avenue, and are to be all-the-year-around residents.

Too Much Youthful and Other "Spirits" in Combination

Considerable undue hilarity was in the air one night last week, due to too much moonshine. Three young men of the town were the ringleaders and attempted to smash up things in general. They broke the Jefferson Inn electric sign and did some damage at Farreys garage. It was said that the night officer was not on duty, but the officer says that the boys passed him and gave no signs of any trouble. He went to another part of the town for a while and they broke loose.

The authorities took the case in hand the next day and found sufficient evidence to hold the boys on more than one count. They felt that as the boys were young that undue harshness that would be a detriment to their future was not advisable. The boys were dealt with firmly and in a manner that leaves them in no doubt as to what will happen if any such attempts are started again.

Discreet Bishop

A bishop was addressing a large assembly of Sunday-school children, and wound up by asking in a very condescending way: "And, now, is there any little boy or girl who would like to ask me a question?" After a pause, he repeated the question, whereupon a little shrill voice cried out: Please, sir, why did the angels walk up and down Jacob's ladder when they had wings?" "Oh! ah, I see," said the bishop. And now, is there any little boy or girl who would like to answer Mary's question?"—Liver pool Post.
