We shall be pleased to show samples of job printing done at this office, as we are making a specialty of this line of work, and in quoting you prices you may depend upon it that the prices include good material and a class of work, which has not heretofore been furnished the people of this section. Try us and see.

An important sale of real estate took place this week when Messrs Junge & Beck sold to Mr. E. M. Fuller, eight acres of land adjoining Southern Pines. The land was formerly owned by Mr. D. A. Shaw and was considered a valuable possession. Mr Fuller will build a residence next fall.

A full store—L. C. Huffines
A fruitful building—Root & Wakeman's.

The people's cash store—A. Winestine's.

The furniture emporium—H. H. Powell & Sons.

A place of rolling fun—Stringer's Bowling Alley.

A place of business—Johnson's Pharmacy.

The last of the series of lectures, all of a high order, will be given at the Baptist church next Wednesday night, by Rev. Chas. A. G. Thomas, entitled, "A Fat Man on the Noiseless Nag." It will be replete with humor and pathos. The proceeds go towards the debt on the Baptist church for the chairs and electric light fixtures. Let us all go and enjoy the lecture, and help these people who have tried so hard and long to help themselves.

The April number of Food and Helps, contained an interesting article on the Rose-land Industrial Union, from which we intend to make extracts as soon as we have more time and space. Rose-land will, in the near future be one of the most attractive places of this section. It has the right kind of push in it.

THE FREE PRESS acknowledges this week from Mr H. G. Bishop, Editor and Proprietor of the Otsego County Democrat, Oneonta, New York who is here recovering an accident received in his office a short while ago. He is also patentee and owner of Bishop's Perforating attachment, which has gained such an enviable reputation among the more advanced printers of the country. He spent $700 on getting it complete and is justly proud of his invention.
